N.C.O. KILLED IN CRASH

Lorry Leaps Off Road In Hill Pass

One British soldier was killed and two seriously injured when a military truck containing a party of N.C.O.'s of the Middlesex Regiment, somersaulted off the Customs Pass road, above the Kowloon Dairy, yesterday morning.

The dead man is L/Cpl. Alfred Lawlor, aged 30.

The injured men are L/Sgt. Marshall and L/Cpl. Williams, who are lying in the Military Hospital, Bowen Road.

L/Cpl. Morrish was also admitted to hospital but was not detained, while the driver of the truck, Pte. Bullen is under treatment at barracks for superficial injuries.

Occupants of the truck were a reconnaissance party of eight N.C.O.'s drawn from "A" Company who had been engaged in exercises in the vicinity of Junk Bay and were on their way back to barracks.

TRUCK SKIDS
Owing to the treacherous nature of the road the truck was proceeding with extreme caution. A short while after passing over the bridge above Kowloon Dairy, a spot which has earned for itself the reputation of being a death-trap owing to the several serious accidents which have already occurred there, the truck, for some reason not yet determined, but believed to have been the greasy nature of the road following a fall of rain, skidded in towards the bank.

It then skidded to the side of the road and toppled over, somersaulting some 30 feet to finish on its wheels in the bed of the stream.

WILD PLUNGE
Several of the men were thrown clear as the truck went over the edge and by clinging to a grass verge, succeeded in escaping without injury. The others, L/Cpl. Lawlor, L/Sgt. Marshall, L/Cpl. Williams, L/Cpl. Morrish and Pte. Bullen, accompanied the truck in its wild plunge.

Lawlor was trapped under the truck and is believed to have been killed instantly, and Marshall and Williams also suffered severe injuries.

A passing car reported the matter to the Kowloon City Police Station and the Military authorities were communicated with and aid instantly despatched.

FUNERAL TO-DAY
After first-aid had been administered, the injured men were removed to hospital and a Military Court of Inquiry immediately summoned.

It is learned that the truck was recovered yesterday afternoon. L/Cpl. Lawlor, who is survived by his father at Kennington, London, will be buried this afternoon with full military honours.

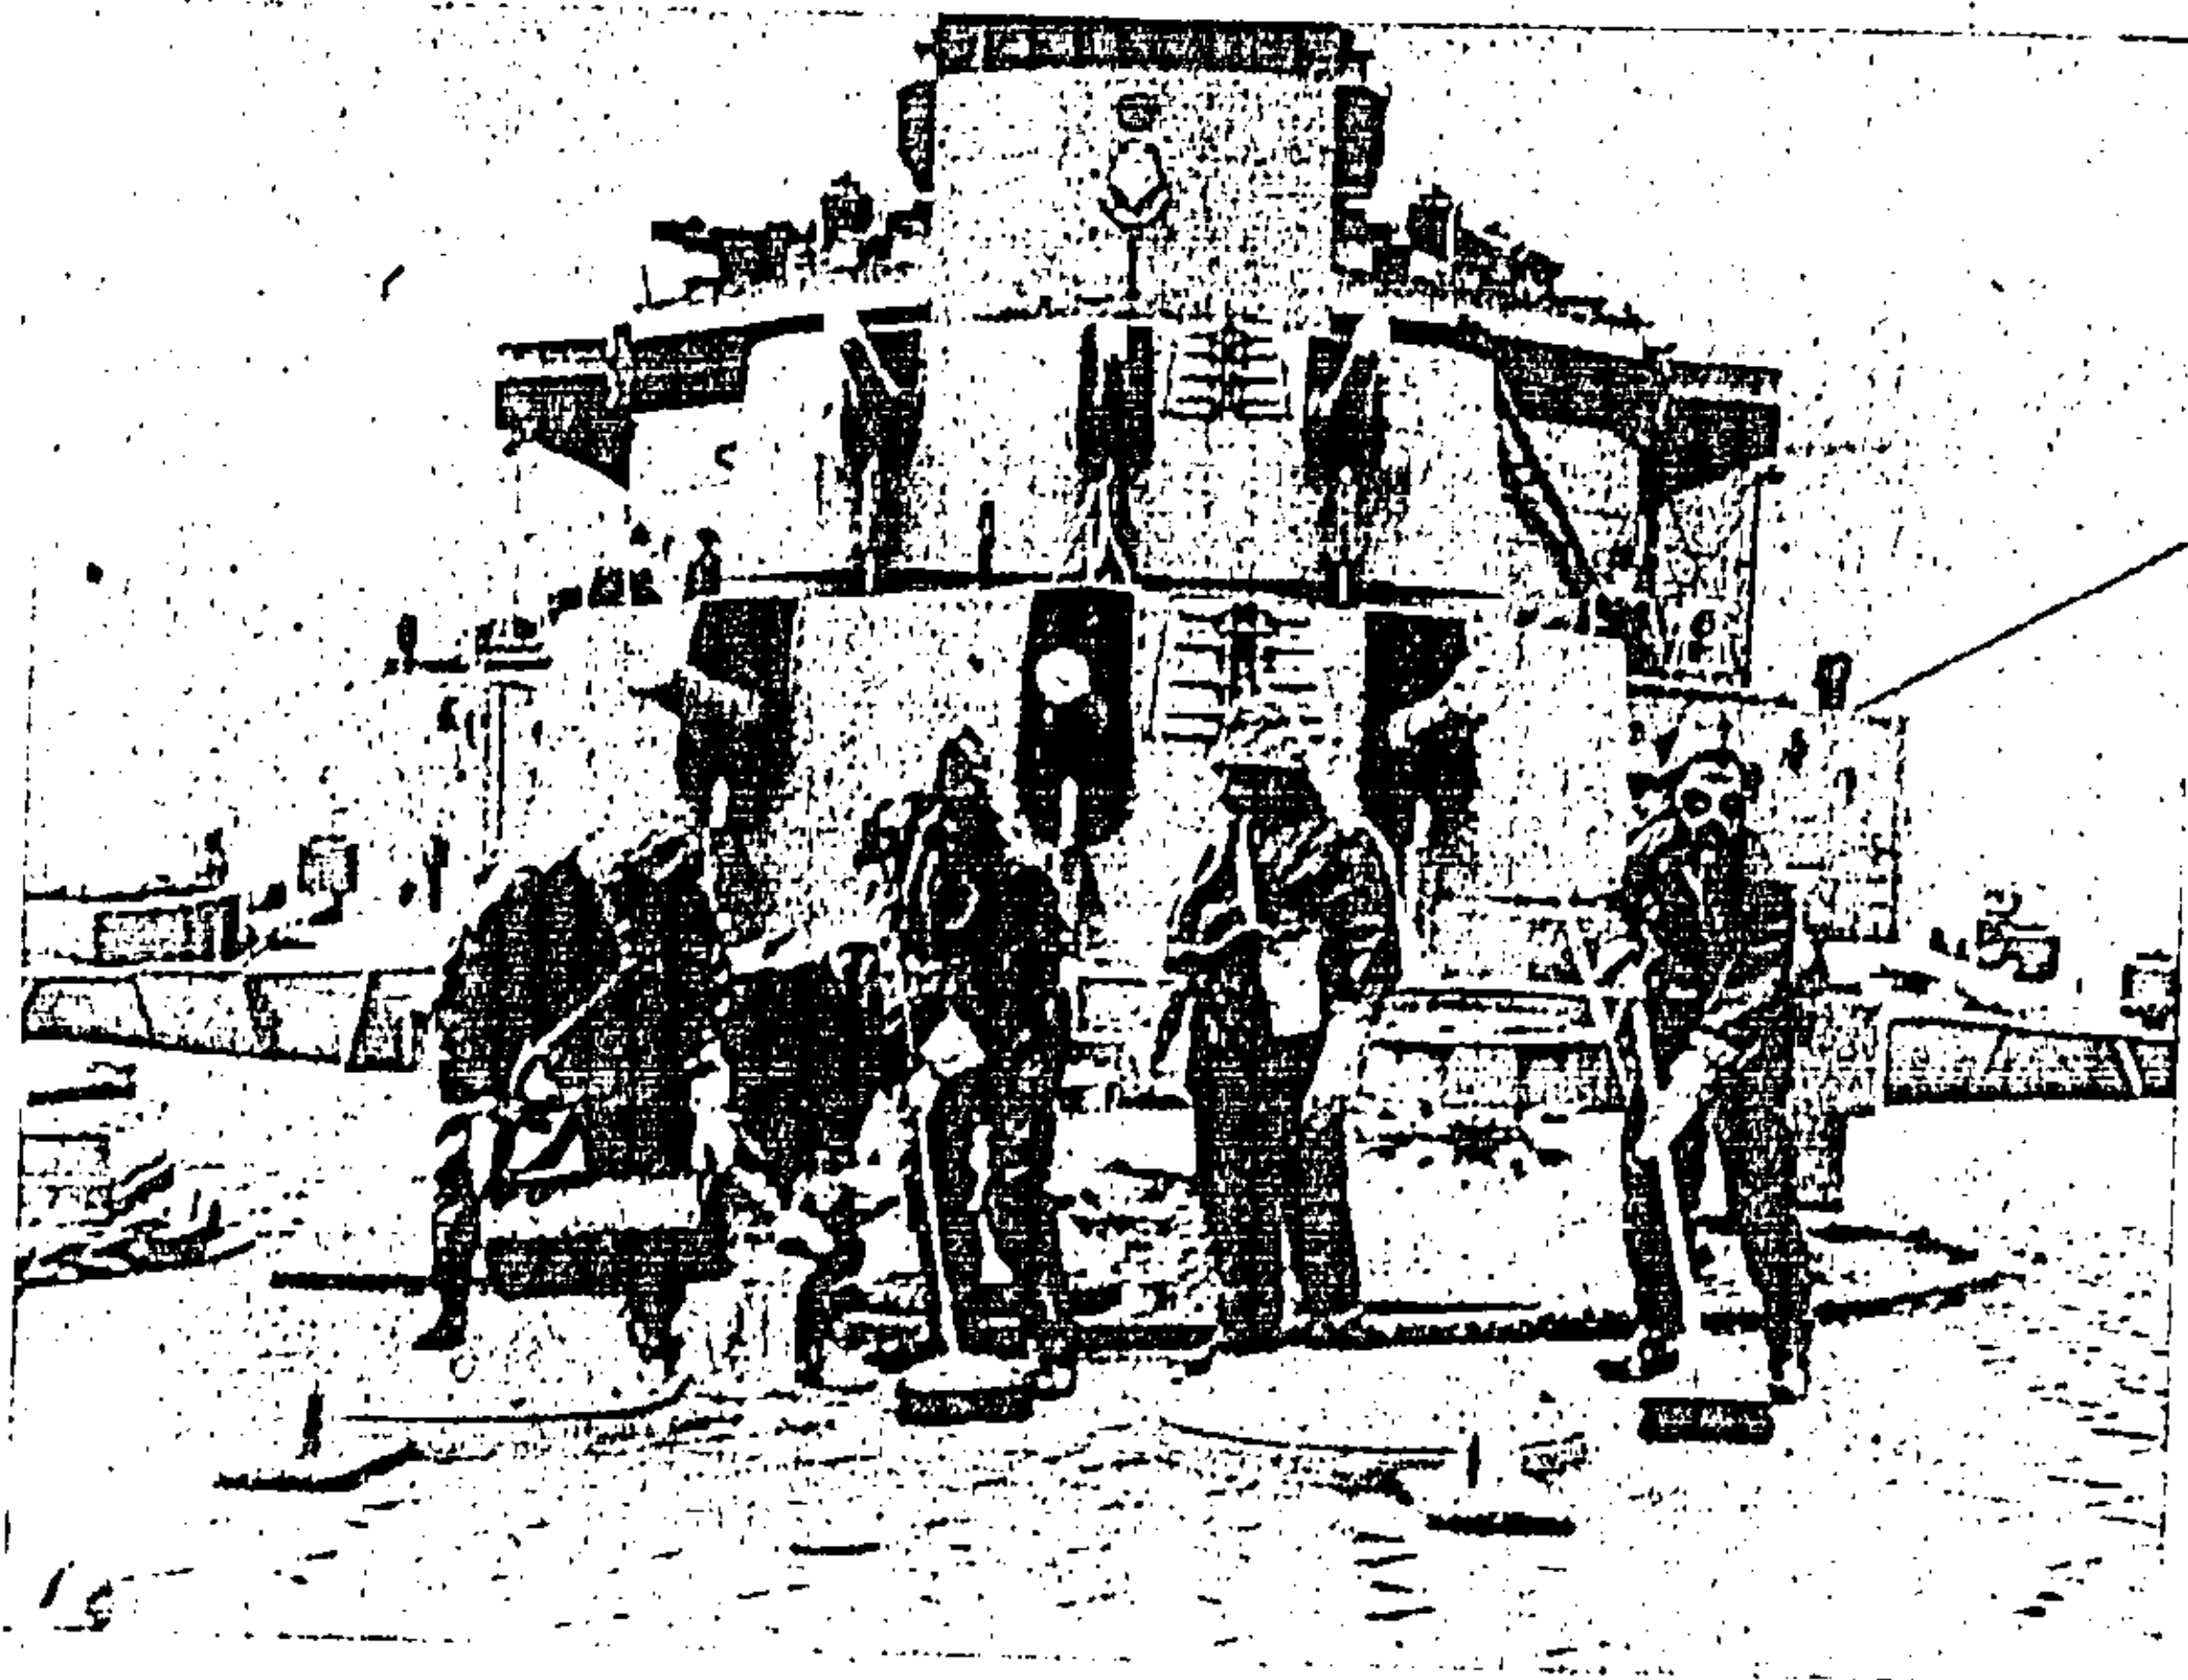

JAP. WARSHIPS ROUND HAINAN

More Japanese gun-boats have recently arrived in South China. Five vessels are now cruising near Hainan, Hainan Island, while several have increased the number of boats at Lin Tin Islands.

An attempt to land blue-jackets along the Chung Shan Coast yesterday was repulsed by Chinese shore batteries, who managed to keep the motor-launches, conveying the Japanese, away from the shore. — Our Own Correspondent.

Yellow River May Flow Into Yangtse

THOUSANDS DROWNED OR DOOMED TO DIE

Hankow, Yesterday.

While the Yellow River floods in Honan continue to spread, fears of a Yangtse River flood are growing as this gigantic waterway is approaching a record level for this time of year.

If as seems possible the Yellow River flood waters join the Yangtse via the Grand Canal, instead of following the old Yellow River bed, another bad Yangtse flood is expected.

Latest reports from Honan state that the Yellow River has risen four feet during the past few days as a result of the continued heavy rainfall.

A spokesman of the Yellow River Conservancy Board to-day stated in an interview with Reuters that the present Yellow River flood threatens to become the worst flood disaster in Chinese history.

"The Yellow River reaches its highest level early in August, when the flow reaches 20,000 cubic metres per second, whereas the present flow is only 4,000 to 5,000 cubic metres per second."

"The present water level is still one and a half metres below the record mark, and the extent of the flood can be imagined when August comes." — Reuters.

FAMINE FEARS

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The floods in the province of Honan show no sign of decreasing, according to Japanese reports, which state that on the contrary there is danger of their spreading to the River Hwai and as far as the province of Anhwei, which would gravely imperil the safety of Nanking.

Japanese troops are doing their utmost to check the spread of the water, and will it is believed, be consequently unable to resume military operations for some time.

It is added that large numbers of the population in the flooded area are threatened with starvation and a serious famine catastrophe is feared. — Trans-Ocean.

JAPANESE UNITS TRAPPED

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Breaking the silence regarding the Yellow River floods, the Japanese spokesman to-day said that the flood area in Honan had increased by 400 square miles in the past 24 hours.

The area now totalled 1,000 square miles, 2,000 villages were completely submerged, 1,500 partly inundated and 700,000 people were threatened, of whom 100,000 were beyond rescue. The Japanese army, he said, was taking care of 200,000 refugees, and was carrying food to the area by plane.

The water, he added, had shown no signs of subsiding up to yesterday.

Several units of Japanese troops were trapped in villages south-east of Chengchow. — Reuters.

ANOTHER PEACE BID

GERMAN ANTI-PRAGUE OUTBURST

BERLIN, YESTERDAY.
A FLARE OF HEADLINES IN THE GERMAN NEWS-PAPERS TO-DAY DEALING WITH VIOLATION OF THE GERMAN FRONTIER BY A CZECH MILITARY AIRCRAFT, SHOW THAT THIS EVENT HAS SERVED AFTER A FEW DAYS OF RELATIVE QUIET, TO CREATE NEW TROUBLE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

The German newspapers pose the question as to whether the Czechoslovak Government really meant what it said when it replied in reassuring fashion to the recent German protests in connection with similar incidents, or whether the Czech military command is acting in defiance of all parliamentary control.

The "Berliner Lokal Anzeiger" openly accuses the Czechoslovak Government of having broken its promises. Consequently, Berlin will no longer be satisfied with a mere apology or assurance of investigation into the matter.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

The Czech Premier, Dr. Hodza, will, it declares, have to give definite guarantees that his Government is in a position to see that its instructions are strictly obeyed by the Czech military authorities.

The "Voelkischer Beobachter" describes the new frontier violation as a product of Bolshevik methods and hence dangerous playing with fire. — Trans-Ocean.

STRONG PROTEST

Berlin, Yesterday.
Germany is sending a strong protest to Czechoslovakia against another flight by a Czech plane over German territory.

It is alleged that the Czech pilot flew over a frontier town and took photos. — Reuters.

London Hope For Spain

Paris, Yesterday.

Reports from London concerning the possibility of mediation in the Spanish civil war are arousing much interest in French political circles, which, however, believe that the French Government takes the view that such mediation could only be envisaged after an agreement had been reached in the non-intervention committee with regard to the British plan for repatriation of volunteers.

Hence much importance is attached to the forthcoming meeting of the committee next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Paris Bourse has reacted favourably to rumours of the possibility of the civil war coming to an early end.

Meanwhile, pressure brought to bear on the French Government to induce it to appoint a commercial representative in Nationalist Spain, is increasing. The paper "Republique" publishes a report from Rome that the Viceroy of Ethiopia, the Duke of Aosta, who is now in Italy, has some chance of becoming King of Spain after the final triumph of the Nationalists. — Trans-Ocean.

VON CRAMM NOT APPEALING

Berlin, Yesterday.
It is announced that the famous tennis champion, Baron Gottfried von Cramm, acting on the advice of his counsel, has withdrawn his notice of appeal against his conviction and sentence of twelve months imprisonment passed on him by the Berlin court. — Reuters.

SHIUKWAN STRAFED IN REVENGE RAID

Canton, Yesterday.

Apparently in retaliation for the destruction of six machines by Chinese aircraft on Thursday, a fleet of 29 Japanese planes heavily bombed points along the Canton-Hankow and the Canton-Samsui railways this morning.

The first squadron of 20 planes dropped more than 40 bombs on the Shiukwan aerodrome. They later released missiles at Pakong and Yuentan along the Canton-Hankow line.

The second squadron of nine machines in the meantime raided Samsui, terminus of the Canton-Samsui Railway, and Lupao. — Central News.

Canton, Yesterday.
Over 30 bombs were dropped at Shiukwan this morning when several Japanese planes raided the town. Over 50 are reported to have been killed and wounded, while a number of buildings were demolished. — Our Own Correspondent.

REICH SQUEEZING OUT JEWS

LONDON, YESTERDAY.

THE FLIGHT OF JEWS IN GERMANY WAS RELATED TO-DAY BY DR. GOLDMAN, CHAIRMAN OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE JEWISH CONGRESS.

Dr. Goldman declared that Germany was trying to coerce Jews in other parts of the world to rescue their co-nationalists from Germany.

He added that unless the German authorities allowed Jews to take away part of their worldly belongings, all the Jews in the world could not provide enough money to provide a living for penniless Jews from Germany. — Reuters.

LARGE FUNDS AVAILABLE

Shanghai, Yesterday.
China International Famine Relief officials state that large sums of money are now available for aiding the Yellow River flood sufferers.

They say that the difficulty lies in obtaining permission from the Japanese military to operate in the zone.

Of the U.S.$750,000 relief fund, the sum of U.S.$300,000 has already been received in Shanghai, and part can be used for flood relief work.

In the event of permission being given to operate in the Yellow River area, the China International Famine Relief Commission will probably be amalgamated with the International Red Cross here. — Reuters.

Pirates Raid American Vessel

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Chinese pirates carried out a daring coup in Japanese controlled coastal waters off Ningpo yesterday.

Intimidating passengers by shots, the sea robbers boarded the American-owned steamer Tangpei, on the way from Shanghai to Ningpo, with 35 passengers and a large cargo of cigarettes.

The bandits immediately disabled the ship's radio station, robbed the passengers and spent several hours in transhipping the valuable part of the cargo to their junks.

The gang succeeded in escaping unmolested. — Trans-Ocean.

HEAVY TOLL OF ROAD IN H.K.

The sharp increase in traffic fatalities this year is causing concern to the authorities.

Since January 1, deaths on the road have totalled 47, as compared with 81 killed by traffic during the whole of last year and 30 for the corresponding period of last year.

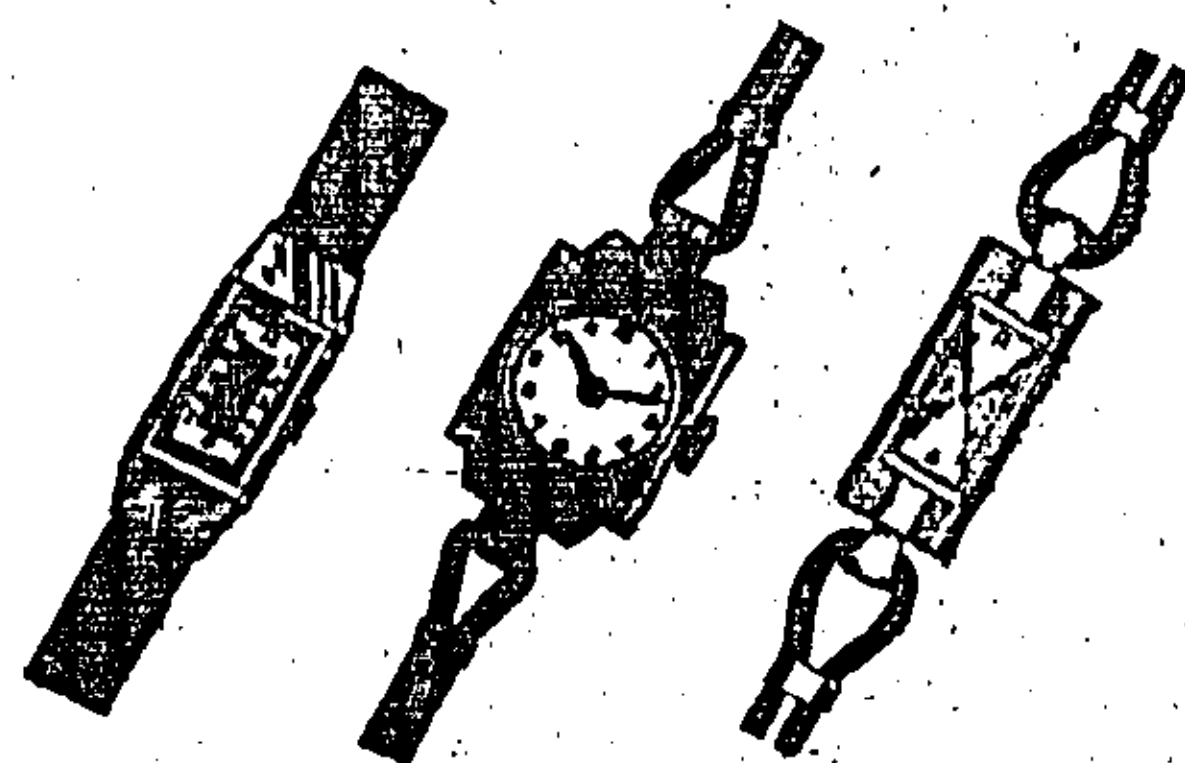

The number of accidents has reached 1,401, as against 1,003 for the whole of 1937.

The increase is attributed to the increase in the number of vehicles, in the number of pedestrians and in the use of cars.

Meanwhile, the Traffic Department is waging a campaign against unnecessary noise, and more than 40 summonses have been taken out against drivers on-the-horn in the Central District since the beginning of May.

Fruitful Ideas

YOU still hear people refer to the "fruit season" as though opportunities of buying fruit came during a few precious summer weeks, and as though the early frosts meant inevitable scarcity for one year at least.

Actual development of fruit growing, especially in the Colonies, new methods of transportation and storage have brought about a steady supply all the year round, often at quite reasonable prices. I sometimes think we don't appreciate this sufficiently when planning our menus.

Take grapes, for example, which share with oranges and lemons pride of place as the most valuable source of vitamin C. They have now been lifted out of the rarity and luxury class. Grapes can be very good added to sauce with certain savouries, and enormously to a fruit salad, and are delicious as flans.

To make your grape flan, make a piece of short crust pastry, roll it out, and with it line a greased sandwich tin. Prick the pastry with a fork to prevent it rising, and fill the tin with dry rice.

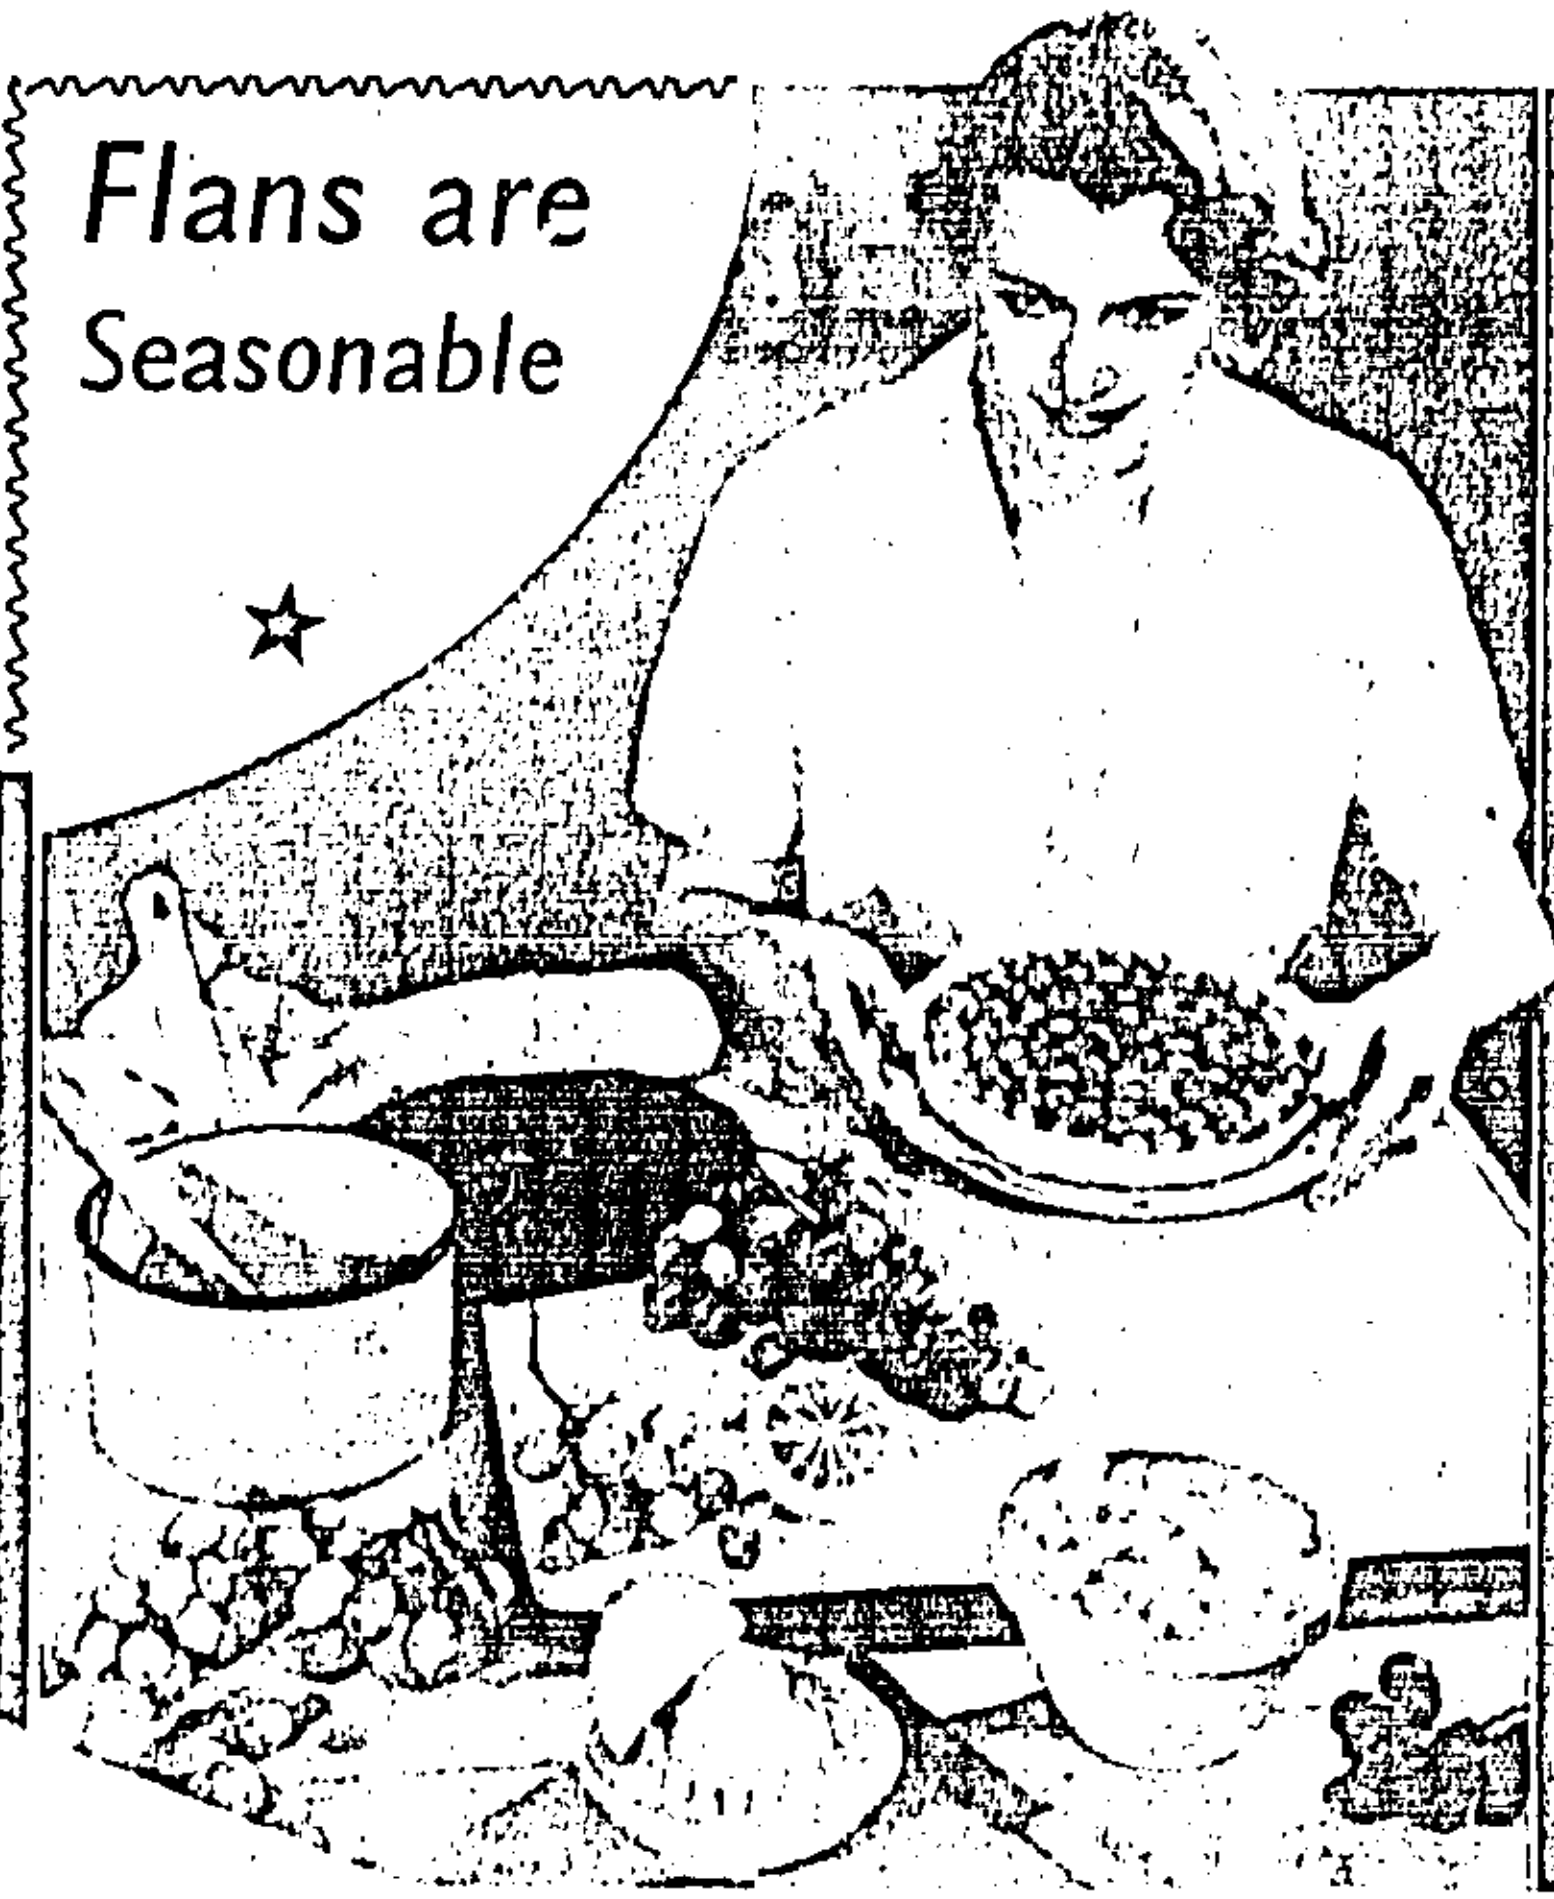

Bake in a moderate oven until crisp.

and lightly browned, then remove the rice. Take the stones out of some firm grapes, keeping the shape of the fruit as perfect as possible, and pack these into the cooked pastry case. In a saucepan boil together four ounces of sugar with a pint of water to a thick syrup; flavour it with a little wine or liqueur, or with a squeeze of lemon juice, and, when cool, pour it over the fruit in the pastry case.

To make short crust pastry for your flans, put 1lb. sifted flour on the pastry board, make a well in the centre, put in a good pinch of salt, dissolve with a little water and 1lb. butter (or equal quantities butter and lard) softened until it is of the right consistency, rub the butter lightly into the flour, adding sufficient water to make a smooth paste, and knead twice. Roll into a ball, cover and allow to stand for a few hours. Kneaded pastes should always be allowed to stand for a few hours. They are then easier to work, having lost their elasticity, and are lighter than when used at once.

Another good short crust can be made in similar fashion, but using 4oz. of lard to 1lb. flour, one whole egg and one gill of tepid water.

WOMEN of the FUTURE

Maud Dawson's Gossip

THERE are two ways of filling your life with adventure and interest. One is to collect experiences such as some people collect stamps or birds' eggs or curios. The other is to be born with genius and to apply it either with ruthless egotism or burning altruism.

That is why, although all the personalities figuring in Margaret Cole's "Women of To-day" (Nelson, 5s.) have had unusually colourful lives, they include such almost fantastically different types as Beatrice Webb and Rosita Forbes, Mary MacArthur and Laura Knight, Edith Cavell and Clare Sheridan.

That is why, although all have been to some extent pioneers, only those in the second category will be found to have actually made history.

ALL must, to a certain extent, come under the heading "feminist," though it is a far cry from the uncompromising challenge of Ethel Smyth, whose admiration of Brahms's music did not affect her detestation of his contemptuous attitude towards women, and Rosita Forbes, who prides herself upon being "as good as a man," and is at the same time rather coy about her use of feminine wiles. The author's biographies of these women are comprehensive and unbiased—a little too unbiased—but worth reading.

The life and personality of Edith Cavell are so strongly reminiscent of Florence Nightingale—the same almost grim devotion to duty and passion for efficiency, the same triumph of will over a somewhat frail physique even—that one wonders whether certain professions tend to produce or at least to attract definite types.

THERE is another distinction between these women pioneers, and that is the difference of the period in which each flourished. It is the difference between the shrewish prejudice expressed towards such women as Elizabeth Garrett Anderson by Queen Victoria, and the personal interest shown by Queen Mary in the career of Mary MacArthur, an eloquent indication of weakening barriers of sex prejudice.

Not that Mary MacArthur allowed the interest of "society" to turn her head or divert her aim. Here was the triumph of idealism and sincerity, qualities which would save the world from heaven knows what turmoil and misery at the hands of the resolute realists, were they displayed by a leavening section of important men and women.

AFTER "Women of To-day" and her "Adventurous Women" of the past, I hope Margaret Cole will consider writing a book on "Women of To-morrow." Who are destined to be the "Women of To-morrow?" We do not appear likely to produce an Englishwoman comparable with the magnificently heroic and magnetic figure of Spain's La Pasionaria.

for steel houses in the tropics. "I think there definitely is," he told me. "Provided we can ensure proper insulation from the heat, steel should prove an excellent building material in the tropics. The units are light to transport and easy to construct."

SOUNDPROOF ROOMS

ANOTHER feature which interested me was that the rooms are soundproof. My guide played a loud gramophone on the floor of one of the rooms, and I went down to the room directly below. I could hear no sound at all. Just think what a boon this is in huge blocks of flats when the blaring radio or eternally quavering baby of one's neighbour becomes a real menace.

There has been no attempt to introduce steel furniture in these flats, as it is still very expensive, and associated more with luxury flats and offices or cocktail-bars than with working-class homes. The model flat was furnished very pleasantly and inexpensively in modern light wood.

PUNCH SAUCE

TAKE 2oz. sugar, 1oz. butter, 1 teaspoonful rice flour, ½ wineglassful rum, ¼ wineglassful marsala, ½ wineglassful brandy, lemon, orange, 1 gill water.

Put the sugar on to boil with the water, the rind of half a small lemon (pared very thinly), and a rather smaller quantity of orange-peel. Let them simmer for fifteen minutes, then take out the peel. Mix the rice flour quite smoothly with a little cold water, and stir into the boiling syrup. Add the butter in small pieces, then the strained juice of half the orange, also a teaspoonful of the lemon juice. Boil for ten minutes, then add the rum, marsala, and brandy, but do not let the sauce boil after they are added.

RECENTLY I saw an all-steel flat. You will probably think—as I did before I saw the flat—that this sounds very bleak and uncomfortable, something like the inside of a battleship. But the interesting thing about these all-steel flats is that, unless you are told, you would never guess that they are made of steel at all. The ones I saw are to serve as a model for working-class flats, to let about 10/ a week.

One great feature of these flats is the speed with which they can be built. They are constructed of units which fit together rather like a child's building toy, and the floors and staircases are built into the steel framework as it rises, which makes things much easier for the workman.

The doors, window-frames, ceilings, floors, stairs, and cupboards are of steel. In the labour-saving kitchens are steel sinks, finished in pale blue or pale pink or white, and in the neat and shining bathrooms are steel baths. These are not yet made in England, and have to be brought over from America, but their cheapness and lightness compared with the ordinary porcelain bath is bound to interest our manufacturers.

I was shown over the flats by the engineer who constructed them. He had just returned from India, and I asked him whether there was any future

ONE THING & ANOTHER

I AM not at all disturbed by the protest of a lady member of a London Borough Council against the "patronising flattery" of certain gentlemen councillors. One gentleman, who complains, referred to her as "the charming lady," and said she had an "aristocratic appearance."

It will take more than this protest to stem the tide of tenderness which has flowed into every department of public administration since the political field began to bloom with—or, to cut a long story short, since women butted into politics.

While red blood beats beneath the bonnets of British councillors, and a similar fluid, slightly more pink, flows in the veins of M.P.'s, even the stern, prosaic business of pinching other people's money cannot render our elected representatives indifferent to the essential duality of gender.

"You're out of order, sweetie-pie," said the Speaker to the Duchess of Wiltshire and Wam (nee Florrie Fetcham; Con. West Withering) last Friday, "but when you open your great, big blue eyes like that I haven't the heart to tell you to put a sock in it."

And deep-throated "Hear-hears" arose reverberant from Opposition and Government alike, indicating that there is at least one passion that unites all men, of whatever race, colour, and creed.

There are other opinions, of course, on this matter of administrative gallantry.

"Nothing pleases me more," said Mrs. Wough-Pookyn, at an open-air meeting in Bootle last week, "than to be referred to in the House as 'that slob-faced goop, the member for Wetwang.' It shows that men are prepared to grant us women equality with themselves."

love her," which proves, I think, that a straw can show which way the wind blows.

FURTHER news of the great, big barmy world: A Sussex girl has been arrested in Louisiana as a spy, because she was seen going about with a camera and making notes in German.

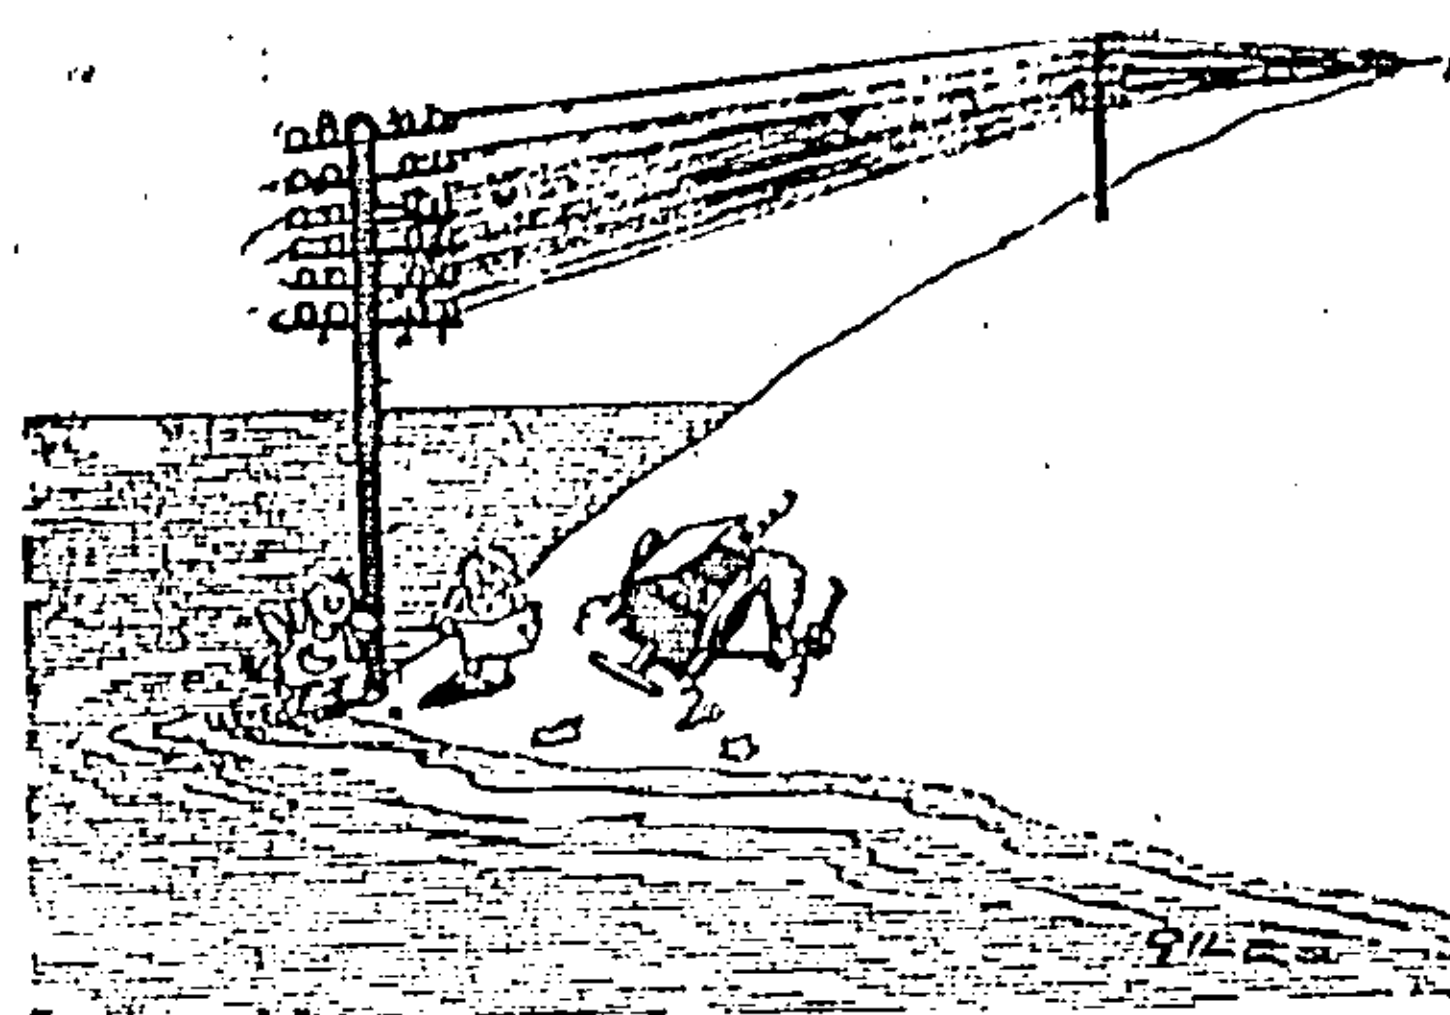

She said she was making notes for a book, and wrote in German because she was learning the language. Later, Federal Agents handed back her camera and notebook, with the comment: "The spy angle in all washed up."

And I hand you this information with the comment: The civilisation seems to be all washed up.

A CENSUS is to be taken of British cornerakes, whose decrease in numbers is feared. These birds make a loud grating noise, "aply" likened," says a newspaper, "to the sound of a rusty gate-hinge."

As they make a hideous noise, we cannot afford to lose them nowadays. The very silence of modern civilisation is already getting on our nerves.

Now they have got into the news, their song will, of course, be broadcast. The love-call of a

"Where do we go from here?"

cornerake is indistinguishable from its hate-call. In this character the bird resembles a crooner, a water-beetle, a literary critic, a may-bug, and a news-editor.

That is enough about wool. I hate wool.

"It flew right out of my hand, sergeant," he said afterwards when placed on a Communist pamphlet.

"WHO Left A Boat In Mid-Channel?" says a headline.

It appears that a new outboard motorboat was picked up by a steamer in the open sea. There was no trace of its owner.

I think it is the stress of modern life that is making people absent-minded.

Will the person who left a large blonde lady in my office last week please call and collect or write saying where it is to be sent?

THOSE of you who frittered away your hard-earned money on horse-racing on Derby Day don't say now that I didn't tell you to back Bois Roussel.

But you didn't.

Didn't I? How careless of me. Dear me, I am getting forgetful. But you can't blame anyone because their memory is at fault.

Did you back Bois Roussel, Mr. Whist? Of course. And that reminds me. Boy!

Boy! Did you collect my winnings for me from the book-maker? Don't stand there dithering. Did you?

What! You say you forgot to post the letter placing the bet? Of all the dunder-headed, addle-pated, num-skulled blockheads! How dare you forget! You're not fit to be in charge of a postcard. You . . . You . . . Get out and stay out!

THE United Front idea, says a newspaper correspondent who, I imagine, sleeps with a Union Jack sewn on to his nightie, "is an-English. It is a menace to old-established loyalties. . . . Men of principle do not change their colour, like a chameleon, according to the circumstances in which they find themselves."

I thought so, too, until I met a Colonel who goes red all over

JAPAN'S SHARP REPLY TO SOVIET PROTEST

CITY OF DESOLATION

Canton's $8,000,000 Power Station In Ruins

WHAT HAVE CANTON RAIDS TO DO WITH MOSCOW?

Tokyo, Yesterday. Japan yesterday rejected a Soviet protest against the bombing of Canton by Japanese military aircraft, the Foreign Office spokesman announced today.

Describing the Soviet démarche as "wide of the mark," the spokesman revealed that Mr. Horiguchi, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, had urged the withdrawal of Soviet pilots from China and cessation of the present practice of supplying armaments to the Hankow regime.

Soviet assistance to China, Mr. Horiguchi is reported to have pointed out, will only serve in prolonging the present hostilities and in bringing increased suffering to the people of China.

The Soviet representations were made yesterday by the Soviet charge d'affaires.

NO REASON?

The Soviet diplomatic démarche, the spokesman said, urged on behalf of the Soviet people against the raids on Canton, which had aroused indignation in every civilized nation, as well as among the Soviet people.

Mr. Horiguchi asked the Soviet charge d'affaires by what right and under what circumstances the Moscow authorities were making the representations.

He said that the Japanese Government could find no reason for the Soviet démarche, although it was no concern of the Tokyo authorities what demands the Soviet people made upon its leaders.

TOOK ISSUE

Mr. Horiguchi took issue with the Soviet diplomat regarding the allegation that the Japanese aerial bombardments had been directed against non-combatants.

NEW TERROR OF NEXT WAR

It is understood that the French Government have acquired the rights of the patent taken out by M. Maxime Baze for the reproduction of military noises through loud-speakers in time of war.

To the list, already given, of uses to which M. Baze's invention can be put must be added the simulation of air raids by a particularly ingenious device. M. Baze suggests that a large cellophane kite, invisible from the ground at night, should be sent up over enemy territory with a loud-speaker attached, from which could be broadcast the sound of raiding squadrons.

A new asbestos suit specially designed has been officially approved for Britain's Air Raid Precaution workers. The helmet is in the form of a crash-helmet of metal with a heat resisting lining. ITALO-FRENCH RELATIONS WORSENING

London, Yesterday.

Efforts made by the Chairman of the non-intervention committee, Lord Plymouth, to secure agreement with regard to the British plan for repatriation of volunteers from Spain have, according to the diplomatic correspondent of "The Times," had a certain measure of success.

The correspondent believes that as a result of strong pressure brought to bear on Moscow by the French Government, the Soviet representative on the committee will adopt a more conciliatory attitude at the next sitting, which has been fixed for Tuesday.

On the other hand, the correspondent fears that if the question of bombing of Spanish republican ports should be raised, serious divergencies will arise.

The correspondent adds that relations between France and Italy are growing steadily worse, and that the French Government has been obliged to solicit British intervention in Rome in order to bring about cessation of the violent Italian press attacks on France.—Trans-Ocean.

GOVERNMENT SPAIN CLAIMS RECAPTURE OF VILLAREAL

Barcelona, Yesterday.

The Government War Ministry, in a bulletin issued last night, announced that the insurgent attack on Piedras de Aolo, on the Sort sector, was completely repulsed.

Heavy fighting is in progress on the Castellon front.

After the Republicans had destroyed the bridge over the Mijares River, they recaptured Villarreal by assault. Furious fighting is going on in the outskirts of Alcoia, where the Republicans so far have energetically stemmed the enemy pressure.

In the sector of Puebla de Valverde, the Republicans recaptured Hills 1638, 1626 and 1647, day.

In Saragossa, it is claimed that Nationalist troops recaptured the town of Villarreal, on the southern bank of the Mijares, which the Republicans had recaptured partially on Thursday.

According to Nationalist quarters the Republicans suffered a serious defeat and the Nationalists continued the advance southward in the direction of Sagunto.

It is alleged by a Nationalist source that grave disorders have broken out at Valencia. The civilian population, fearing the rapid approach of the Nationalist troops, is demanding a truce. The police are going their utmost to suppress demonstrations.

In Salamanca, Nationalist Headquarters, in a communique, states that in the Upper Cienca Valley, Nationalist troops solemnly hoisted the Nationalist flag at the Franco-Spanish frontier. Reconnoitring detachments met no fugitives in the mountains but captured war material.

On the Castellon front, the Nationalists repulsed some enemy counter-attacks in the sector of Castillo de Villamalefo, south of Lucena del Cid. They pursued the enemy troops and occupied their original positions.

South of Alcora the Nationalists occupied Mount Pedrizas, crossed the Mijares River and occupied the road crossing from Panzara to Ribenalbes and Onda.

The advance of the Nationalist troops is being continued.

On the coast the enemy made violent counter-attacks near Villarreal on Thursday night and Friday morning. During a lull in the fighting the Nationalist troops crossed the Mijares River, near Almazora, and defeated the enemy by a surprise manoeuvre, taking 1,000 prisoners and capturing large quantities of war material.

Another column occupied the entire Sierra de las Pedrizas. Junction between various Nationalist detachments along the Mijares River has been effected.

On the Cordoba front, the Nationalists continued to advance in the Penaroya sector, occupying Cerro Montenegro, Hill 620 and several other enemy positions. They buried 620 dead enemies during the last two days, 480 militiamen de-

Canton Leader And Yoshida's Apologia

Canton, Yesterday. Commenting on the statement made by Mr. Shigetatsu Yoshida, Japanese Ambassador in London, to the China Campaign Committee that the Japanese Government found it necessary to destroy the anti-Japanese movement in China, an official spokesman here told Reuter today that the only way to end the anti-Japanese movement in China is for Japan to give up her policy of aggression.

The spokesman declared that the Chinese harboured no hostile feeling against any foreign nation which treated them on a basis of equality.

If an anti-Japanese sentiment existed in China at all, it was Japan's own fault.

It is only too obvious that China cannot be seeking with a country which is seeking to conquer her.

As a matter of fact, we are not even hostile against the Japanese people, but we have been resisting the Japanese militarists' aggression.

As long as Japan continues her ruthless aggression in China, we shall fight with all our strength and resources for the safeguarding of our national freedom and independence.

CONTINENTAL POLICY

Referring to the Japanese Ambassador's statement that the Japanese forces had been "forced reluctantly to go on to Shanghai and Nanking and now to Canton," the spokesman pointed out that it must be obvious to the whole world that in invading China, Japan is endeavouring to carry out her Continental policy as formulated by the late Premier Tanaka.

"The present war on China is no mere 'incident.' Six years ago the Japanese armies attacked and seized Manchuria and later Jehol. Last year she started her military campaign in North China and then Central China. Having occupied the Northern and Central Provinces, she now extends her operations to South China.

FIXED AIM

"This is all in accordance with her fixed policy and her programme of conquest.

"Japan's present aim is undoubtedly to subjugate China and become master of Asia, but it is not altogether unlikely that if she succeeded in obtaining control of the whole of China, she will push her war of conquest beyond the Asian borders and seek to become the master of the whole world," the spokesman concluded.

ZEKI ARZOUZI'S ARREST

Antioch, Yesterday.

The Arab leader in the Sanjak of Alexandretta, Zeki Arzouzi, who was arrested a few days ago, has not yet been released despite the unanimous protest of the Arab population.

As further sign of protest, all shops in the Arab quarters in Antioch remained closed today.

The whole quarter is occupied by French troops, since incidents are feared.—Trans-Ocean.

Second Little Submarine Mysteriously Gets Away

Paris, Yesterday.

The mysterious disappearance some weeks ago of the Spanish Republican submarine "C4" in the course of a trial trip in the Estuary of the Gironde, has now been followed by the equally mysterious disappearance of the Spanish Republican submarine "C2" from the port of Saint Nazaire, at the Estuary of the River Loire, where it had been undergoing repairs for sorted or were taken prisoner and numerous war material was captured.

Nationalist anti-aircraft batteries shot three enemy airplanes down on Thursday and one on Friday.—Trans-Ocean.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPES OF HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

Canton, Yesterday.

The destruction of the Church Missionary Society's school, St. Hilda's, on the outskirts of the city, by Japanese bombs early yesterday morning marks the second enterprise involved in the recent air raids on Canton.

The new Saichuen Waterworks, under construction by Malcolm & Company, has suffered considerable damage as a result of nearly a dozen bombs falling in the compound. Most of the losses were newly-arrived material.

When your correspondent visited Saichuen yesterday he witnessed the havoc wrought in the waterworks compound.

Long strands of steel used for reinforced concrete work lay strewn about the compound twisted and knotted, while huge water pipes ready to be laid, weighing two tons and measuring 48 inches in diameter, are dented and bent beyond recognition. Indicating the destructive power of modern aerial bombs, one of these pipes had been lifted from among twenty others and blown two hundred yards distant right over the Saichuen Power Station, which adjoins the waterworks, and had buried itself, a mass of twisted metal, several feet in the ground.

PITIFUL SIGHT

Little remains of the modern pumping houses and workers quarters which were in the course of construction, and the whole comound is covered in debris. The small band of British engineers who braved the bombings by day and night go daily to their erstwhile jobs and, aided by a few

Chinese workmen, must restrict their labours to the task of mopping up.

The Power Station is a pitiful sight. Gaily camouflaged with grey and green dabs all over the building, this modern structure is without a roof, having suffered four direct hits. The latest up-to-date turbines inside are so much twisted metal, while power cables protrude from the huge craters dotted all round the compound.

TOTAL LOSS

Costing $8,000,000 to build, it is now stated that this is a total loss, the bulk of which must be carried by German interests which built the enterprise and which agreed on payment from the working profits. Only two months ago did this model power plant take over the electricity supply for the whole of Canton.

The Government Cement Works

has had several bombs in the comound, but damage here is not great.

Several villages surrounding this huge modern industrial area have been completely wiped out, and not a soul can be seen anywhere except for river folk who come ashore from their sampans.

Destruction and havoc prevail everywhere.

Just outside the Waterworks compound an entire family was killed the last time this area was bombed. They had fled their homes and taken shelter in a ditch hopping to escape with their lives. But a bomb had fallen close by and all were blown to bits. When I saw them, their corpses were a mass of bones and it was impossible to say how many people comprised this mass of remains. What flesh had not been blasted away by bombing had been torn off and consumed by scavenger dogs.

EMPTY STREETS

Driving through Canton city itself, particularly noticeable are thousands of boarded up houses and shops. In the areas which have suffered most, whole streets are empty with the exception either of the very poorest people or aged men and women who cannot move. In the centre of a bombed area is a Home for Aged Women, where there are about 250 inmates. Although bombs have fallen all round it and within 40 yards of the building, it has not been touched. All these people live in an atmosphere of decomposing human flesh coming from the many points which have not yet been excavated and the remains of the unfortunate victims rescued from beneath hundreds of tons of fallen masonry.

NARROW ESCAPE

One particular point where there were a number of small-trader's shops and homes has been particularly unfortunate. All structures with the exception of one, along both sides of a stretch of 200-yard street have been completely demolished. It is estimated that over 150 houses were destroyed there. The building still left standing is that of the Whampoa

Port Bureau, which is a threestoried structure and is badly damaged. One of the inmates of this lost mo of the narrow escape he and his seven companions had on June 15.

"We took refuge in our dug-out,

an underground cellar," he said,

"inside of which was a huge wall safe. When we heard a bomb fall very close all of us made a dash for the safe and closed the door. It was extremely lucky that we did because the next bomb struck the house next door and the cellar collapsed."

He related how rescue workers had to remove tons of debris from the front of the safe before the suffocating men could get out.

A LONG TASK

Travelling back along one of Canton's main streets, I counted no less than nineteen different points where bombs had fallen on that street alone. There was no traffic; there were only a few pe-dstrians; most of the houses were boarded up; electric light and telephone poles and wires lay in a knotted mass on the roadside, and occasionally a huge crater in the roadway necessitated a detour in order to get through. Clearing up operations were in progress everywhere, but it will be a long time before Canton ceases to give the appearance of a city of desolation.

OVER 1,500 VILLAGES ALREADY INUNDATED

And Yellow River Floods Sweep On

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Yellow River floods are steadily forcing their way farther southwards, and yesterday a total area of 2,400 square kilometres was inundated by the floods, as compared with 1,600 square kilometres on Thursday.

No fewer than 700,000 people have been rendered homeless.

Another 1,500 villages have been inundated by the floods, and in many cases merely the roof tops of houses are still visible.

The Japanese authorities have admitted for the first time that the Japanese units in the flooded area are in grave danger.

The Japanese military authorities have ordered army air-standstill of military operations, to undertake reconnoitring flights with a view to obtaining exact data regarding the direction and course of the floods. Japanese airmen have reported that the floods have reached the region which lies about 150 kilometres south of the Lung-hai Railway. Only short stretches of the railway itself are inundated, however.

A large number of non-combatant Chinese fugitives and many Japanese soldiers have sought refuge on the railway dam.

PROVISIONS BY PARACHUTE
Japanese airmen dropped parachutes with provisions over villages which are isolated by floods.

MILLIONS OF POUNDS FOR NEW TRUNK ROADS IN BRITAIN

London, Yesterday.

Speaking on his Department's Vote in the House of Commons, the Minister of Transport ranged over a variety of topics, including the plans being made for meeting problems of transport created by the national emergency, the Government's 5-year programme of trunk road development and the 30-year scheme for London traffic improvements recommended in the Report of Sir Charles Bresse.

Mr. Burgin said the Vote included for the first time a small section described as the transport defence plans section, which was engaged in consideration of home defence plans as they would affect transport.

Formation of this special section in the Ministry, reflected the important part which transport played in home defence.

Among important matters under consideration were those which would arise should it ever be necessary to divert shipping from the East Coast to the West Coast or to distribute imports from the West Coast.

VITAL FACTOR

Apart from these, railroad and other inland transport services would have to be adopted to meet abnormal conditions in time of emergency.

Plans of other departments—for air raid precautions, medical and hospital services and so forth—depended on the existence and availability of adequate and suitable transport.

Speaking of Sir Charles Bresse's highway development survey of Greater London, the Minister mentioned that the Report had proved a best-seller and was temporarily out of print.

Its recommendations he described as far-reaching and audacious. They were receiving expert and detailed study.

The programme embodied much that was beyond immediate realisation, but he hoped that all local authorities concerned would do all they could to make their own development plans conform as nearly as possible to the lines laid down therein and proceed as quickly as circumstances allowed with the more urgent of the schemes.

L.C.C. POSITION

The London County Council, the City Corporation and the other highway authorities concerned would, he was sure, as the responsible improvement authorities, not only welcome the Report as an authoritative guide to future activities but he was anxious to implement the recommendations.

In so doing, they could count on the whole-hearted support of his department, which Mr. Burgin observed would take the substantial form of Grants from the Road Fund.

He said he had asked all the highway authorities concerned to give the Report urgent and careful consideration.

PRIORITY SCHEMES

In conjunction with the London County Council, certain of the schemes had been given priority constituting the first and substantial instalment of the whole programme.

The Government and Council were anxious to proceed as rapidly as circumstances permitted, but a due sense of proportion must be maintained.

Subject to qualifications and reservations, Mr. Burgin estimated the cost of the whole programme at somewhere between £160,000,000 and £230,000,000.

Within the London County Council area, he said, there were 123 miles of improvements which would cost between £80,000,000 and £120,000,000.

TRUNK ROADS

Dealing with the 5-year programme of trunk roads, Mr. Burgin said that schemes had been submitted to an estimated total cost of over £129,000,000, of which works up to £93,500,000, had been approved to date.

The amount actually spent under the programme to the end of May was £23,000,000, of which £14,000,000 had been contributed by the Road Fund. By end of the financial year, total expenditure would have reached £34,000,000.

Trunk roads, for which the Ministry had become responsible 15 months ago, were 4,500 miles in length, comprising 30 main arterial routes of which 11 radiated from London.

The reconnaissance survey which the Ministry had ordered was finished for all but one tenth.

DUAL CARRIAGE WAYS

The standard they were aiming at for all new construction was dual carriage-ways, separate footpaths, separate cycle tracks and adequate margins. A width of from 80 to 120 feet, and in some cases 140 feet between fences, was necessary to achieve this object.

The Government had under consideration the question of roads restricted to one kind of traffic but their construction would require legislation.

CHALLENGE TO HUMANITY

On road accidents, Mr. Burgin said that in his judgment the problem constituted a challenge to humanity adequately to impress itself with the stupidity and cruelty of allowing the toll of the roads to continue.

The committee had recently examined the question of accidents among pedal cyclists, and the recommendations, which were receiving his careful attention, raised wide and controversial issues. A report would be issued on Monday. —British-Wireless.

Japan's Toll On The Sea

(“HERALD” SPECIAL)
EIGHT THOUSAND, FOUR HUNDRED AND NINETY CHINESE FISHING FOLK, INCLUDING WOMEN AND CHILDREN, HAVE MET UNTIMELY DEATHS AT THE HANDS OF MEN OF THE JAPANESE FLEET ALONG THE SOUTH CHINA COAST, IN THE PERIOD FROM SEPTEMBER 12 LAST TO MAY 31, 1938.

Four hundred and twelve fishing craft and cargo junks, registered in the Colony, are missing, and it is believed, have been destroyed by the Japanese.

The Hong Kong Fishermen's Guild, from whom the figures were obtained, estimated the losses to be about $5,000,000.

Only last Saturday, according to information received by the Guild, 16 fishing junks were burned very close to the harbour limits, and the level of the river bed is steadily rising owing to the fact that an enormous volume of sediment which the river carries in the flood season raises the bed of the river to a still higher level every year. —Trans-Ocean.

The A.R.P. Wing-Commander gives a few hints on gas-masks to a clergyman.

SHALL IT BE ORANGE OR TOMATO?

(Special to the "Herald")
THE REFUGEE PROBLEM IN HONG KONG HAS TAUGHT SOCIAL WORKERS SOMETHING.

It has taught them how great is the influence of a small piece of orange in Hong Kong's own special version of how the other half live.

Establishment of a food kitchen at West Point in the old St. Peter's Church has shown that with a small piece of orange, approximately a quarter, it is possible to provide Chinese with an adequate nutritious meal at a cost of 3.78 cents, per head per day.

SPOILED!

Chinese experts, who think that the destitute are being spoiled by the supply of the piece of orange, point out that that accounts for 1.5 cents of the total cost, and that if it were left out, the total cost would be only about 2.3 cents per head per day.

On the advice of a medical nutrition expert, an economy in this direction is being arranged, and by the substitution of a piece of tomato for a piece of orange it will be possible to supply a meal to those in need at a cost of 2.5 cents per head.

For this sum, St. Peter's food kitchen is providing a meal composed of:
Ample Rice,
Essence of meat bones or soup meat,
Bean curd, Vegetables.
This represents, in sufficient quantity and such is provided, a balanced diet for the Chinese, provided a piece of orange—or tomato—is added.

ANOTHER FLOWER DAY RESULT

The "Flower Day" organised by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce of Tung Koon District, yesterday in aid of the free schools run under its auspices, resulted in over $4,730 being collected in the streets.

Miss Chan Ching-han, daughter of Mr. Chan Lan-fong, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, brought in $1,023.40, the highest individual amount collected.

Kowloon Population Estimated At 750,000

OFFICIAL FIGURES RELEASED DURING THE WEEK PURPORTING TO SHOW THAT HONG KONG'S POPULATION HAS INCREASED BY NO MORE THAN APPROXIMATELY 175,000 SINCE JANUARY, 1937. ARE REGARDED AS REVEALING ALMOST INCREDIBLE INADEQUACY OR INACCURACY IN THE CHECK FROM WHICH SUCH FIGURES ARE COMPILED.

A Government official whose business it is to know these things, and who, desiring to remain anonymous for obvious reasons, arrives at his totals by different methods, told the "Sunday Herald" that the population of Kowloon alone has increased by over 300,000 in the last 9 months.

Some people are living under appalling conditions, with from 60 to 80 in a flat designed to accommodate 12 to 14. Tiers of bunks are being erected in the place of bed-rooms and these tiers can be found even on verandahs.

This unofficial estimator suggests that Kowloon's population to-day is near the 750,000 mark and of the whole Colony, over 1,400,000.

ALL CZECH RESERVISTS DEMOBILISED

Prague, Yesterday.
The semi-official organ, the "Prager Presse" announces: Reservists and reservists of the second class, called to the colours for manoeuvres on May 21, supplemented by members of technical units, have returned from the manoeuvres during the past few days.

Official confirmation of this report is still outstanding, as well as an official statement whether the extraordinary military measures taken by the Czech Government, at first on the reports of alleged German troop concentrations, later in view of the alleged necessity to maintain peace and order and finally with the motivation that general manoeuvres were to be held, have now come to an end.

Political circles point out, however, that the British Government had advised the Prague Government on numerous occasions to do all in its power to relieve the tension being created by the partial mobilisation. — Trans-Ocean.

After a clean bill of health as far as cholera is concerned, for several days, another case of the disease was reported to the local Health Department yesterday, from Kowloon.

DODGING THE EVICTIONS BILL

246 Distraint Warrants Taken Out In Six Days

New Issue Now Under Official Consideration

("Sunday Herald" Special)

Landlords have not taken long to discover a way round the Prevention of Evictions Bill, in cases where arrears of rent arises as a factor.

New method of securing eviction, without running into the complications of the new restraining legislation, is to issue distraint for rent, and possession is more or less automatically secured when a defaulting tenant's goods and chattels are seized and sold.

Increasing employment of this method of getting rid of tenants was officially revealed to the "Sunday Herald" yesterday, by the supply of figures showing that between Monday and Friday last week, 246 distraint warrants were issued.

BERLIN POLICE RAIDS: MANY JEWS ARRESTED

Berlin, Yesterday.

A series of police raids on Berlin restaurants, "cafes usually frequented by Jews and questionable characters" have, it is learned yesterday evening, resulted in the arrest of a great number of alleged criminals and persons with dubious pursuits.

The first raid took place on May 31, when 339 persons, including 317 Jews, were taken into custody in two large cafes on the Kurfurstendamm.

It is now announced that following cross-examination, it has been found that 76 of those arrested were engaged in criminal activities, and upon the basis of the materials thus collected, further police raids were carried out, the latest being on June 16, when numerous persons were taken into custody by the secret police for questioning, included 143 Jews.

Of these, 26 were without nationality, 61 were foreigners not possessing a valid and up to date passport and 66 were German Jews.

It is emphasised in informed circles that the object of the raids is to rid Berlin of criminal elements who have been engaging in nefarious practices, and is not in the nature of action against Berlin Jews. The raids have been carried out by the Berlin police in the regular line of duty, it is declared.

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY

That a number of Jews have been placed in protective custody is admitted, however, the reason given being that the influx of Jewish elements into Berlin from the provinces and smaller towns has been so great that public indignation has become aroused and anti-Semitic demonstrations have taken place.

It is a known fact that Berlin's population does not welcome characters that are living and carrying on nefarious activities in this large city. — Trans-Ocean.

ANOTHER CZECH INCIDENT ALLEGED

PRAGUE, YESTERDAY.
SUDETEN GERMAN CIRCLES ARE INDIGNANT OVER WHAT IS TERMED A NEW OUTRAGE AGAINST ONE OF THEIR PARTY DEPUTIES.

As the deputy, Georg Wollner, was passing through the central part of the city last night in the company of other Sudeten Party deputies, a Czech traffic officer is alleged to have attempted to tear his party badge from his coat.

As Herr Wollner shouted "Hands off" and attempted to defend himself, the policeman arrested him, thereby attracting a large crowd.

The incident was finally settled upon the arrival of the deputy, Herr Kundt, who is Chairman of the Parliamentary Club of the Sudeten German Party, but a protest has been lodged at police headquarters. — Trans-Ocean.

Judge In A Dilemma

New York, Yesterday.

Hollywood to-day is wondering how actress Constance Bennett is to prove before the staid Los Angeles Court that her limbs are limson, her eyes not "pop-eyed," and her hair not red.

Her eyes and her hair are there for all to see; it is how the court will decide the less obvious item that has set Hollywood pondering.

Miss Bennett has to prove these points if she is to defend successfully the $700 claim brought by society artist Willy Pogany for a portrait.

Miss Bennett refused to pay for it, saying the limbs in the portrait are not hers, that the eyes are not her sort of eyes and that Mr. Pogany failed to depict her nails red and her hair blonde.

Artist and sitter, meeting in court, made faces at each other and the judge had to rebuke Miss Bennett for giggling.

Mr. Pogany's case is that, on instructions, he had shown Miss Bennett's waist less than natural size, her hair more golden, her eyes bluer.

Miss Bennett replied in her evidence: "Mr. Pogany told me that he had used his wife as model. She is heavier than I am and he agreed to make changes which I demanded. But they weren't made when the picture was delivered, and I naturally refused to pay."

Hollywood now awaits the adjourned hearing.

POSTMAN CAUGHT STEALING AIR MAIL LETTERS

Theft of high value stamps from air mail letters led to the appearance before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett yesterday of a postman, Ma Kwong-sang, aged 23, who was charged with stealing three air letters from the Tsim Tsa-tai Post Office on June 15.

Detective-Sergeant Sykes prosecuted while Mr. Wynne Jones, the Postmaster General, was complainant.

Mr. Wynne Jones said defendant was a temporary postman. The matter came to the notice of the Post Office on June 15 when six air mail letters were found without stamps, although they appeared to have been stamped.

At 8.40 p.m. the same day defendant collected letters from various pillar boxes in Kowloon. Again he carried four letters which bore no stamps. One belonged to a sender, who was promptly interviewed because he had written his address on the envelope. Defendant was also seen to place a bundle of letters on a sorting table, and take away one letter. When searched, the letter, which had $2.80 in stamps attached, was found in his possession.

Detective-Sergeant Sykes, accompanied by defendant, visited his address, where they found eight other stamps, six $1, one $50, one $10, contained in a cigarette case. Mr. Wynne Jones emphasized that the Post Office considered it to be a very serious matter.

Defendant said a friend left the stamps which were found in the cigarette case, to post certain goods to Hankow. In order to make up sufficient stamps for posting the goods, he stole the three air mail letters.

Mr. Barnett, passing sentence, advised the public to write their names and addresses on envelopes when posting, so as to help the Post Office to get into touch with senders in a case of this kind.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment was imposed.

FOUR MONTHS FOR ASSAULT

Chan Chik, 39, of No. 78, Temple Street, was yesterday sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy, for assaulting a 15-year-old boy, Ling Ping-ki, of the same address, on June 11.

Complainant who lost two pairs of trousers accused defendant of stealing them, whereupon, defendant got very angry and attacked the boy with a chopper about the face and leg. He was detained in Kowloon Hospital for a week.

The Magistrate told defendant he was lucky that he was not charged with murder.

PIPES PART OF $1,000 HAUL

Two Dunhill pipes were among the proceeds of a robbery at the home of Mr. I. B. Trevor, of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, on Thursday, but the total haul, which included a good deal of silver, was estimated to exceed $1,000 in value.

Sequel was the appearance at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday of a man, Li Hung-kwan, charged with the robbery, regarding whom it was revealed that he had spent some time in the Mental Home.

He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and recommended for banishment.

REGISTRY WEDDING

The marriage between Miss Marie Jacobsen, of "Ocken Cottage," Victoria Road, Pokfulam, and Mr. Johan Olvind Johnson, shipping clerk, residing at No. 4, Luna Building, Kowloon, took place at the Registry yesterday morning. The Deputy Registrar of Marriages, Mr. W. A. Jones, conducted the ceremony.

story at all. More of these fascinating non-metal zips, in colours, too, and Nathan Road, Kowloon, is where this smart shop is located.

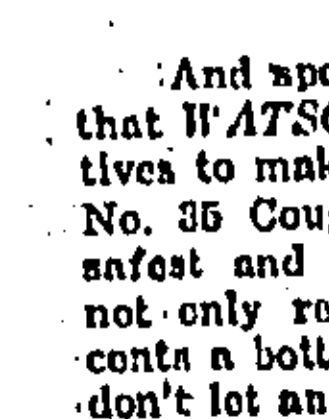

The girl who attracts most attention on the beach
this year, will probably be wearing a one-piece Kajak swimsuit. So, my dear, if you've reached that doldrums stage when no one notices what you've got on, wear a Kajak the next time you go bathing. The result will be very gratifying. They come in the most fascinating assortment of colours and patterns and in styles that have lots of saucy appeal. You'll find them at LUCILLE'S... and see too their batch of road-looking hats in leghorn, balltulle and other wearable straw. You can run the gamut of fashionable styles, from wide brims to hardly any trim at all. Prices are quite inexpensive here, and the buy is always a good one. Queen's Road... and make haste.

If you've looked far and wide for those ceru coloured luncheon sets with round mats in Tatting lace, you may now look no further than THE LINEN CHEST, 210 Gloucester Building. This up-and-coming shop overlooks nothing, and is always on the look-out for things you most require. These handsome luncheon sets will do any table proud and can be purchased in sets of eight or twelve. And among other things to ask for here are undies in summer weight silk. Sets can be had at unbelievably low prices, and the fit is just perfect. A whole new shipment of lovely linens is expected, too... and DO be on the look-out for their dainty monogrammed underwear. You'll never forgive yourself if you don't!

Women who insist on the best—and know it when they find it—now shop in the Ladies' Salon of LANE, CRAWFORD'S. And this week, my friends, we draw your very special attention to their sports wear. If you play tennis like a professional, look like one in a one-piece tennis outfit fashioned of Robaline, or if you're just practising, be unobtainably classic in a two-piece cotton print, with a shirt like a man's, and shorts that any woman would be proud to wear. And when you're not actually doing anything, go lazy in any one of their smartly tailored slacks, accented at side with a stripe, or new treatment of top fastening. Bargain hunters can find a very special line of white drill shorts, with trimming in red or navy blue, at $7.95. And if you pride yourself on being a smart shopper, you won't wait for the word go!

Who knows most about milk? Baby? Milkman? or Mother? If you want our candid opinion, all of them know a lot... but, after all, baby is the one who speeches and meetings and planks, it's not unlikely that the winning President will campaign on a platform for resistance to disease. So place an order with your grocer to-morrow for a can or a case... and see how the little 'uns lap it up.

And speaking of babies, reminds us to remind you, that WATSON'S are well to the fore in providing cura-

No. 35 Cough Syrup for children, for instance, is the safest and most dependable relief for colds. Nay, it not only relieves, but positively cures. Costs only 20 cents a bottle, and children love the taste of it, too. So don't let another day pass without it. Keep a bottle constantly handy in the home, and at the first sign of a chill, give your child a dose. You'll be amazed at how simple and effective it is. Complete directions come with every bottle.

count of the carnage that im-its obvious sincerity. Factual

Attached to Canton Hospital, the doctor on the morning of June 6, was eating his breakfast in Luyuan University when the first blast of the alien shattered the Sabbath calm. A few minutes later he was in his car, racing to the Pearl River Bridge.

It was dawn. Shouting that he was a doctor, he persuaded the sentries to let him pass, and seconds later found himself driving through streets while 500lb bombs blasted nearby buildings and shook the foundations of the hospital. As each successive shock registered, the Doctor and his staff automatically ducked their heads, an example of instinct taking charge of reason.

SOON the Red Cross men began to carry in the maimed. Poon, the coolie, a leg gone, weeping because with it went his livelihood and the monthly $10 that supported a family in the country. A brother doctor sprayed with machine gun fire and jammed with panic stricken people wildly rushing to shelter.

AN hour later, the heavy stuff started to fall. Making his rounds on the fifth floor, the Doctor heard the droning ed her breast to quieten the frightened child; then a flying bomb fragment tore a gaping hole in the tender flesh, and the woman who had borne a son in pain, died in agony.

ALL day and far into the night the surgeons amputated, the nurses bandaged, the orderlies fetched and carried, careless of everything except their work. In the street below rows of shoddy cots hastily knocked together, accommodated those past help; beneath scorched rubble and charred timbers lay hundreds more. These things and many others in a level voice untinted with emotion save when he referred to the shipments of planes and oil from San Francisco, the American doctor told the meeting. As he finished speaking there was a momentary hush; the silence of an audience deeply moved. Then the surge of pent-up feeling; a burst of applause; a middle aged lady quietly crying; a youth with clenched fists, incoherently muttering.

FOR us the meeting was over.
Others spoke; the Bishop of Hong Kong ably, his cool, cultured voice analysing, summarising, a reasoned indictment of international lunacy. The Rev. N. V. Halward of Canton, clear, high pitched, indignantly refuting the denials and excuses of the Japanese spokesmen as monstrous lies. George Sho, relatistic, trotting out a witty aphorism. Even the carrying of the resolution passed with enthusiastic unanimity seemed in the nature of an anti-climax.

LOOKING ROUND, we spied a Japanese Agent standing with up-raised hand, a toothy smile wreathing his demulcent countenance.
By his side, haughtily unaware of his existence, drooped a horse-faced woman whose husband's position enabled her to act like an angry Jehovah towards shop assistants and servants. The clear light of irony

To provide modern, safe food-keeping facilities at lowest cost in 34 low-rent housing projects in 26 cities, the Housing Division of the U.S. Public Works Administration late in 1936 called for sealed bids from leading refrigerator manufacturers. CLEAN OUT YOUR STOMACH —and enjoy your food!

There are some people who never really enjoy their food because no matter how long ago it was since they last had a meal, they always feel "full up." Some feel as though a lump were lodged in the middle of their chests—others as though their stomach were blown out like a balloon with wind and gas.

This is because the food from their last meal has not been completely digested, and remains behind in the stomach, turning bad and forming acid and evil gases. Food must be digested and cleaned right out of the stomach after every meal, if you are to feel ready to eat at the proper time. If you suffer in this way, take a dose of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder after eating. It will help you to digest all your food in the proper way, prevent the formation of too much acid and unhealthy gas, and clear poisonous waste gently out of the system. Wind, flatulence, heartburn all go if you take this scientific remedy. Even such serious ailments as gastric and duodenal ulcer have been ended by Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Bowler-Hatted Peasantry

THE plan of London's A.R.P. the enemy. The polygot population of Carthage was very like the polygot population of twentieth century London, the only difference being that where Mr. Robinson can journey to Manchester and risk nothing worse than a cold in the head, the Carthaginian courted certain death if he poked his nose ten miles outside the city limits, unless accompanied by a numerous, well armed retinue. A journey by sea was even more hazardous; if fair weather blessed the escaping cockle shell, pirates or the enemy fleet unaided the Gods. Small wonder the ancients preferred known danger to uncharted perils, the very strangeness of which lent an added terror to flight.

Every Roof A Smoking Pyre

War caused their destruction. War more ruthless than any conflict of modern times; so savage that it spared neither man, woman or child; so destructive that it did not stay its hand until every roof was a smoking pyre. Corinth, rich, populous, busier than Chicago. Carthage, proud mistress of the seas, with a million inhabitants, and luxury shops that would dub the Rue de la Paix provincial. These cities and a score equally rich and powerful, vanished in flames, their inhabitants either put to the sword or enslaved in foreign lands.

All of these disasters were the climaxes of long campaigns. Though the citizens had ample warning of the impending calamity, few made any attempt to leave the doomed city. This immobility was neither due to an excess of patriotism, nor to an insurmountable reluctance to abandon their homes and property to that remained of their civilisation was the loot stored in the palaces of their conquerors. Now, after a long cycle of humane warfare, war threatens to revert to ancient standards, and to equal in barbaric severity and attrition the campaign of Xerxes, Hannibal, and P. Cornelius Scipio.

Yet, if A.R.P.'s plan be founded on fact and not political inspiration, the consequences of another Armageddon, may not prove to be the extinction of national culture in a welter of mangled bodies and razed buildings. Rather do I envisage a return to pastoral life, modified by an urban consciousness that retains the memory of city ease and city standards without the means to implement them.

HONG KONG EXPERTS STUDY A.R.P. IN CANTON TERROR

Lessons May Be Put To Use Here And In England

"Shock-Absorbers" Recommended After Seeing Effect

(From Our Staff Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

Lessons learned by Canton during the last few weeks of terror from the air, may be put to use by A.R.P. authorities in Hong Kong and England.

This, the "Sunday Herald" understands, is the possible consequence of a visit paid to the devastated areas of the Kwangtung capital by two prominent Hong Kong doctors.

It is understood that a comprehensive report on the effect of high explosive and incendiary bombs has been drawn up, which is to be forwarded to the competent authorities.

Chief recommendations of the Report are believed to be:

Construction of "shock absorber"—layers of bamboo—over roof-tops.

The inefficiency of dugouts unless built far underground, for which the expense is prohibitive, and

The use of zig-zag trenches to accommodate civilians.

SHOCK ABSORBERS

Few buildings in Canton to-day are without bamboo "shock absorbers." Though flimsy in appearance, this precaution has on many authenticated occasions exploded a falling bomb before it has penetrated the roof.

There have been cases when bombs have completely wrecked the roof of a building, while residents in the lower floors have escaped.

The bamboos are naturally ineffective against bombs set to explode after penetrating, but in the case of missiles which explode on contact they have saved many lives.

RARELY FAILED

Precautions of this kind are useless against incendiary bombs, but as the majority of bombs dropped during the raids on Canton have been high explosive, the effectiveness of these layers has only rarely failed.

Dugouts, of the amateurish, home-made variety, have proved in several cases to be dangerous traps.

Whole families who have placed their trust in thin concrete shelters, covered with sandbags, have been either blown to pieces by a direct hit or have been killed by concussion.

DUG-OUT COSTS

Bombs, of a weight of about 500 lbs., which have burst as far as 50 yards away, have killed groups of people who showed no external signs of injury.

Only effective dug-out system is one built far underground, with a sufficient covering of earth to guarantee absolutely immunity even in the event of a direct hit.

Only a few of this type of shelter would be invaluable, but their construction on a large scale is negated by the inevitably huge cost.

ZIG-ZAG TRENCH

Of equal or probably greater value and at far less expense is the zig-zag trench system.

This trench, dug to straggle round the landscape in general, is probably the most effective shelter for a large civilian population.

STARTLING REVELATIONS OF SLAVE MARKETS IN COLONY: GIRLS FOR SALE

(By A Special Correspondent)

It sounds fantastic, but one night last week I attended a slave market held in a flat on the mainland.

Four Chinese girls, two of ages between 14 to 16 years, one stated to be 19 years old and one 21 years of age, were sold for sums ranging from $150 to $250 each.

WHAT THE STARS FORETELL

By MARY BLAKE

If June 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10.15 a.m. to 12.15 p.m., from 2.15 to 4.15 p.m., and from 7.15 to 9.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8.15 to 10.15 a.m.; from 5.15 to 7.15 p.m. and from 9.15 to 11.15 p.m.

It will be decidedly unwise this day to assume another person's authority. Personal prerogatives will be zealously guarded, and any infringement of them is apt to be resented. You may find ample evidence before the day ends, that your friends have had you in mind. You are likely to have some very amusing unique experiences. People as a whole will be in an exceptional good humour, with a propensity to indulge in jokes at their friends' expense. Should you be one of the victims accept their jests good naturedly. Be slow in ridiculing anything or anybody this day, otherwise you may invite trouble. It perhaps will be well to make only reasonable requests this day and refrain from being too insistent that they be granted. Married and engaged couples, and those contemplating matrimony, must not allow false pride to get the better of their common sense, if they wish this to be a harmonious day.

If a woman and June 19 is your birthday, you probably will have a very large circle of acquaintances, but comparatively few intimate friends. Although you are fully capable of fighting your own battles the chances are you will have someone to fight them for you. You might impress people who meet you for the first time as being pleasure-loving, but those who learn to know you apparently will discover that you have an intellectual depth they did not dream you possessed. As a trained nurse, artist, newspaper woman, real estate or insurance agent or singer you might make a fortune and a long-remembered name. You seem destined to have a very happy married life.

The child born on June 19, has so much determination sometimes, that it is mistaken for stubbornness. This youngster is likely to have some well-defined ambition which is evidently worthy of encouragement.

If a man and June 19 is your natal day, you are apt to be very conservative, progressive and aggressive. Through politics, the pulpit, theatrical work, writing or selling you may be able to save

I learned afterwards that the three youngest girls were destined for houses of ill-fame near the former Central Market off Queens Road Central, and that the eldest girl was bought to be a concubine for a local Chinese resident.

This was only one of the several similar human markets which are being held in the Colony.

Young Chinese women and girls are being brought into the Colony from North China, Shanghai, Foochow, Amoy, Swatow and Canton by organised slave racketeers and sold here to brothel-keepers and to men who desire additional wives.

MOTOR CAR RENDEZVOUS

Information of a forthcoming sale is passed around to those interested by Chinese women, who earn commission from the racketeers, but the date and whereabouts of the sale is not revealed.

Prospective customers are picked up in a motor-car at an appointed time and taken to a house "somewhere" on the mainland where the girls are assembled for disposal.

The girls are usually disposed of in batches of three to five at different places.

There is no bidding or bargaining.

Girls of ages between 16 and 21 years, are priced higher than those below 16 and above 21, and, I was told, fetch at times $300 each.

BUYERS' PRIVILEGE

Customers enjoy the privilege of having the girls physically and medically examined before making his or her purchase. They, are, however, mostly brothel-keepers, who purchase the unfortunate human beings for the sole purpose of making money through harlotry.

Markets offering young women and girls for sale, I was told, have been existent in the Colony since last December.

Some of them are girls who have lost their relatives and homes as a result of the war, and many are unemployed factory hands who lost their jobs after the Japanese occupied the towns in which they worked.

Fearful of being detained in institutions for homeless women, these girls allow themselves to be fed and clothed by racketeers' agents after being picked up and are obliged to follow their commands afterwards, even to the extent of ending up in a brothel.

Links In London's Green Girdle

STEP by step, the London County Council, most progressive of all our municipalities, and some of its neighbours are creating on the outer ring of the Metropolis a Green Belt, which for all time will remain green.

Another link in the graceful chain was secured the other day when 111 acres at Stanmore, to the north, were brought from their owner, Sir John Fitzgerald, of Warren House, for £50,000. At the same time the Grove Estate and the Grove Field, adjoining, with a total area of 79 acres, were acquired at a total cost of £32,400 by the Middlesex County Council and the Harrow District Council.

These seem, I own, monstrous sums to pay, but you see these estates were "ripe for development," and that in what comes of tolerating for generations private property in land. At present there is no remedy.

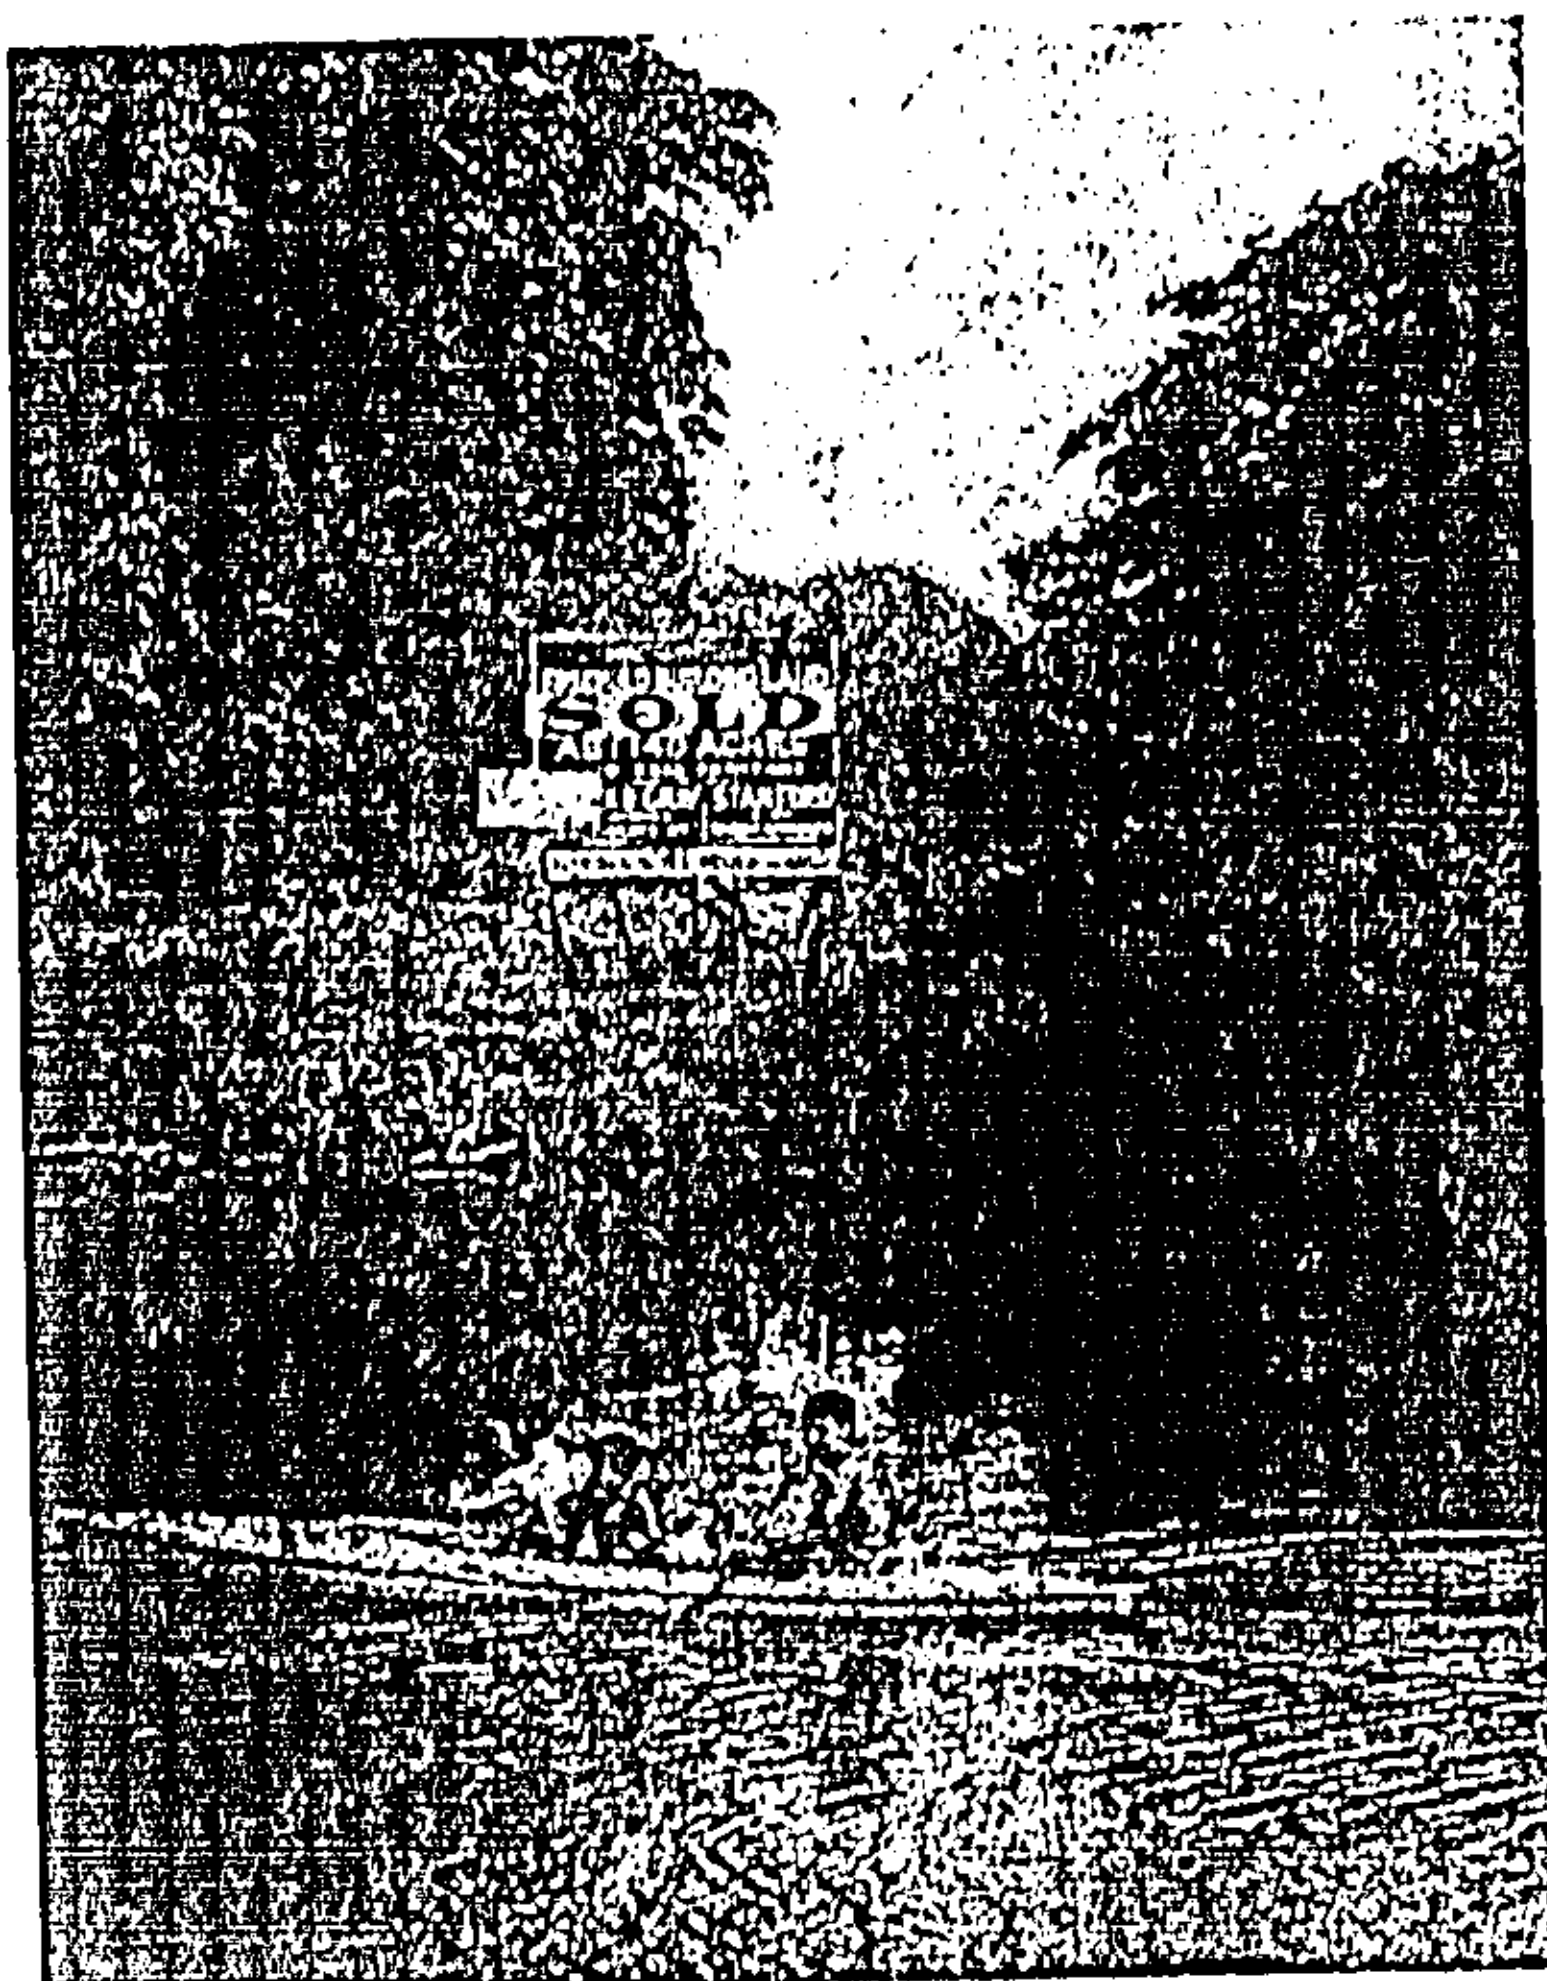

Only a week or two before, other grand estates were bought totalling 550 acres. In Hertfordshire, 247 acres known as Great Wood, at Northaw, and about 50 acres forming the greater part of Croxley Hall Woods, and adjoining meadows at Croxley Green, Rickmansworth, were acquired by the Hertfordshire County Council for £20,866, towards which the L.C.C. is contributing £5,700.

At the same time, two areas were bought on the south side by the Surrey County Council for £23,023—about 220 acres known as Sheep Lenn at West Horsley, and about 37 acres near Ham House, Richmond. As an aid to the purchases, the L.C.C. in these cases is finding £7,100.

Not long before these considerable deals, the Middlesex and the London County Councils agreed to buy over 2,000 acres on the north side of Enfield for £318,400, of which the L.C.C. undertook to find £81,700.

So this lovely girdle around the world's greatest city continues to grow. The extraordinary thing is the amount that has been accomplished since the time a little more than two and a half years ago, when the L.C.C. announced its scheme, and when, you may recall, many people greeted it just as a high falutin' idealistic "Socialistic" stunt.

Nearly four years ago the Greater London Regional Planning Com-

more parts are required as playing fields, this also, it is hoped, will be possible to acquire land within the prescribed area at prices which would not be prohibitive. Since that time, of course, it has been possible to see the scheme in working practice, and to measure its possibilities by such solid achievement as I have outlined.

I am not able to make any official announcement, but I gather that in the light of the success attained, the original time limit will not be enforced, and that so long as there is such friendly co-operation, the plans of the Council will continue until the scheme is satisfactorily completed.

Most important of all now is to ensure that the lands acquired, and those yet to be brought, shall, in fact, be preserved in perpetuity. There is little fear of that, but the L.C.C. is leaving nothing to chance—or possible reactionary success. It is to promote special legislation in Parliament declaring that the lands do, in fact, form part of the Green Belt, providing that none can be sold, and enabling the Council and the contributing authorities to enforce covenants securing their right to hold the properties for agricultural or other approved purposes.

The Green Girdle is thus assured for London for all time. But what about the great provincial cities—the lesser Londons—which are now expanding at such a terrific rate, sprawling all over the adjacent countryside? I have lately renewed touch with some of them—Leeds, Birmingham, and Cardiff. I have seen there how what I once knew as pleasant countryside six, eight, ten miles out, has been so built upon as to be practically unrecognisable.

Unless these cities and others such as Glasgow, Sheffield, Bradford, Nottingham, Newcastle, Leicester, and Liverpool act like London and its neighbours have done, its citizens will soon find that all their amenities within a reasonable and practicable area have been overrun.

We want, in fact, green girdles around all our vast centres of population, inviolate from speculative house building, factories, workshops, garages, hoardings, and all other marks of invading civilisation.

We want these belts because they are essential "lungs" for great working populations; because those who do toil have the right of easy access to natural beauty and comeliness, and the means of pleasant recreation.

But the provinces will not get them unless the citizens turn their faces against those who wring their hands and cry, "Just look at the expense!" They will have to say, "Hang the expense," realising the truth that these grand lungs are cheap at the price.

GEORGE A. GREENWOOD

gives latest facts of the great Green Belt Scheme might suggest that the Belt beauty, without a house or a shop could be devised at a radius of approximately 13 miles from Charing Cross. When, less than two years later, the scheme began to take shape, it became manifest to the originators and their colleagues that, for various reasons, one particularly being the almost prohibitive cost of acquisition so comparatively near the heart of things, they must be content if at various points the girdle bulged out as far as 20 to 25 miles.

Again we must blame our effete system of private property in land, which deposits the security value into the hands of those who for such properties toil not, neither do they spin.

This unfortunate circumstance apart, the actual progress achieved, since the scheme was launched in April, 1935, is nothing short of astonishing. Within 18 months the L.C.C. was committed to an expenditure of nearly £1,000,000 and here, near to the home of the Marquis of Crewe, are arable fields, woodlands, and wide open stretches of rough grass land rising from 200 to 500 feet above sea level.

Tired mothers in the crowded south-eastern slums and suburbs of London will be able to take their youngsters to this delectable area for about 1s. 6d. to 2s., and I am pretty sure great numbers will go.

Of course, the scheme is not nearly completed. When it was launched the L.C.C. stipulated that its offer to neighbouring authorities was to be open for three years, and that its total commitments in that period were to be limited to £2,000,000.

It was then beyond the knowledge made, so that the public can enjoy all the amenities of the land. If be received, what amount of co-

WAR AND SOCIAL PROGRESS

PRESENCE at Geneva round the same conference table of delegates from both China and Japan, provided with some dramatic publicity by the disagreement between them as to how the Chinese delegate should be permitted to express his disapproval of Japanese aggression in China, served as another illustration of the fact that the International Labour Office has attracted an interest and an allegiance from member States of the League and also from non-member States much more constant than has the political organisation under the Covenant. The fact should give pause to those who disparage continued faith in the League's ideals. For the truth is that there exists in all nations—including the totalitarian Powers—an active movement for social amelioration of the common people. Germany is a prominent example. Although her present concentration on self-sufficiency and military preparations has unquestionably lowered the general standard of living, much has, nevertheless, been done by the Nazi regime to provide better housing and wider social services. Most nations have something of achievement in social progress at stake in the present threat to world peace. Certainly the widespread interest in the I.L.O. is one of the strongest current arguments for the maintenance of the League organisation. A summary was recently cabled of Mr. Harold Butler's farewell report on his retirement from the I.L.O. directorship, and, as in his previous annual report, he permitted himself some general reflection on the state of the world as he sees it from a privileged position. It is highly probable that what he thinks to-day the world will come to think furiously before long.

"With the fear of war obsessing the public mind everywhere," writes Mr. Butler, "all thoughts of social progress may well seem more appropriate to another planet. . . . Vast sums which might otherwise have been profitably devoted to fighting sickness, to prolonging life, to sweetening old age, to adding a cubit to the knowledge and culture of mankind, are devoted to the destruction of what man has so painfully acquired or created." The detestation of the waste and folly of huge expenditure on armaments was expressed graphically enough by the Prime Minister, when, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, he introduced his Budget last year. Mr. Butler's argument is one addressed to all re-arming Powers together; and he is met by the retort from each one of them individually that to neglect adequate defence in the world as it is to-day would be to imperil, no less, its own investment in social reform. With this Mr. Butler himself would agree, but he would rightly insist that the matter cannot be left there. Statesmanship must find a way out of that impasse, for, if national expenditures upon war preparations continue to grow, they will begin, in Mr. Butler's words, "to sap the social edifice" and make war itself inescapable. The tragedy is the greater because the world has to-day largely learned how to solve the technical problems of social progress and welfare. Were peace assured, and a wide measure of both military and economic disarmament made possible, there can be little question that the world could look forward with confidence to a period of unparalleled prosperity.

If appeasement is ultimately to be achieved it must be continually borne in mind that the obstacles to be overcome are economic as well as political. But that is not the whole story. Mr. Butler points out with great insight that they are more than that—they are, also, even perhaps chiefly, psychological. Even so it has been said of Heaven that "it is first a temper and then a place." The highest ideals of the pacifists may be Utopian, unattainable in this world. It may be debated whether man, if he could be assured of peace and a chance for social progress, would devote his energies wholeheartedly to his own or to his neighbour's moral improvement. But the statesman must work for the best results he can get, using the material available to his hand. War, it is said, is but the natural pugnacity of mankind. But that argument is no longer convincing, or even valid, when those who use it must nowadays admit also that war with aeroplane bombs and poison gas, war for the wholesale obliteration of towns and their inhabitants—which is sheer barbarism—is natural to civilised man. Reading between the lines of Mr. Butler's report, one is persuaded that it is vain to discuss how the present menacing situation arose, and that the more effective course is to show its inevitable and terrible denouement unless checked, and work for a pooling of contributions towards a settlement in the name of the nations' common heritage of civilisation.

Flooding of the great plain of Honan, over which Japan's mechanised divisions were preparing to charge swiftly towards Hankow, changed the war picture in North China in a single night. The Yellow River is now pouring through several wide gaps in the dykes at an ever-increasing pace and with the prospects of a steady rise in the river level until the end of July, a flood of unprecedented proportions, involving huge areas in Honan, Anhwei and Shantung, appears to be inevitable. Responsibility for the breaking of the dykes is charged by China to Japan and by Japan to China. The severe artillery bombardments of Chinese positions on the south side of the river were undoubtedly an important contributory factor, although the strategic gain to the Chinese forces which has followed the deluge seems altogether too valuable and timely to have been completely fortuitous.

For the time being, Japan is bogged in North China. Scores of tanks have been lost. Battery after battery of light and heavy artillery was caught in the swirling waters before any chance offered of getting them away to higher ground. The casualties list, too, among the troops operating against Chengchow is believed to have been high, though Japanese estimates are traditionally on the favourable side. Chengchow, fall of which was considered certain, appears to be safe from attack for months to come, and the whole line of attack on Hankow from the North and North-East is a morass of fast gathering waters. Japan could not have been stopped more effectively had the Chinese Command had twice the number of troops available for defence of the area.

Switching of the offensive to Anhwei and the Yangtze gave the impression that it was no more than a diversion to keep Hankow occupied while the Japanese Command reconsidered the position. A considerable time must elapse before the Japanese are in a position to bring a sufficient force into the operations to constitute a grave threat to Hankow, while China by reducing the scope for surprise is more happily situated than had she to consider the strategic possibilities on a front extending from Chengchow through Hefei to Anking.

Of chief concern to Hong Kong was the nature of the next Japanese step in their professed intention of ending hostilities as rapidly as possible. Warning of intention to cut the Canton-Kowloon Railway in the region between the British border and Canton was given authoritatively for the first time, but sign of any move to implementation of the threat was lacking, and there was an impression that Japan would avoid the danger of friction with Britain if military exigencies permitted. An alternative plan for severing the Hong Kong-Canton-Hankow railway link was mooted, a land operation from the Yangtze, striking across country south of Hankow with Changsha as the objective.

Protest week in London against the Canton bombing massacres was accompanied by considerable activity on the part of Japanese apologists and a special protest gathering of Hong Kong's very own. The Japanese Ambassador in London, Mr. Yoshida, rather spoiled the case for Japan by the candid but terrible confession that the object of the bombing of Canton was the demoralisation of the civilian population and to prevent the Kwangtung authorities from sending further reinforcements to the north. The moral force of world opinion had some effect on Japan, however. Canton had a comparatively quiet week. Heavy casualties would, nevertheless, have occurred in one raid on the Central Park district for the fact that the entire zone had been evacuated.

In Spain, the outlook for the Government grew gloomier as the insurgent drive against Castellon de la Plana moved steadily on in steam-roller fashion. Reports of imminent collapse, whether justified or not, no doubt fortified Mr. Chamberlain in his announced decision that the British Government proposed to take no steps to stop insurgent sinking of British ships in Spanish Government ports. British steamers will continue to trade, he said, at their own risk, and the insurgent airmen took the hint by sinking two more. Italy expressed its pleasure at the anxiety of the Premier to do nothing which might upset the completion of the Anglo-Italian Agreement.

Clash between Germany and Britain over the servicing of the Austrian loans took on an interesting colour. British threat to terminate the special arrangements under which Anglo-German financial exchanges are simplified was followed by a speech by Dr. Funk, repudiating the Austrian debt on the score that it represented purely political loans, but left the door open for further negotiations. Whether profitable exploration is possible is another matter. The "Daily Mail" normally so pronouncedly pro-Nazi suddenly found itself demanding financial "sanctions" against Germany. Where money is at stake, political faiths frequently undergo amusing translations.

SCRUTATOR.

Battle Of Ideas: by Geoffrey Trease

Can We Save The Countryside?

THE British people constantly need to be reminded that they still possess one of the loveliest countryside in the world.

It isn't quite so lovely, of course, as it was last year, and the deterioration since ten years ago is both noticeable and alarming. A lot of trees have gone and a lot more houses have come; but there is still a lot of green and, with any luck, we feel the countryside may just last our lifetime.

Is that enough? It seems rather a mean-spirited attitude.

After all, the England we inherited was rather a work of art. Romans and medieval monks had done their bit. The patient farming of a thousand years—all the draining and clearing and hedge-planting and wall building—had made the land the pretty patchwork of fields and copses which delights the eye, and the inspired tree-planting of the 18th century added the final touch.

It seems a pity to leave so much poorer a legacy to our grandchildren.

"Ah, yes! but haven't we town-planning schemes now? And anti-litter propaganda? And green belts, National Trusts, and Men of the Trees? Those are all excellent things. But about as efficacious for saving the countryside as a soup-ladle for bailing out the water from a sinking liner."

The National Trust, for instance, was founded in 1895. By the end of last year it owned or controlled only 72,636 acres—less than a single ducal estate! And this after 42 years of appeals and agitations.

There is something ironical in the spectacle of a nation, which gave close on a million lives in the War "for King and Country," making such prolonged yet inadequate efforts to acquire the ownership of that same country.

What else should the Government do? First, give us Access to the Mountains, open up the old footpaths, and give the cyclist and the walker equal consideration with the motorist. And, in the great road-building policy upon which it would embark, see that the amenities were considered, as well as safety and speed.

See, too, that local Councils used their full existing powers to control building developments within their area. Refuse grants, if necessary, where Councils were luke-warm.

With the jerry-builder "liquidated," all new housing schemes would be dictated purely by public interest. Our towns would contract, no longer sending their octopus tentacles far into the fields. Gradually our coats could pay architects and builders.

Factories would be built where they were needed. And factories, would no longer be ugly places, because the workers would insist on the lessons of Bourneville and many fields of cooperative enterprise being applied everywhere.

And the old buildings which are worth keeping—the cathedrals, country houses, castles? They would be safer than they are now, when their preservation is a hand-to-mouth business, depending on the dwindling incomes of private owners or the method of subscription lists and urgent appeals to the public.

We look forward to the day when no single building worth saving—whether it be York Minster or the cottage-home of a famous personage—shall be endangered through lack of funds to fields. Gradually our coats could pay architects and builders.

The Week's Photography

THIS MONTH'S SUBJECT
"PETS"

By "Lens-Hood"

AMONG the pictures submitted this week for the "Pets" Competition are three good examples reproduced on this page.

Regarding the picture "Fledgling" by Mr. G. J. Grover, I am told that this was taken at three o'clock in the afternoon outside a bird shop in Nathan Road. The head is very well placed and the sharp contrast of tones against a deep black background is well balanced by the post on the right-hand. Unfortunately though, the strong white light in the back tends to pull the eye away from the centre of interest. This fault could be remedied by local "dodging-in" during the enlarging and would considerably enhance the picture.

Don't forget, the quintessence of success in photography is simplicity, simplicity and yet more simplicity. Never consider how much you can get in a picture; always concentrate on how much you can leave out.

Now for "The Thief"! This is an interesting example of a kitten suddenly surprised in the middle of a foraging raid on the tea-table, and who tries to get away with the whole thing by pretending she was not interested in the silly old milk anyway and was just looking for a cool place to sleep. It is a pity though that the sugar bowl is so predominant. It would have been better to have had this in the background where it would have been more subdued and also to place another light on the right of the kitten. Nevertheless it is an amusing example of the scope afforded by this subject.

Entries. At the bottom of the page you will find a coupon which must accompany each entry; an entry may comprise as many pictures as you desire to submit. I would like to remind you that prints should be on glossy paper, in black and white. The first prize for each monthly competition is $25.00 and to cover cost of enlargements etc. $1.00 is paid for each picture published. The winner will be announced on the first Sunday of the month following that in which the competition was held, so you won't have any tedious waiting for results!

This Weather

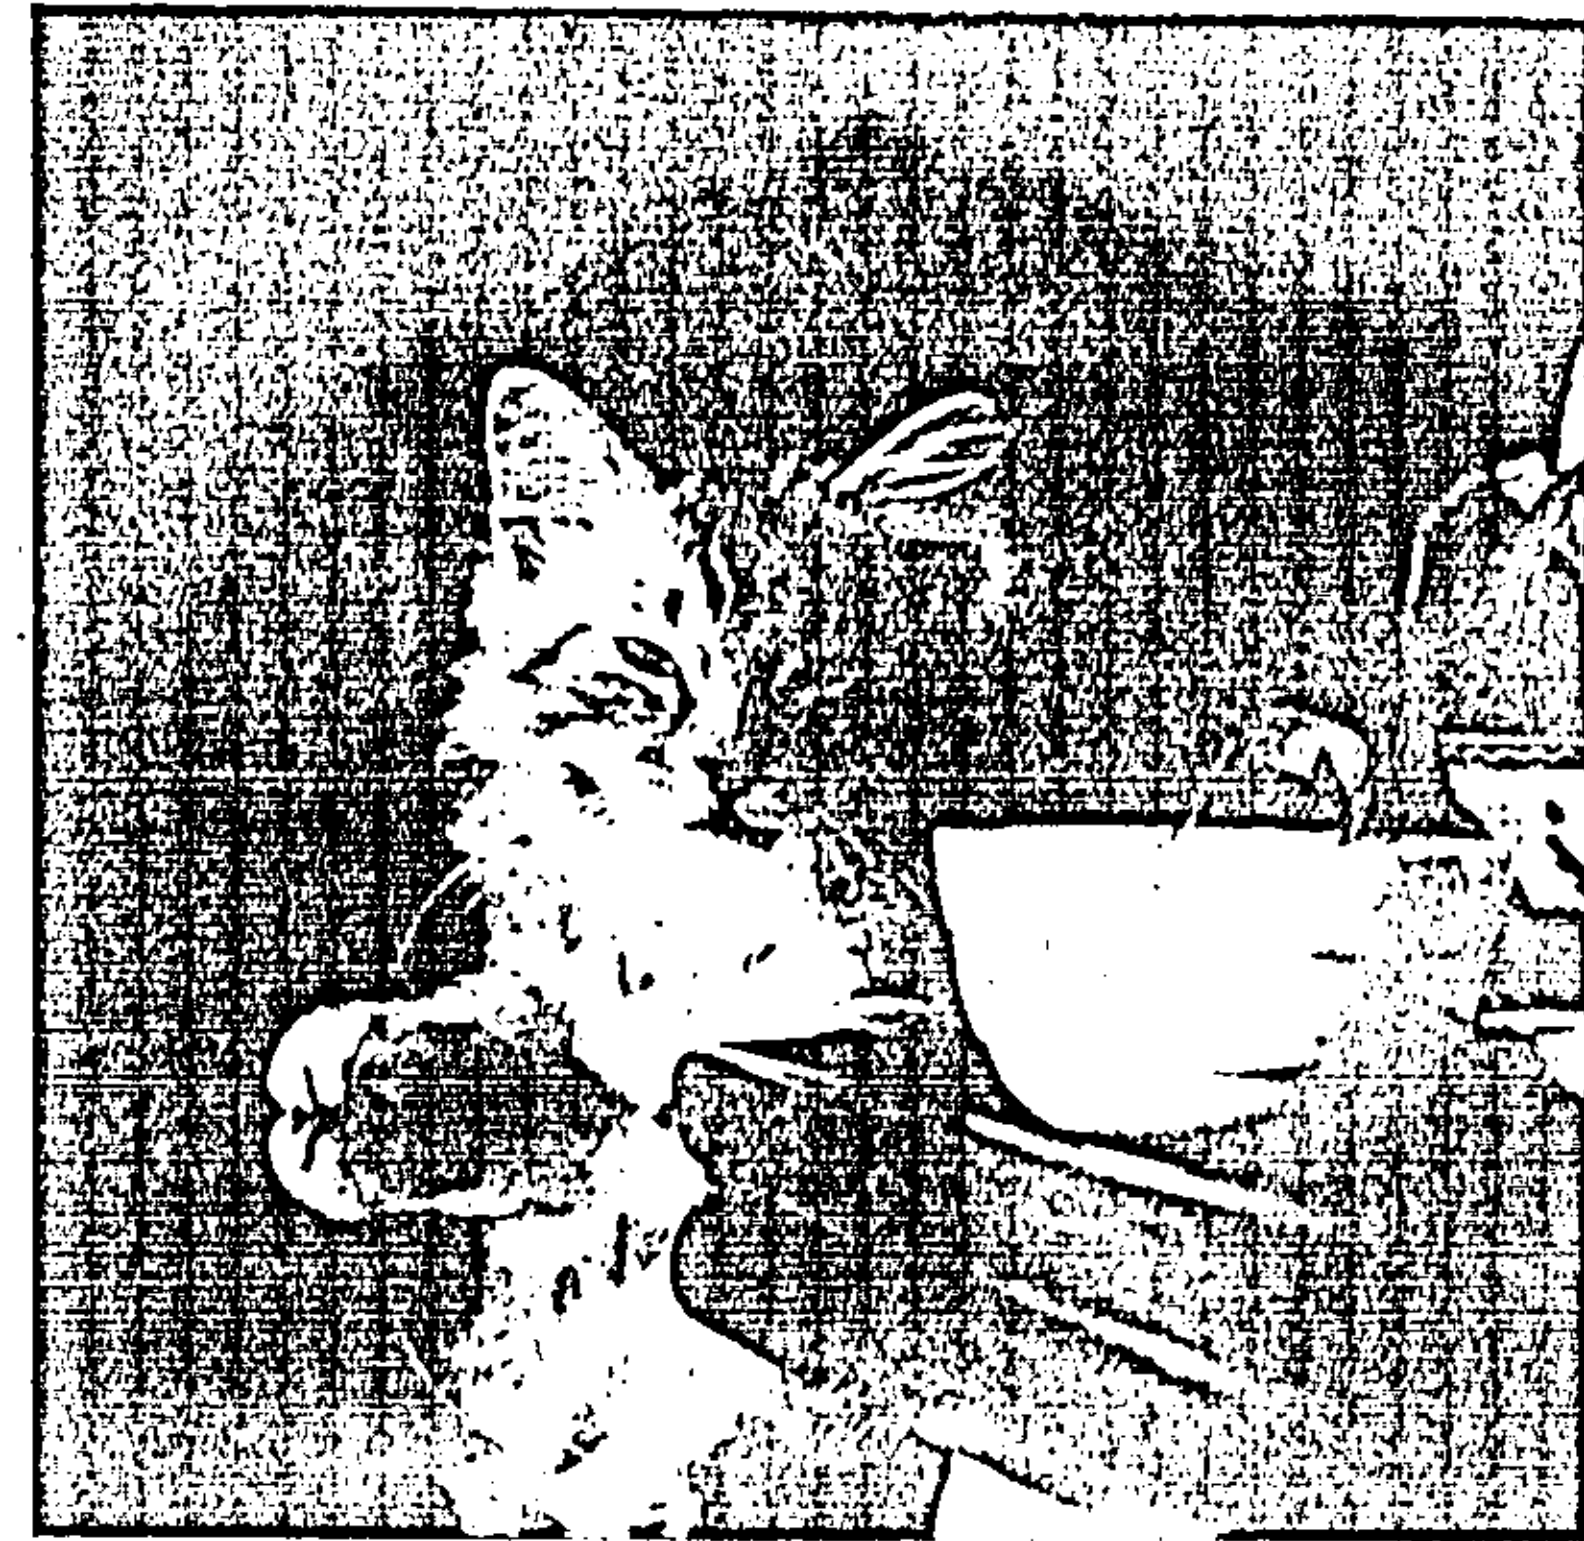

The advent of the hot weather causes many heart-aches among amateurs who prefer to do their own processing. The keeping of developing solutions, especially negative, at the proper temperature is all important. I have heard many a sad story of amateurs who have suffered from such horrible maladies as over-development and reticulation by allowing the solutions to be too warm.

Personally I use a daylight developing tank and about an hour before beginning place the solutions in the coolest part of the refrigerator (or ice-box). This brings them down to approximately 60 degrees Fahrenheit which is raised to 65 degrees when they are poured into the tank. The addition of a quarter-ounce of powdered alum to each twenty ounces of the fixer makes an excellent hardening solution and prints may then be washed under the ordinary tap water with impunity.

Colour.

Some years ago I read a very interesting short story by H. G. Wells, entitled "Mr. Brownlow's Newspaper". It was one of the author's last lapses into the fantastic before he started writing on social questions, and concerned the imaginative account of a gentleman who came home one evening to his flat, and found instead of his usual evening paper waiting for him on the tray, a paper that was dated some twenty years hence. It was made of some very light wafer-thin sheet metal, but the most interesting part from the point of view of the photographer is the fact that all the illustrations were in colour.

I wonder how long it will be before that day arrives when the making of pictures in colour and their reproduction will become as easy as the monotone process is to-day? Experts are working feverishly on this question the world over, but so far all processes formulated are far too complicated for the average amateur. Nearly every method involves the use of dyes, filters, and enormously complicated cameras. Looking forward, one can imagine too, the bitter controversies that will arise between the respective schools of colour and monotone, the heated arguments on the value of light and shade as compared to the brilliance of the spectrum. Somewhat like the dissensions that arose at the appearance of the first miniature camera!

By the way, it should be understood that the above remarks apply solely to the making of colour prints, as colour transparencies may easily be made nowadays even with a box camera. If you have not tried these transparencies I would strongly advise you to do so, as I know the results will surprise and gratify you. The most important factor for success is correct exposure, and the easiest way to achieve this is to use a photo-electric exposure meter. If you don't possess one of these little instruments, the simplest way to acquire one is to secure the $25.00 prize by submitting your best "Pets" picture without delay to. —"LENS HOOD."

A Woman Is As Old As She Looks

I don't think the truly smart woman of forty or fifty wants to look twenty years younger than she is. She wants to look just a little younger, yes. It flatters her ego to feel she is outwitting Father Time just a bit. But, after all, if she looks frankly but beautifully her age, what of it?

Take three women. One looks her age but looks ludicrous because she tries so very hard to look younger. She wears fashions that are much too youthful, she wears gay prints, high colours, uses too much make-up, has too much curl in her hair.

Another looks her age or somewhat older and is a sorry sight because she seems dull, listless, too definitely resigned. Her dresses are all dead black, she is extremely conservative in her choice of line, colour, clothes, hats and she wears very little make-up. Her hair style, if it is any style at all, is very plain, sometimes brushed straight back revealing every bit of wrinkle or sagging.

Frankly Lovely And Alive!

The third woman may look her age, or a little younger. She has hobbies, is interested in living. She chooses colours that are neither too blatant nor too conservative. She realises that there are more and more muted pastels, quiet but lovely prints, the ever-effective black and blue set off with lingerie touches—all purposefully planned by a kind fate and fashionists for the mature woman. She knows that there are smart, simple, dignified styles, beautiful lines to set off the mature figure; that frills and excess trimming and fur-below are pitfalls that only the young can dare. She uses make-up in a subtle way. She uses perfume, too. She chooses just the right shades of rouge, powder and lipstick.

BILLIE BURKE is the mother of a young lady in her teens but she, herself, keeps active, young and attractive. Make-up is applied lightly and hair is waved softly to flatter and form a youthful frame.

She applies them properly, keeping the rouge high to give the face a lift, but away from wrinkles and expression lines to avoid emphasising them. She also avoids excess curl and wave in her hair knowing that soft waves and few add a soft, youthful frame for the face.

Perfect, Permanent Fit by Jantzen

There's no nonsense about this sleek fitting Jantzen—smartly designed for those who take their swimming seriously. Of fashionable importance is the half skirt that gives flattering smoothness in front and the youthful sophistication of a maillot in back.

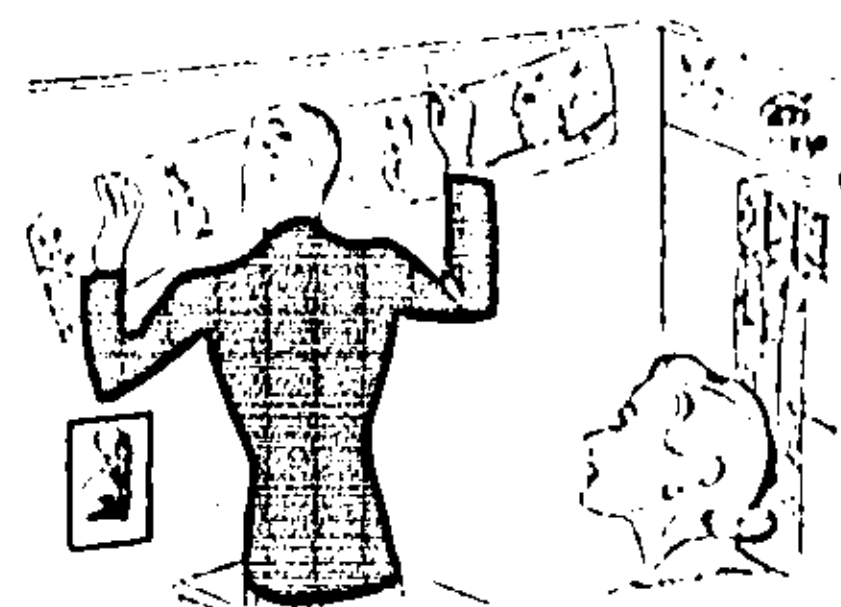

Girdle fit Lastex Wisp-O-Weight—an exclusive Jantzen fabric of wool and Lastex—snugs smoothly to the figure. Perfect, permanent fit, in the water and out. Two colour shoulder straps simulate hand-braiding. They may be worn straight or crossed. For sun-bathing the neck is turned down to a Vee.

Mainly about WOMEN

A WOMAN artist who has never had a painting lesson in her life is holding her first solo exhibition for six years in London. She is Madame Clara Klinghoffer, recognised the world over as one of the most outstanding women painters of the present day. Epstein and Sickert among other famous men, are interested in her work, which is unique in its variety of technique.

Our London representative writes: "I went to see her the other day, and she showed me round her exhibition herself. Petite, red-haired, she speaks with a lisp and a slight foreign accent due to her long stay in Holland. She is married to a Dutchman. Without any self-consciousness she told me the amazing story of her life.

"I have been painting ever since I can remember," she said. "I lived with my family in Hackney until I was about 20, and used to paint everything and everybody I saw or could get to pose for me. My sisters, who are both lovely to paint, were always willing to sit. I still like painting them better than anybody. I never had any lessons.

"When I was 19 I had painted an enormous number of pictures, and friends persuaded me to hold an exhibition. It was a great success.

"After this exhibition, Madame Klinghoffer continued to work hard. She still refused to have any painting lessons, however, but she went to the Slade School for a few months to perfect her drawing.

"People either have a sense of colour or they have not," she told me. "You cannot teach people to paint. Colour is subjective, and no two people can see an object in the same way. You can teach them to draw to a certain extent, because there are some fundamental things about line and perspective which everybody has to know. But I never allow myself to have lessons for more than three months at a time. I am afraid of becoming stereotyped, and that immediately kills all that is spontaneous and personal in art."

"As for portraits, Madame Klinghoffer enjoys painting children best. I saw several portraits of her own children, a boy aged five, and a girl aged seven. The best of her small son shows him dressed as a cowboy mounted on a rocking-horse.

"He was thrilled at being painted," his mother told me, "and loved being dressed up." I asked if he found it difficult to sit still for long periods. "No, he is very good," replied Madame Klinghoffer, "but most children are very hard to paint."

"This little girl," pointing to a painting of a small child of about three, "was terrible." She cried and fidgeted all the time until her mother took to telling her fairy stories."

"Bandage your feet to be in step with new styles," says Mr. Robert Kalloch, American fashion expert. As designer for Columbia studios, he has been designing foot-wear for Katharine Hepburn and Doris Nolan.

"For both these ladies," he said recently, "we have designed shoes which give the appearance of being tied to the feet. Miss Hepburn wears a pair made of black silk jersey which are both toeless and heelless. They are clipped directly to the instep and tied to the back of her heel. They go with a street costume of beige and black, lightweight wool.

"Miss Nolan wears a pair of gold mesh sandals which tie sectionally over both instep and heel. The sandals match an evening dress of gold tissue, and have ties of the same material which lace round the ankle like ballet shoes."

"In Bond Street the other day," says our London correspondent, "I saw some samples of bandage shoes. They had leather soles and heels which were tied to the foot with swathed bands of chiffon. There were also some made in gay cotton prints to match summer dresses."

But New York has something more sinister to say about feet. "The average size of women's shoes has increased by a size to a size and a half during the last ten years," says a man who designs for a large shoe manufacturer there. "While a trend towards greater comfort in women's clothing has had something to do with the increase it is also true that the feet of the present generation of women have grown larger."

"This is because modern women were better fitted when they were children, and as a result their feet have developed more naturally than their mothers' and grandmothers'."

Ten years ago the average size in women's shoes ran from three to four, he pointed out, while today the greatest number of sales come in sizes five to six and a half.

Amusements And Personality

FROM a recent personality study of 20,000 young people, in which 80 psychologists co-operated, emerges the significant fact that having fun is important in more ways than one. Games and amusements not only afford recreation and relaxation but they are a major influence in developing personality.

Our tests show that the amusements which contribute most to personality are those involving activity and physical exercise. Summer camps, for example, definitely aid children to develop personality because active outdoors, the person who can play six games with a moderate degree of skill is much better prepared to have fun with a variety of friends and acquaintances than is the person who can play only one or two.

The most popular indoor amusements at present are: listening to the radio, reading (usually without any attempt to formulate ideas of one's own), and going to the movies. Yet these amusements are among the least beneficial in developing personality. In their effect on personality, indoor amusements were divided by our door games are a major part of camp programmes. A single summer at camp, however, was found to have little or no significance in the case of children who disliked the experience and were unable to adjust themselves to new ways of having a good time.

Concentrating on one or two athletic sports was found much less helpful to personality than participating in five or six. Naturally, the person who can play six games with a moderate degree of skill is much better prepared to have fun with a variety of friends and acquaintances than is the person who can play only one or two.

The most popular indoor amusements at present are: listening to the radio, reading (usually without any attempt to formulate ideas of one's own), and going to the movies. Yet these amusements are among the least beneficial in developing personality. In their effect on personality, indoor amusements were divided by our tests into two groups, as follows:

Contributing More	Contributing Less
Parties	Checkers
Social dancing	Chess
Contract bridge	Listening to radio
Ping-pong	Movies
Pool or billiards

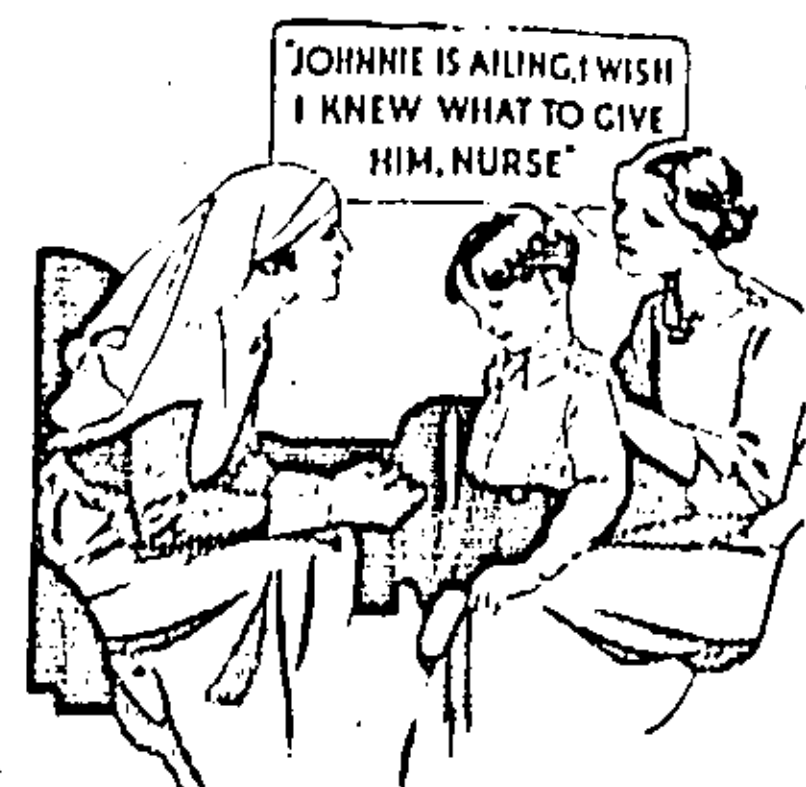

The distinguishing fact about the amusements, outdoor or indoor, which contribute most to personality is that they require action and involve the participation of other people. The best games are those which promote social activity and the exchange of ideas, conversation, laughter and sometimes temper. Becoming thoroughly angry with people is often a stage in getting to know them. If we successfully pass this point and reach the stage of hilarious laughter, we have gone far in cementing friendship.

We often advise people thus troubled to learn some of the games mentioned above. For example, in bridge it is more important to pay careful attention to the actions of three other people than to be a great talker. Indeed, the steady talker is a nuisance. Yet, because a player is not under pressure to make conversation, and because the game raises its own subjects, it becomes more natural for him to converse easily. Similarly, social dancing is one of the surest ways of bridging this gap. Our studies reveal it as a pastime which contributes much to personality, for it vicariously expands social contacts.

It is not surprising that games and sports which require physical exertion are more beneficial to personality than those which do not. They convert us from spectators into participants. They take the place, at least in part, of the physical labour now performed for us by labour-saving devices. The fun they give has a lasting effect because it is conducive to relaxation and to emotional poise.

Equally important is the fact that games give pleasure not only to us but to the people we play with. Personality, let us remember, is measured by the extent to which the individual has acquired habits and skills which interest and serve other people. The bridge player who remembers his partner's discard is doing him a real service—a service which adds to the pleasure both of his partner and of himself.

In all group amusements, this same principle of service holds true. Having a good time oneself is inextricably bound up with serving one's partners and letting them have fun as well.

"I expect he's constipated. Show me your tongue, Johnnie. Yes, I thought so. See how it's coated. Your head aches, too, doesn't it Johnnie, and you feel poorly? Sure signs that he's out of sorts."

"That's the trouble, Mrs. Wilson, his system wants a thorough cleansing. Give him a dose of 'California Syrup of Figs' now and he'll be as happy as a lark in a few hours. It's difficult to keep them regular—when they're young they get lazy about it and are soon upset. But you can avoid all that by giving Johnnie a dose of 'California Syrup of Figs' regularly every Saturday night. It will keep him fit and save you a world of sickness and worry."

"Safe? You couldn't have anything safer! It's a natural fruit laxative, and acts naturally on the bowels. That's why so many doctors recommend it, and give it to their own children."

"Let Johnnie go to the drug store for a bottle now. And let Johnnie be sure to say 'California Syrup of Figs' then there will be no mistake."

"You can't afford to take chances with medicines, particularly with the children. No matter whether it is for myself or a patient, I always insist on the best that money can buy."

Sports Chatter

I understand that in the event of the Chinese sports tour of Malaya, Singapore, India and Australia eventuating, it is extremely unlikely that Norman Lee, their crack swimmer, will accompany them. He is unable to obtain the necessary leave.

Miss Deryl Fair, well-known lady jockey, has left the Colony.

Kowloon Tong Club are experiencing considerable difficulty in fielding a full League lawn bowls team. They have a bare minimum of players and if for any reason one of them is forced to drop out, it is extremely difficult to find a substitute. It is hoped to find some new recruits among members who play other games.

S. A. Bright, well-known Kowloon Bowling Green Club lawn bowler, left the Colony recently for Home.

Lieut. M. P. Weedon, well-known Army cricketer and Middlesex Regiment cricket skipper, left the Colony by s.s. Carthage.

Mrs. T. U. C. Shirley, who figured very prominently in the Ladies' Open Tennis Championships, has left for England.

C. W. Lyle, of the Malayan Civil Service, who has been prominently connected with Macao hockey during the time he studied in the Portuguese colony, left for Penang last week.

Cheung Man Kuen, chairman of Hong Kong Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation, left the Colony on a short holiday last week for Saigon and Siam.

A. J. Hussain, the Indians' short-stop, received a nasty knock on the nose when he collided with Wing Lee in the game against Volunteers last Sunday. He will not be playing for another fortnight.

Ismail and S. Bux, two youngsters who only recently took up baseball, have made great progress and gave promising performances last week. Bux was safe at centre-field, and Ismail held third base well.

It is remarkable that with so much material at their disposal Hong Kong Baseball Club are in such a lowly position in the League. Hearther proved last week that he is more than a useful pitcher, while the rest of the team, individually, compare favourably with other players in the League.

Paul Botelho, the jockey, is taking up baseball and is said to be a safe fielder and a good hitter.

Craigengower's bowls section has been weakened as they have lost W. Atkins, who left for Home last week.

In order to train umpires for the local Baseball League Abe Lui, chairman of the Baseball Umpires' Board, has decided to umpire less games himself for the remainder of the season and give others who have a knowledge of the game a chance at umpire-in-chief at baseball games. According to Lui it is only with practice that the necessary quick decisions can be made.

G. Souza, Volunteers' second baseman, will probably be chosen to represent Portugal in the local International Baseball competition, which will start as soon as the present League is over. G. Souza only took up the game this season and is now one of the finest second basemen in the League.

Meetings have recently been held for the opening of the Chinese Water-Polo League, under the auspices of the Chinese Bathing Club. It is learned that the League will start at the beginning of next month. South China Athletic Association Chinese Bathing Club, Chung Shing Bathing Club and Chinese Athletic Association are the four main contenders for the Championship this year.

By the Judge

Swimming classes are being organised by the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association. The classes are held twice a week at the bathing pool, in Bridge's Street.

V. Chittenden, of the Kowloon Football Club, has recovered from his recent illness. He was seen on the bowls green last week, looking very fit.

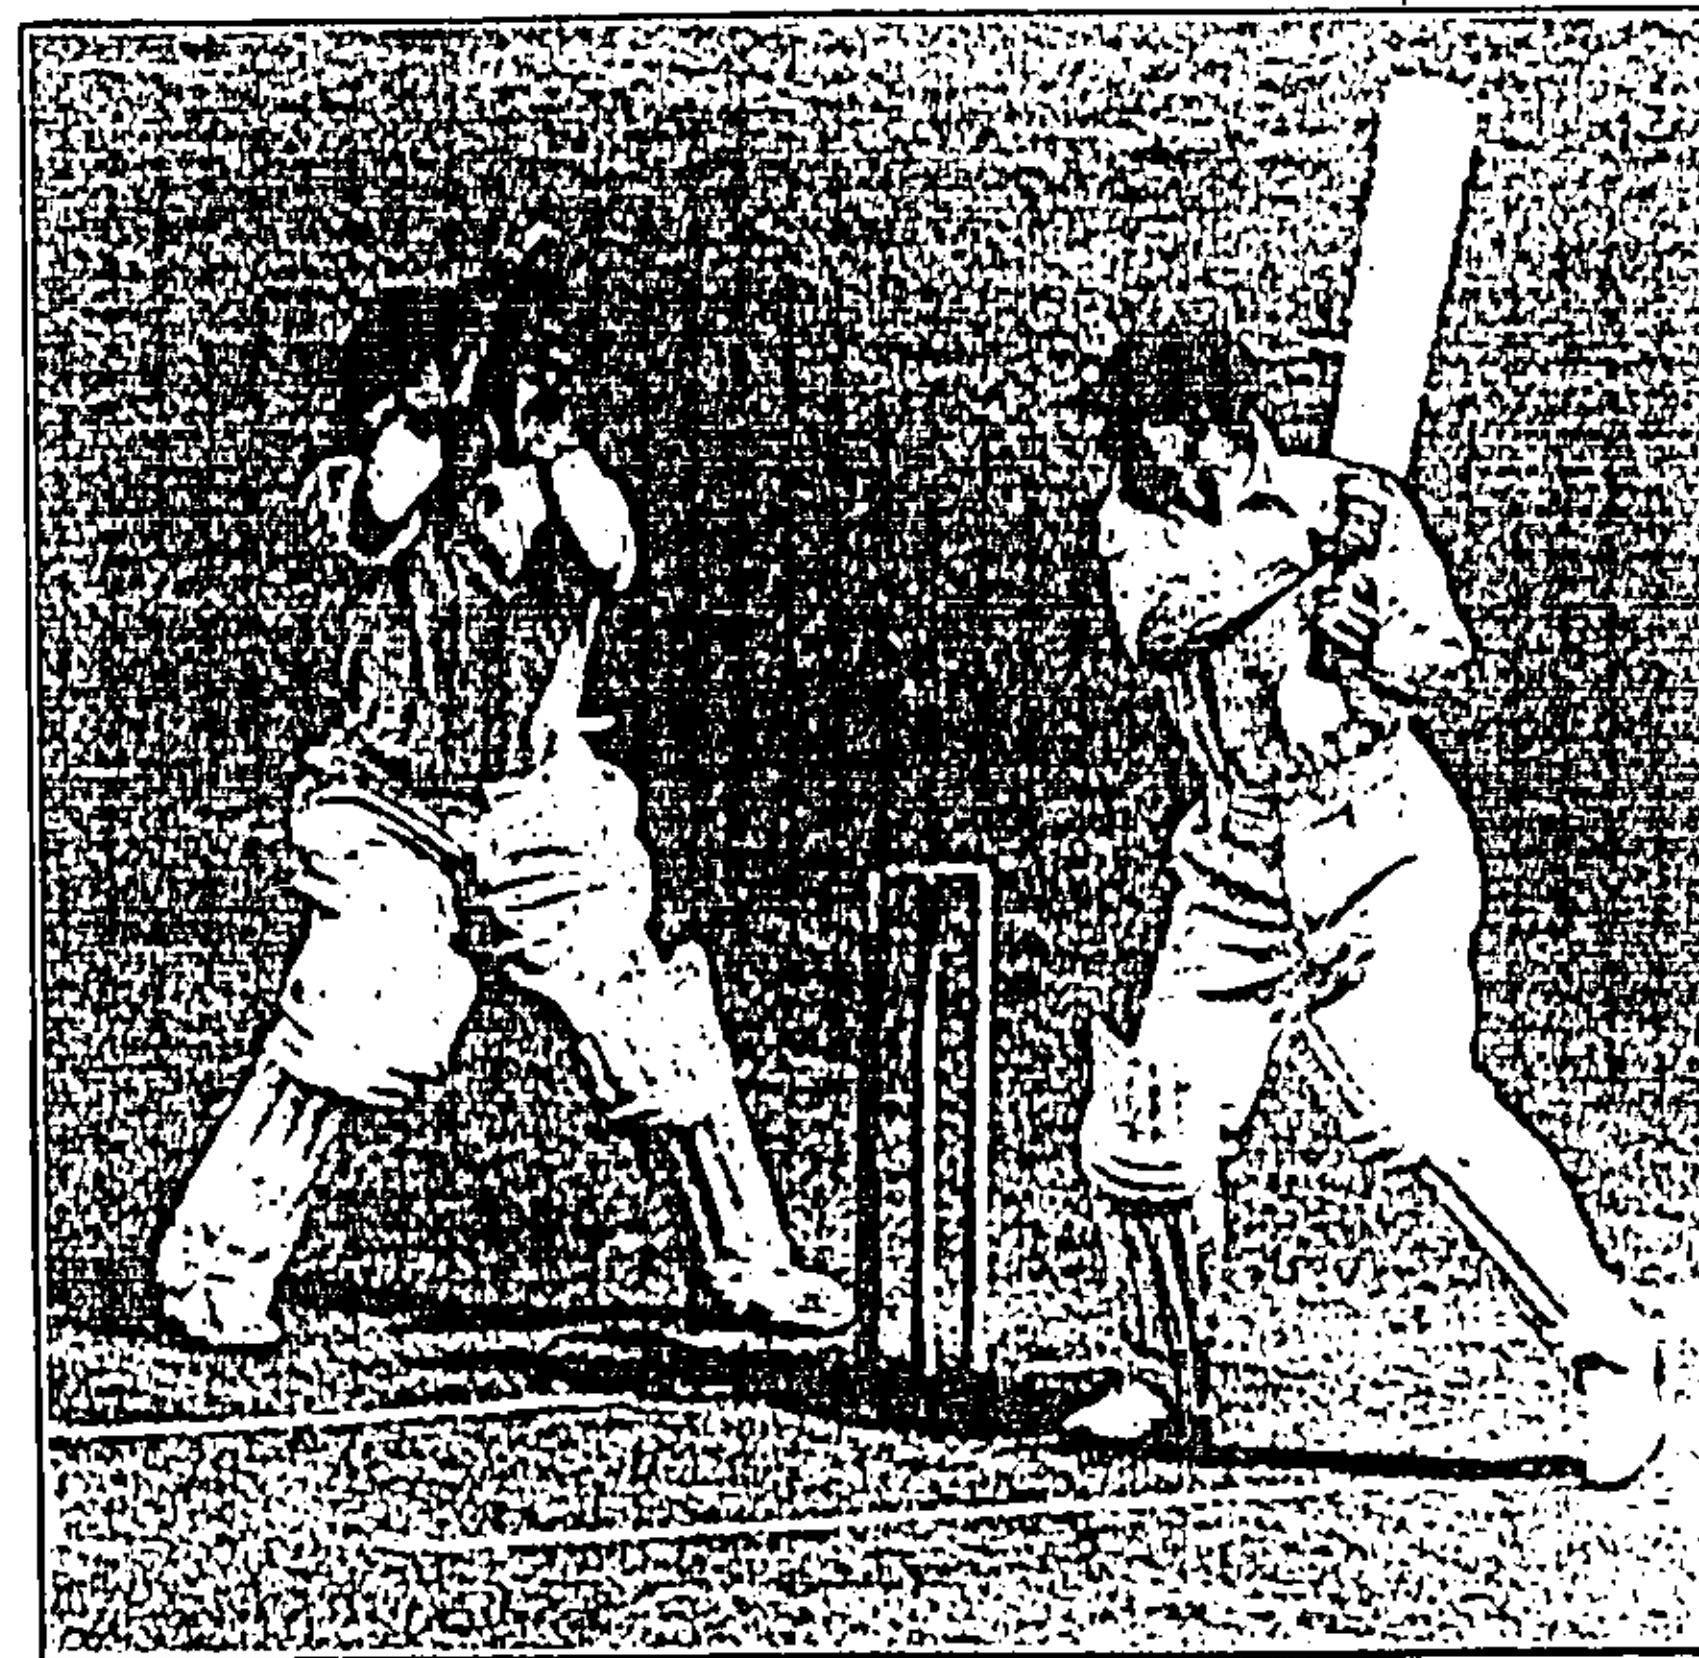

A. E. Coates, of Craigengower Cricket Club, was admitted to hospital recently and his absence last week in the Club's senior lawn bowls team was keenly felt. He is reported to be progressing favourably.

A. M. Holland, of Kowloon Football Club, will be keenly missed by the Club's Third Division lawn bowls team. He left on Home leave last Saturday.

The European Y.M.C.A. swimming section made an enthusiastic start to their water-polo season, but to date they have only just managed to field a fairly good team, but are lacking in good reserves.

F. Ashford, the European Y.M.C.A. water-polo Secretary, has been on the sick list, but has now recovered.

H. Darby and H. Millington are St. Andrew's most promising water-polo players, although both need coaching on the finer points of the game. "Sonny" Bliss was conspicuous for his absence recently when the Saints lost to the Combined Small Units team by 5 goals to 1.

The incomparable Don Bradman, seen above scoring with a typical stroke, has added another Test record by scoring 13 centuries in the series between England and Australia. His 44 not out in the tourists' second venture at Trent Bridge was his second century on this ground, his first being in the 1930 Test against England, when he scored 131, also in the second innings.

VERSATILE PAUL REVERE

This patriot, politician, soldier, gold and silversmith artist, engraver, mechanic and inventor, bell-founder, industrial pioneer, did not make the ride for which he is famous. He was despatched by Joseph Warren to Lexington and Concord to warn the "minute men" of the expedition sent thither by Gage. Revere only reached Lexington, where he was joined by William Dawes and Doctor Samuel Prescott.

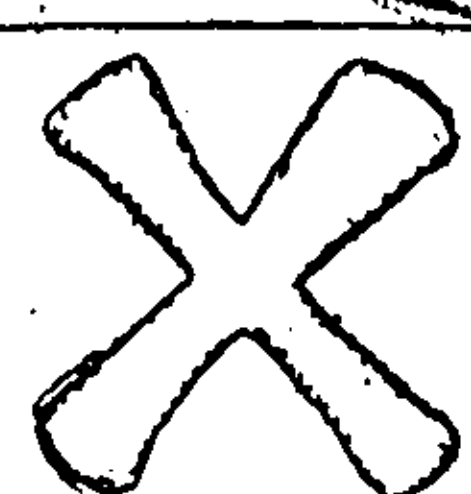

According to Revere's own account, he was arrested by a British patrol near Lexington, so that he was unable to proceed. Dawes was intercepted a few minutes later and the man who really completed the ride was Doctor Prescott, who rode on to Lincoln and Concord and gave the first alarm to the "minute men." Doctor Prescott happened to be calling on a girl in Lexington on the momentous night when he met Revere. He was later captured by the British and died in captivity at Halifax.

JAPAN'S SUSPICION OF FRANCE

Where. There Is "Smoke" There Is Fire, Says Gen. Ugaki

Motives Of Intervention Will Be Examined

Tokyo, Yesterday.

"Japan is determined to fight to a finish," declared the Japanese Foreign Minister, General Ugaki, to representatives of the foreign press.

While Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is prolonging the war by his refusal to abandon his anti-Japanese attitude, Japan is mobilising her combined strength in order to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

Referring to the attitude adopted by other powers, General Ugaki stated that some states had demonstrated their desire to maintain friendly relations with Japan by prohibition of the export of war material to China and withdrawing advisers from that country.

On the other hand, it seemed that other countries wished to support China in resisting Japan, thereby unnecessarily prolonging the war and causing heavy loss in lives and property.

These Powers, continued General Ugaki, should consider the fact that they are in this way only disturbing friendly relations with Japan.

NOT SATISFACTORY
British-Japanese relations were not very satisfactory, but, said the Foreign Minister, he hoped these would improve in future.

In answer to a question, General Ugaki declared that Japan was not planning to occupy the island of Hainan.

In spite of denials from French quarters, reports persisted regarding French assistance being extended to China.

"Where there is smoke there is fire," declared the Foreign Minister, adding that it would be useless for other Powers to intervene in the Sino-Japanese conflict, "and even if the situation changes, the motives and nature of intervention will have to be most carefully examined."

Japan will not negotiate with Chiang Kai-shek unless the situation is entirely altered, when the Japanese Government would be prepared to look into the question again.

NINE-POWER TREATY
Regarding the Nine-Power Treaty, General Ugaki stated that this treaty was concluded sixteen years ago and could no longer be applied to the modified situation, but that a new one could be negotiated having regard to altered circumstances. The Minister again stressed that Japan had no territorial aims in China, and concluded by saying that the Chinese themselves must decide on reconstruction of the Government of their country. — Trans-Ocean.

KING ZOG'S TOUR WITH BRIDE

A forthcoming lengthy tour to foreign countries by King Zog of Albania and his young wife, Queen Geraldine, is announced here by the press.

Although the itinerary has not yet been announced, it is known that they will visit Hungary. — Trans-Ocean.

Shumchun Orphan Camp Scheme Dropped

A PLAN FOR ESTABLISHING A WAR ORPHANS' CAMP AT SHUM CHUN IN THE AREA PREVIOUSLY OCCUPIED BY GAMBLING CONCERNS IN CHINESE TERRITORY, HAS BEEN ABANDONED AND THE SPONSORS ARE NOW SEEKING MORE SUITABLE LOCATIONS, EITHER IN OR OUTSIDE THE COLONY.

Owing to the recent Japanese threat of invasion of Canton, the organisers decided that Shum Chun was far from being a suitable place for the Camp, as the area would automatically become a war zone if and when the Japanese carry out their plans.

The sponsors, under the auspices of the Hong Kong Chinese Women's War Relief Association, are now endeavouring to obtain General Tsai Ting-kai's bungalow at Castle Peak, New Territories, for the purpose, but have so far not succeeded.

Dorsetshire Murder Trial Opens On Tuesday

Nineteen-year-old Edwin Moreland Dwyer, seaman of H.M.S. Dorsetshire, will stand his trial at the Criminal Sessions on Tuesday.

Dwyer, native of Bristol, will be arraigned before the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Lindsell, charged with the murder of Leading Seaman Robert Dickinson, native of Crosby, Liverpool.

It is alleged that Dwyer shot deceased with a Service rifle, at about 1.30 a.m. on May 2 last while the Dorsetshire was at sea.

The trial will probably be one of the longest recorded in local criminal records, for the Crown will produce 42 witnesses, including police officers, and many fellow-seamen of accused.

Mr. John Whyatt, Crown Counsel, will appear for the prosecution, while the defence is in the hands of the Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almeida, junior, who is instructed by Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones.

TROOPS TO MARCH INTO SANJAK

Antioch, Yesterday.
It is reported that equal numbers of French and Turkish troops will march into the Sanjak territory to-morrow or Monday, this having been decided in course of a conference which has been going on during the past several days between French officers and the Turkish military commission.

It was, moreover, decided that the High Commissioner of the Sanjak shall be a Frenchman and the Governor of the Sanjak, a Turk. The Arabs have been excluded from all high offices.

Both French and Turkish troops will be under French officers. The Turkish military commission will remain in Antioch until the arrival of the Turkish troops. — Trans-Ocean.

PLANS FOR EVACUATION OF CANTON AMERICANS READY, JUST IN CASE

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

Apart from a few women and children who have left for Hong Kong, the small foreign communities here are remaining at their posts in and around Canton.

Although plans are now completed for evacuation of American residents, it is understood that Shameen is considered safe, except for the numerous pieces of shrapnel which fall on the island during each air raid, and that no official evacuation order will be made unless actual invasion of the Canton area, which would lead to serious danger from artillery fire, occurs.

At present the only Americans outside Shameen are 37 members of Ling Nam University, who are staying on Honam Island in spite of last week's bombing, and oil company employees at Pakhotam. Lingnam is, however, considering transfer of its activities to Hong Kong.

Actual invasion of Kwangtung is inevitably the next item on the programme for South China, though this is regarded as unlikely to occur in the immediate future.

DEFENCE FORCES

Although Kwangtung and Kwangsi have contributed large forces to swell Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces in the north, the provincial authorities have several hundred thousand men under arms, both regulars and peasant.

As heroically as the Southern Chinese have acquitted themselves on the northern front, the Japanese will find them a tougher nut to crack when they are defending their home towns.

Distribution of South China's defence forces has been effected largely on this plan, that troops drawn from certain districts defend their own birthplaces.

Although somewhat deficient in mechanised forces, the Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops are the hardest fighters in China, and look forward to the coming struggle with optimism.

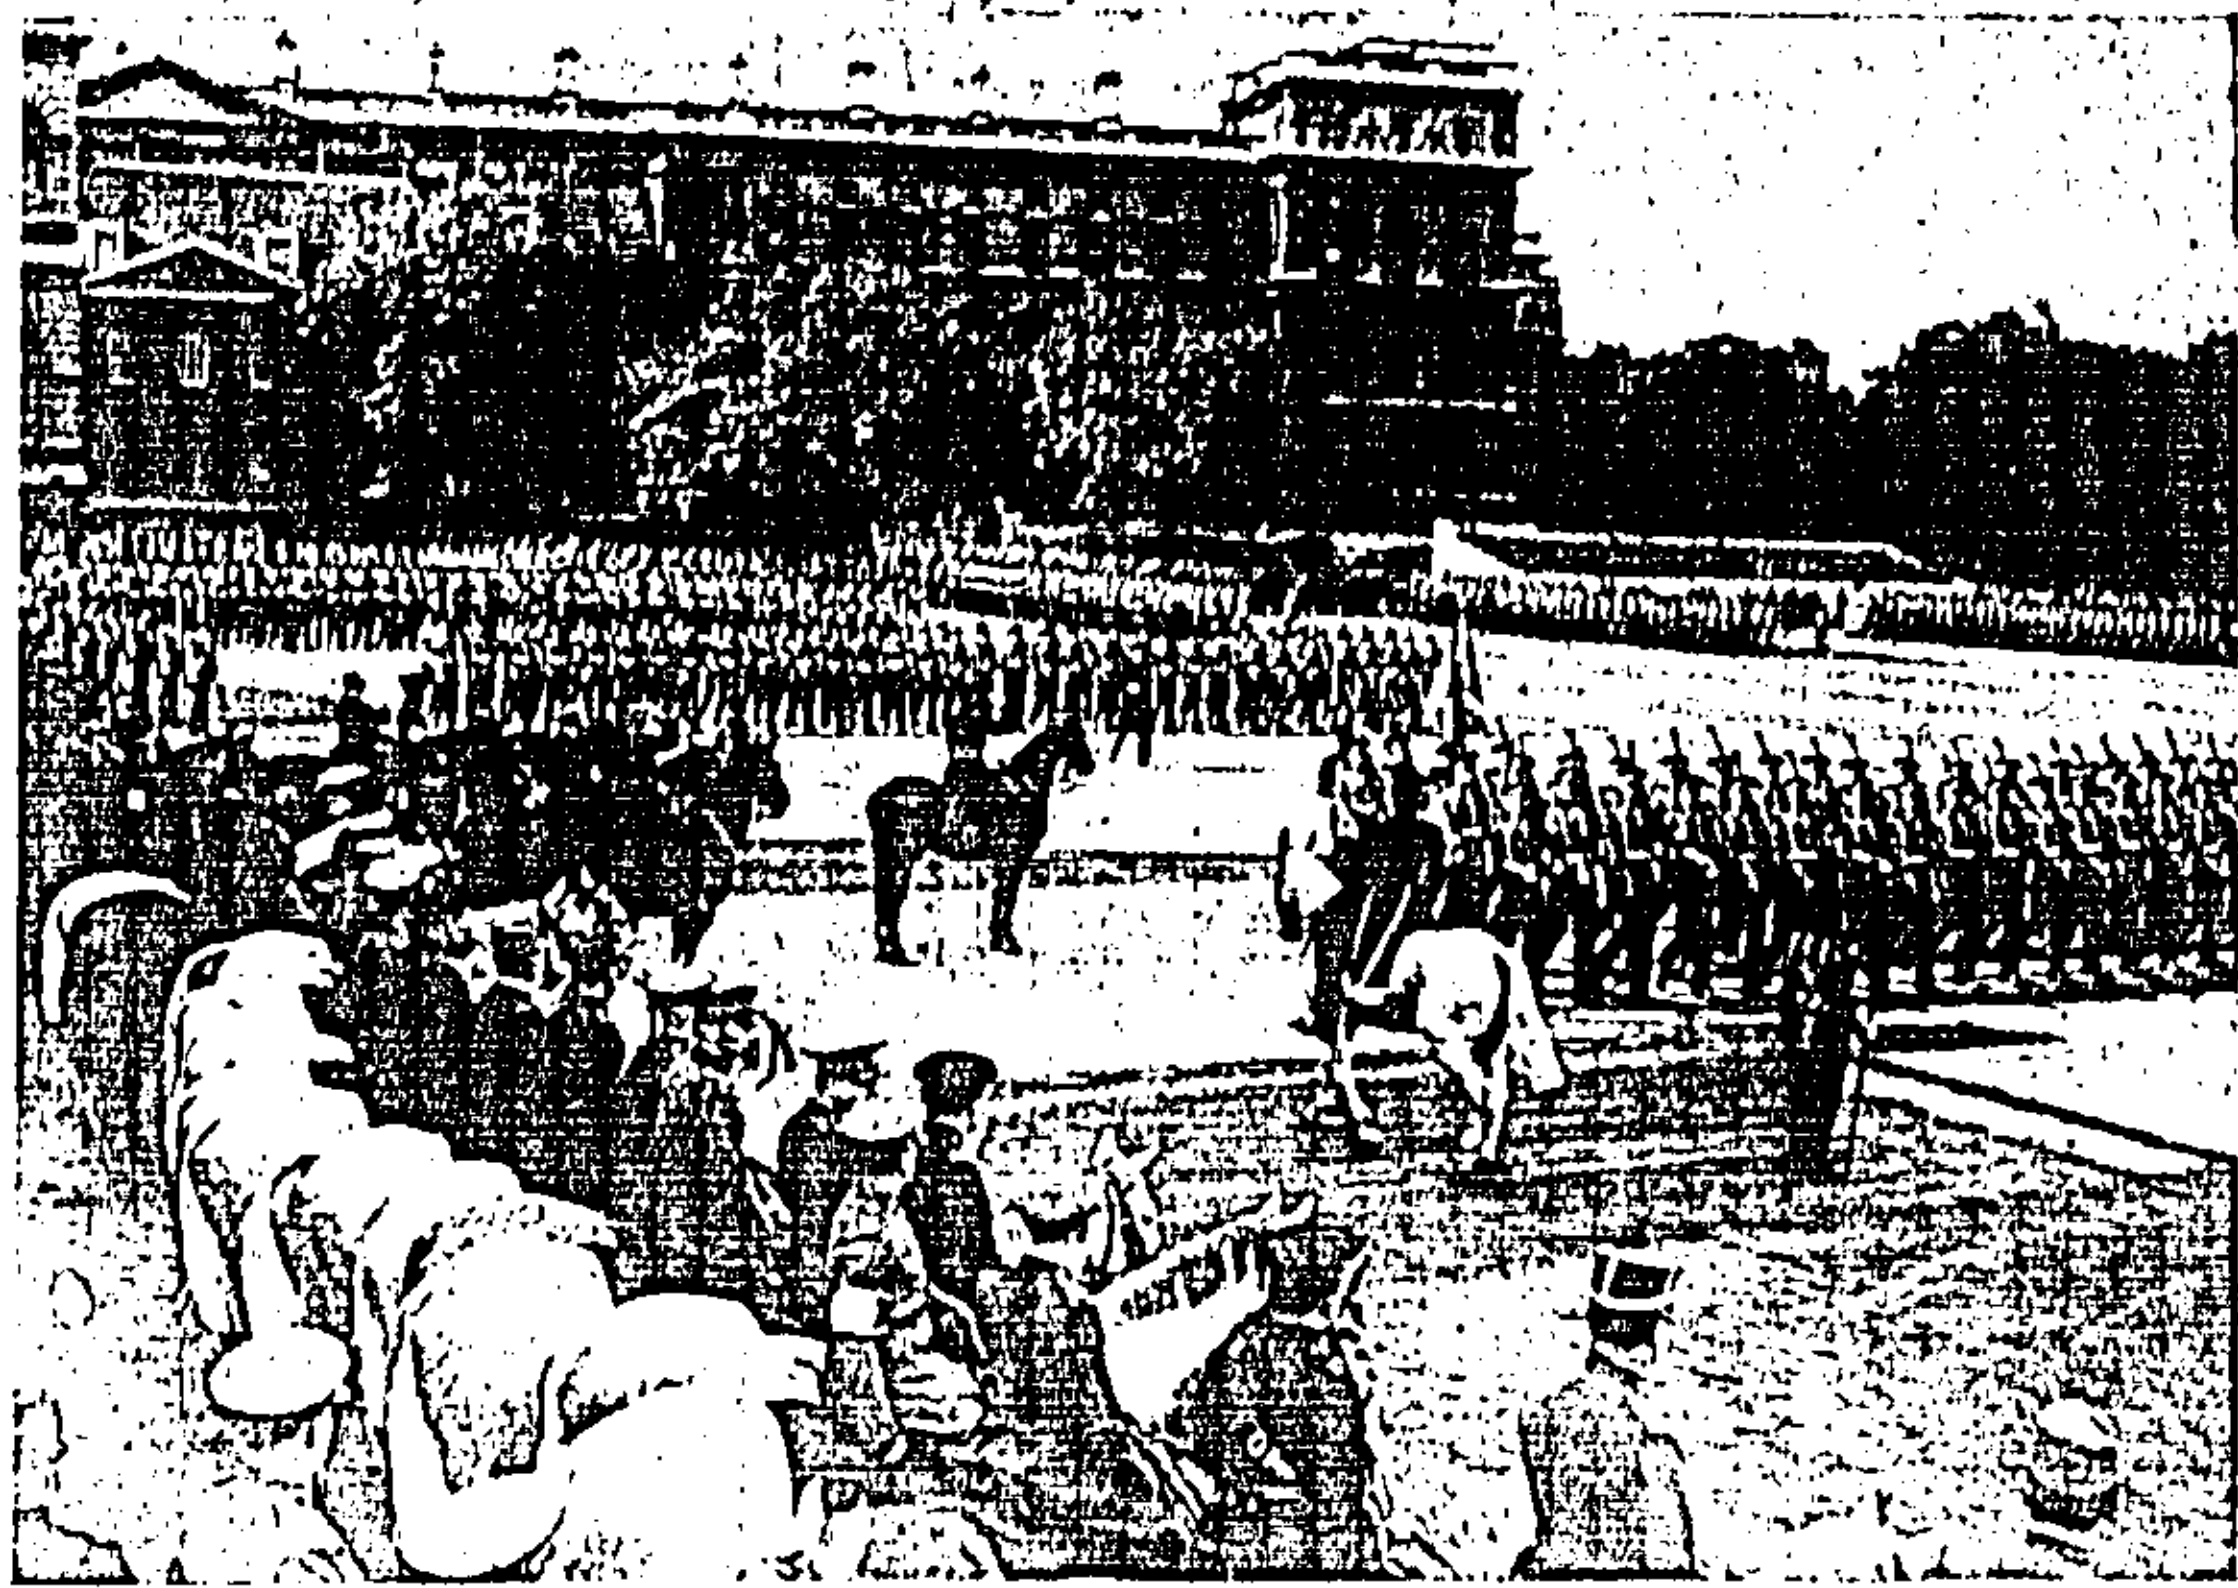

DEFENCE TAX IN SWITZERLAND

Berne, Yesterday.

The Swiss Federal Council approved, by 115 votes to 47, the introduction of a defence tax to be used for redeeming the loans incurred for the purposes of developing defence.

The tax may be levied on property or income or both, and war profits are also taxable. — Trans-Ocean.

KWANGCHOW BECOMING A SECOND HONG KONG?

TOKYO, YESTERDAY.
FRANCE IS BUILDING EXTENSIVE FORTIFICATIONS IN THE KWANGCHOW TERRITORY OF SOUTH CHINA WHICH BELONGS TO HER, DECLARES THE TOKYO "NICHU NICHU."

The paper asserts that during past days France has landed large quantities of war materials in Kwangchow Bay, which is at the northern end of Hainan Island.

Regarding the fall of Canton as inevitable, the French, according to the paper, are preparing for the defence of Kwangchow through installation of searchlights, anti-aircraft guns and improvement of roads.

The paper declares that Kwangchow is being made into a second Hong Kong. — Trans-Ocean.

FASCIST SALUTE FOR FRANCO TROOPS

Burgos, Yesterday.
Officers and men of the Spanish insurgent army must in future, the official "Gazette" here announces, give the Fascist salute on certain occasions instead of the customary military salute. The Fascist salute is to be given when soldiers attend public meetings which are also attended by civilians.

The ordinary military salute will be given by soldiers when on duty. During parades, officers not bearing arms will give the Fascist salute. All members of the militia and Falange will give the Fascist salute exclusively. — Trans-Ocean.

CZECH CABINET IN ANXIOUS SESSION

Prague, Yesterday.
The political committee of the Cabinet continued its deliberations throughout the day. Only subject discussed was again the nationalities problem.

Since the Czecho-Slovakian Government endeavoured to expedite settlement of various details of the nationalities question, the committee will continue its deliberations.

The Cabinet Council which is normally held on Friday, was cancelled for this reason, and the Cabinet will probably meet on Monday.

For the same reason, the Premier, Dr. Milan Hodza, did not receive any visitors except juridical experts of the Government, who submitted to the Premier a report dealing with various questions connected with nationalities. — Trans-Ocean.

Secret recipes do not exist...

Mild, aromatic, stimulating, refreshing. - Yes, there are "cocktails" and "cocktails". Nevertheless they are practically made everywhere to the same recipe. The difference lies less in the mixing than in the gin. Just try a bottle of Silver Top Dry Gin and mix a Martini. Or ask for once at the bar for your drink mixed with Bols Gin (although your barman will probably be using it already). That will be the best proof Bols Gin gives your cocktail a certain character which makes just the difference between the usual and perfection, between a "cocktail" and a "cocktail" as it should be.

Don't envy those women who take their 'difficult days' in their stride. Be like them. Banish the cause of your suffering instead of just relieving it. Just think of being pain-free. Fit to work. Able to enjoy playing games. You can banish periodical pain because the cause of it has been discovered—and that cause can be banished if you take Kalzana.

You suffer pain and discomfort because you lack certain vital minerals in your body. Without the right amount of these minerals your blood becomes weak and your system can't work properly. But Kalzana gives you all the vital minerals you need in a pleasant and easy-to-take way. When you take Kalzana, you improve the condition of your blood and as the blood becomes more healthy, so your system functions normally and causes you no pain. Suffer no longer—get Kalzana to-day. Kalzana is widely prescribed for anæmia, weak children, etc., so don't feel embarrassed by asking for it.

Path To Freedom

IN 1921, the year when the Co-operative Congress last met at Scarborough, it was said that one could cross Europe without setting foot in a monarchy. Today the journey could be repeated without passing through a democracy, since the majority of Europeans are now living under dictatorships, open or covert.

Democracy, the only form of government which has been able to tolerate freedom in the past, is now not only being challenged everywhere, but actually overthrown in many conspicuous instances.

People are living under despotic rule in Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Turkey, Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, and Bulgaria.

In these countries the liberties of the people have been ruthlessly curtailed. Freedom of speech is suppressed, the Press is rigorously controlled, the rights of minorities are contemptuously ignored; there is no such thing as freedom of conscience. There is, in fact, a virtual reign of terror, and new evidence of the suppression of the liberties of the ordinary, respectable citizen is daily forthcoming.

When we see the liberties of other peoples being snatched from them we instinctively think of those which we still enjoy, and are inclined to look around for signs of any danger of losing them. In 1913, Professor Bury, the great historian of free thought, wrote:—"The struggle of reason against authority has ended in what appears now to be a decisive and permanent victory for liberty. In most civilised countries freedom of discussion is recognised as a fundamental principle. The struggle for liberty may now be regarded as closed."

It is inconceivable that anyone writing a history of freedom today could come to the same conclusion. Over most of the so-called civilised world freedom of thought does not exist. Government is omnipotent, irresponsible and arbitrary.

Intellectual freedom weakens with the weakening of political freedom. Even freedom of religion is no longer safe. Religious persecution, after being long since considered dead, re-emerges.

In these circumstances we are constrained to ask, "What is this Liberty for which our forefathers fought, and which we see withering?" May we take it to mean, in the words of Thomas Paine, "the right to do whatever is not contrary to the rights of others?" To this may be added, the right to political liberty, the right freely to express ourselves on the platform and in the Press.

Liberty implies that no hierarchy should be allowed unjustly to oppress us with impunity; that we may not be accused nor our persons detained save for offences determined by the law of the land and in accordance with the procedure which the law prescribes that should we be so accused we may not be held in custody without being brought to trial. Put shortly, liberty must include Parliamentary government, free speech, a free Press, and impartial justice.

On what counts are freedom and democracy condemned? It is contended that a free democracy is incapable of prompt, resolute decision; that it does not ensure government by the fit, "the tools to those who can handle them;" that the inferior is incompetent to select the superior; that man is so inherently averse to self-discipline that he must be disciplined by a superior—a governing-class.

Now, no one pretends that democracy is perfect; nothing human is—not even Fascism—as perfection ever eludes human grasp. But democracy is the only form of government compatible with the dignity and rights of man, for no man is great enough—intellectually, morally, or spiritually—to have dominion over the lives of his fellows.

Supermen, if such exist, can be left to look after themselves. I, with Browning, pray, "Make no more plans, God: but elevate the Race at once." It takes worthy democrats to make a worthy democracy, for democracy is not mob rule, as some seem to suggest, but orderly, disciplined, self-government. Truly representative government requires that men shall be regarded as equals in the rights and duties of citizenship.

Liberty is neither licence nor anarchy. It is conditioned by our communal obligations to one another. To deny the right of self-expression is to degrade human life to the level of mere animal existence.

It is futile, however, to ignore the disconcerting fact that economic power controls political power. Those who control the means of production, distribution, and exchange, that is to say, finance, control all that is essential to the life of the community, because human life rests upon a physical basis. Before all else, man must be fed, clothed and housed.

The obvious lesson is that political power must be supplemented by economic power. This is a fundamental consideration for those who concern themselves with "real politics" in the modern interpretation. The more observant and intelligent elements in the community realise that however attractive the electoral programme of any political party may be on paper, it is incapable of practical fulfilment if it is opposed by the combined forces of the banks and the Treasury officials. For the fulfilment of its social objectives, political democracy must be reinforced by economic or industrial democracy.

MR. J. J. WORLEY, of Leicester, presided at the Whitman week-end over the 70th Co-operative Congress, where there were some 1,800 delegates, representing nearly 8,000,000 Co-operative consumers.

The Co-operative Movement is steadily providing that economic power. Created, capitalised and controlled by over seven and a half million customers, the Co-operative Movement, taken as a unit, is the biggest business of its kind in England. With a turnover exceeding £300,000,000 a year, a bank of its own, an insurance society, a national newspaper, and over 300 warehouses and productive factories, the Co-operative Movement has attained a position of considerable economic importance and social significance.

When it is remembered that the great Movement of the common people has reached its present proud position in less than a century, who can foretell its developments during the next 100 years. Its potentialities are enormous. That is, if it is not interfered with by legislative proposals deliberately designed to obstruct its growth. Co-operators cannot stand passively by while Government subtly insinuates authoritarian practices into its administrative technique.

Ordinary tooth brushes do not thoroughly clean the hard-to-get-at back teeth. That is why you should always use a Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip Tooth Brush.

Its big end-tuft reaches in and around all the teeth—front and back, inside and outside. It cleans them thoroughly, removes every tiny food particle, protects against decay.

Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip brushes are scientifically spaced and sufficiently flexible to reach in every tiny crevice. PRINCESS OF BEGGARDY

Clad In The Robes Of Office, Tattered, Greasy, Louse-laden And Odorous Garments That Form Part Of The Property Of Petition

"PLEASE, Missy, one copper, a mite plea for aid. She reaches One copper, Master. No the termination of her 'territory' chow. One copper, Missy—Master and another takes up the trail—perhaps a wrinkled, old man this time, in tattered clothing, a scraggly, white beard accentuating his unkempt appearance.

From every country village and hamlet they come to the Pled Piper's calling, beggars all, lured by the tales of coppers to be had for the asking from the Chinese of a great city. Even silver coins to be wheedled from generous "foreign devils" men with red hair and white skin. Foreigners who don't seem to know that coppers are the proper alms to give to a mendicant.

Just as in the ancient fairy tale the rats flocked to the promise of the Pled Piper of Hamelin, enticed by the music of his flute, so come the beggar hordes to Shanghai—money to buy rice and beancurd. Even maybe a small piece of pork, now and then. Money to ease that sharp, gnawing pain in the stomach—money that will aid in the keeping of life in a miserable body. Coppers that bring hope to the hopeless.

ALL MANNERS AND TYPES

All manners and types, they crowd the already crowded streets. The worn, young mother with a baby in her arms follows a foreigner down to the end of the block, her palm out-stretched in

A TIME PROVEN FORMULA

Then a group of tiny children, dirty and ragged, take up the cudgel. The spokesman—his little face as woe-begone and unhappy as long practice at begging can make it—repeats incessantly the time proven, much-quoted formula: "No mama, no papa, no chow; please, Master, cumshaw."

Next may be a horribly deformed man, exhibiting his misfortune as prominently as possible to arouse sympathy; an old woman in faded blue cotton trousers and ragged jacket, customary black band around her grey hair; a blind man moaning his troubles to the passerby as he leans on his all-seeing, bamboo cane; or the child acrobat, turning cartwheels as she proceeds her customer-prospect; a small girl juggler adeptly twirling her sticks to earn a few coppers. Their numbers are legion!

PRINCESS LEE YU-YING

The Princess belonged to the later class—a juggler par-excellent. Please understand that she was not an ordinary beggar, restoring, thus interfered with, falling from the world—in exchange for a plaintive whine—a pittance that would sustain a wretched existence. In the eyes of the Beggar's Guild in the Shanghai, Lee Yu-ying was a "specialist." Being a professional and a master-of-her-art, she was therefore entitled to a rank—namely that of "Princess."

Princess in the Kingdom of Beggary, in a futile attempt to save sister, goes to meet her maker!

Little Sister, while not quite so important in the scheme of affairs, most generally toddled down the street after older sister, Yu-ying, thereby adding a certain amount of pathetic touch to the act staged for a prospective customer. In due time, Little Sister would have probably attained a prominence of her own on the lists of the Guild.

ORGANISATION

What is this "Beggars Guild" and how does it function? It is an organization that has put most begging on a paying basis in Shanghai and is probably better and more effectively organized than many a foreign company doing business to-day. A prospective member is examined as to his or her capabilities, then rated accordingly. If he or she has always been a whining beggar and the Guild comes to the conclusion that he or she might be more effective in a different role—that they have been wasting their time with whining for alms in a market already glutted with all manner of whiners—then he or she is persuaded to change their act. Ragged, suits (often patently ragged) are provided. The mendicant is encouraged to get good and dirty—excessive coining is not always necessary—and with the character created, the scene is laid. Shanghai is plotted out by the Guild and the beggars allowed certain beats with systematic finesse. Their locale is changed from time to time. In this way, though there are literally thousands of mendicants, one seldom sees mobs of them together, as in India. On the other hand, no important spot is without its outstretched palm or palms.

The rights of the mendicants are most carefully protected by the Guild and in many other ways they are taken care of in a thoroughly business-like manner. As an illustration of this:

One of the Guild's recruits will enter a business establishment in his allocated territory, requesting alms. Should he be refused, an immediate report of this fact is made to the Guild headquarters. Soon a representative from the union calls on the shop-keeper in person, or a letter is written, notifying the merchant that a fine has been levied against him. A fine which must be paid within a certain stated time limit. These fines may range from small amounts to those of good sized proportions—depending on the location of the shop and the volume of daily business. In the event that this fine is not paid within the time limit set, the sidewalk and street in front of the business establishment soon resembles the assembly hall of a beggar's convention.

Yes, the streets are lined with them. There is no turning without the glimpses of them. But shall we return to Princess Lee Yu-ying?

KNOWN STEADY CUSTOMERS

The Princess, although her juggling was the basic foundation on which she solicited alms, had grown famous to the foreign-resident throngs of Shanghai and vicinity through a formula quite her own. Her plea of: "No mama, no papa—NO WHISKY SODA!" very seldom failed to bring forth a hearty laugh as well as a generous donation. She knew her steady customers—spotted them a long distance off—and would often follow a risk for blocks, making the most personal remarks and enquiries until her victim paid his score. Quite definitely interested in the affairs of her clients who would, should she see one who knew in the company of a woman she had never seen him with before, shout out:

"What's matter, Masta? Have got new Missy? where old Missy go?"

Needless to state, we trust, the public laughed and produced the desired tokens of their esteem. Coins of the realm.

Many otherwise intelligent tourists—misled by gaudy fiction on the East and by "wacky" movies produced by directors whose idea of China and the Far East seem to have been garnered in home-made chop suey palaces—conceive Shanghai to be an eerie place peopled with Orientals, embittered remittance-men slowly going to hell (gin-sling in hand) and hordes of adventuresses casting spells over the unwary. These tourists, after meeting Princess Yu-ying, generally decided that women paint and cast spells in Shanghai—just as they do in Dublin, Ireland. Men drink—and go to hell (and return), and it is rumoured about there are also a few Chinese in the village. Then these tourists proceeded to forget about the pitfalls and sin in Shanghai and talk about the cute, intelligent Little Chinese beggar-girl they met on the Bund.

But, should their paths again lead to Shanghai, there will no longer be the implicit, ever smiling face of Princess Lee Yu-ying to greet them—to pester and wheedle alms from their not unwilling fingers.

GOES ON LONG JOURNEY

Not so long ago the Princess took Little Sister out to Jesfield Park, just on the outskirts of Shanghai's Foreign Settlement. Crowds of people there—bent on Sunday or holiday relaxation—were oft times generous to children of the mendicant class. During the never failing sensation of excitement that accompanied Yu-ying's regular visit to the park zoo, Little Sister strayed down the path leading to the back entrance to the park, and from there, toddled her way up the embankment leading to the steel railroad trestle that crosses a large creek in the vicinity.

By the time Yu-ying had missed the youngster—by the time she had traversed the tricky, treacherous pathway of railroad ties to the approximate centre of the bridge to where the baby had paused for a moment—"Fate," in the guise of a Japanese aeroplane's machine-gun bullets, had reached out clutching fingers of death. Fingers that touched Yu-ying, as well as Little Sister. Fingers, in all probability, not aimed particularly at the youngsters, but rather at a group of refugees. Refugees who were painfully and slowly wending their way over the same structure toward a haven of refuge in the Settlement.

WHITE JADE

"Yu-ying," it is said, in Chinese means white Jade. And so, Princess White Jade of the Kingdom of Beggardy—in your tattered, greasy, odorous and louse-laden garments which form the property of petition—we who know you in the past, shall miss you and yours in the future. May we therefore offer you and your little sister our heartfelt blessing of Godspeed on your journey toward the land where there is no sharp, gnawing pains in stomachs. No need of coppers to bring hope to the hopeless. There, we feel, in all sincerity, little girl, mendicants receive their "whiskey sodas" with some degree of regularity. Should they so desire them!

Moscow's Face Is Being Lifted

MOSCOW is undergoing its annual spring face-lifting. The bitterly cold Russian winter has blown itself back into the Arctic and the "heart and brain" of the great Russian Bear is coming out of hibernation.

In the vast Theatre Square, hub of the Red Capital, and in every madly twisting side-street and dead-end alley on the outskirts, an army of white-aproned janitors has appeared, armed with 15-foot brush-topped poles and paint pots.

ALMOST overnight, under their deft hands, the grey, weary face of ancient Moscow is losing its winter sternness. Ivan Ivanovitch may have considerable difficulty buying a gallon of paint in the Government stores to scrub his kitchen shelves, but when spring comes to Moscow the powers that be make certain that carloads of bright green, yellow, blue and the inevitable red paint are on hand to rejuvenate the Red Capital.

City of contrasts—where West is rapidly submerging East—Moscow of to-day still is predominantly a city of unsightly, nineteenth and eighteenth century buildings whose ugly plaster facings and varicoloured coatings of paint never last through the harsh six-month winter. But year by year more acres of dilapidated, patched relics of Old Moscow give way to groups of five to eight-storey modernistic brick apartment houses. Behind barricades of scaffolding the West is waging a winning war with the East.

A fortnight ago brigades of carpenters raised a forest of flimsy wooden structures throughout Moscow on which another army of plasterers were soon established, expertly filling gaping holes where chunks of facing had been chipped off by sub-zero weather. The scaffolding is now gone and the beauty-surgeons have retired.

A little powder and paint applied by the "cosmetic-artists"—and the wrinkles on Moscow's old, weather-beaten face will soon be hardly noticeable.

The Red Capital has its fair share of pretty girls, one unexpectedly discovers in May. Unexpectably—because it seems that these Communist misses, too, had been hibernating through the winter, effectively hiding generous figures and shapely legs under enormous layers of outer clothing without which only an Eskimo could survive the Moscow cold. And their colourful print frocks, high-heeled shoes and attractive hats are a far cry from the leather-jacketed, black-skirted, over-serious Moscow girl of the "lean years," when Soviet near-necroticism in morals was paralleled by Quaker prudery in dress.

THE Bolsheviks insist that even love is inescapably related to economics. At least one typically Moscow spring phenomenon seems to prove their point. Here, when "a young man's fancy" begins to play tricks with his equanimity, he can give only one eye to the gyrations of the heart. The other he must keep on the housing shortage.

Thus, on pleasant evenings now, one finds the park and boulevard

By GORDON KASHIN

benches turned into "love-seats," occupied by unfortunate Soviet lads and lasses who made the mistake of finding love before they found an apartment.

Despite the lack of adequate housing (only by 1945, after reconstruction of the city, does Moscow expect to eliminate the intolerable congestion) the number of babies born here every year continues to mount so rapidly that maternity cases have overflowed the lying-in homes into wards and even corridors of general hospitals.

THIS IS CANTON TO-DAY. Under these columns of smoke, which come from bombs exploding in the Central Park area, men, women and children are dying.

The remarkably high and increasing birth-rate—Soviet Russia has been leading Europe for more than five years—has undoubtedly been stimulated by the law of August, 1936, prohibiting abortion.

The departing winter has brought glaring splashes of brilliant orange to the hustling thoroughfares. These, on closer inspection, prove to be heaped baskets of luscious "Appelcines"—oranges bought by the Soviets from Valencia. The more political and business-minded of the fruit vendors speed up sales by shouting "Buy oranges—they come from your heroic brothers in Spain."

THE sixty-eight winter-bleak rambling squares—focal points around which now Moscow is rising—are being thawed and mellowed by mushrooming, cheerful outdoor cafes. Quiet havens where overworked Muscovites, harassed by endless meetings, conferences and official "pep-talks," can slink back into soft wicker chairs in the shade of flowered sun-umbrellas and sip—not absinthe—but "Krem-Soda" and feed coffee.

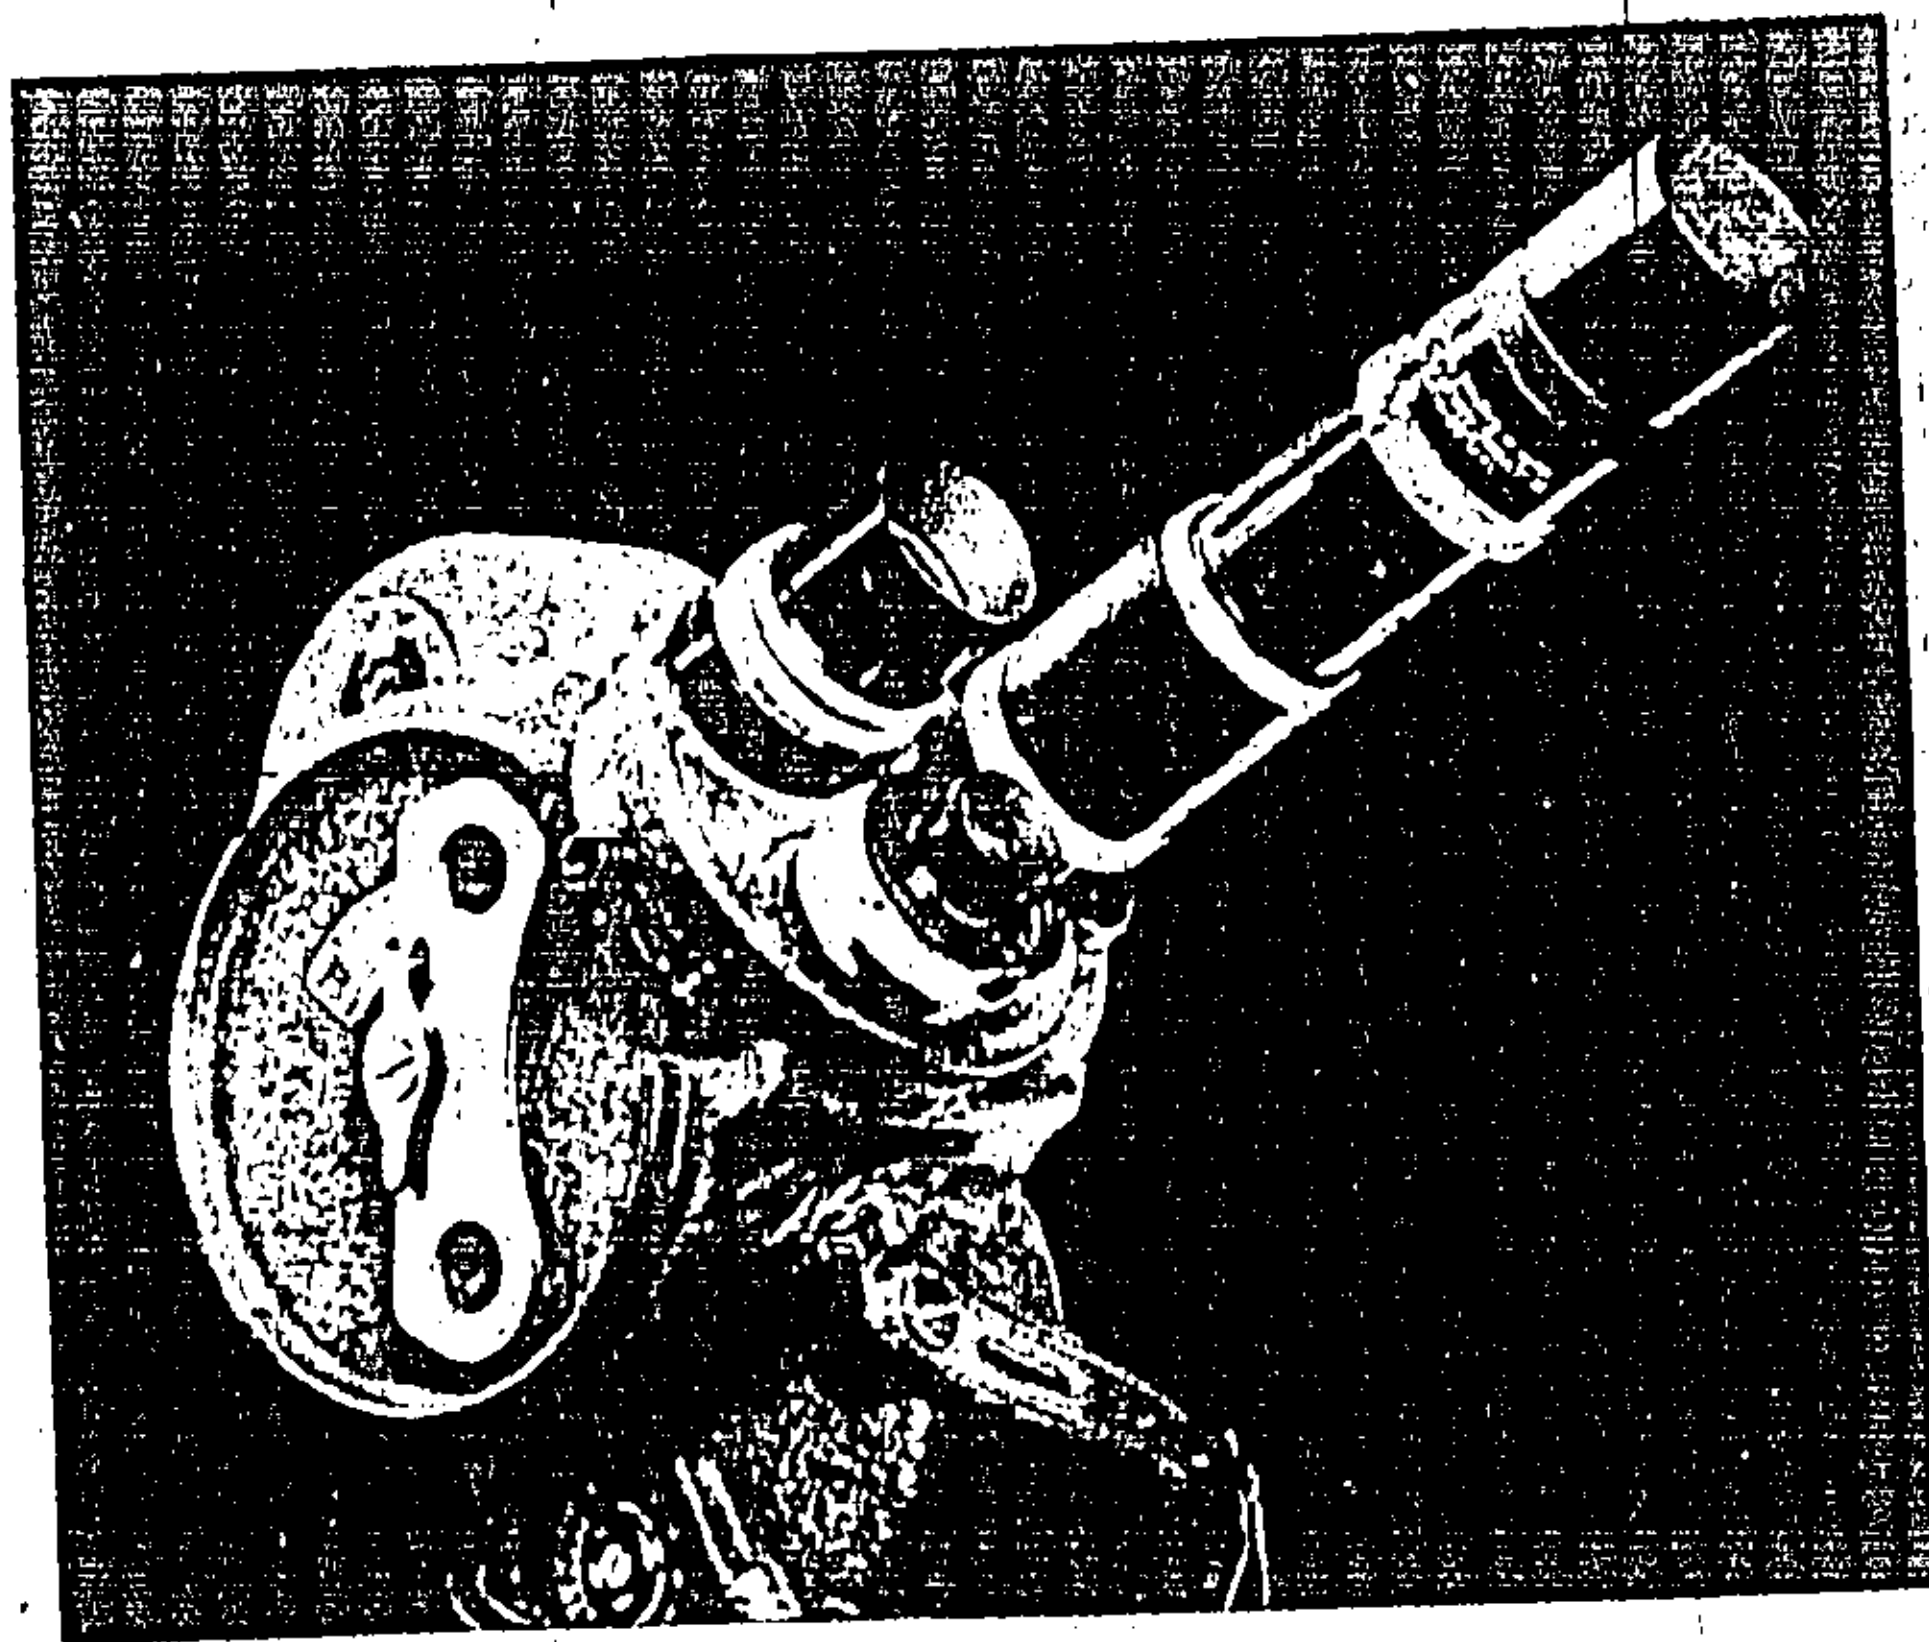

Russians lived hard and precariously since their Revolution of 1917, and many still have not relearned the lost art of relaxing and playing. The outdoor cafes, the beginnings of a night life, jazz and cocktail bars in hotels, are signs of spring and more profound signs that the hard-faced men in the Kremlin have learned that the "all work and no play" dictum can dominate a nation's psychology for just so long—and then either champagne corks or a people's nerves must pop.

RECORD TREASURY FIGURES
Surplus Balance Highest In HistoryHONG KONG'S PROSPERITY

SHARE MARKET REMAINS A STRANGE FEATURE OF HONG KONG'S GENERAL TRADE PROSPERITY, ALTHOUGH THE UNDERTONE IS GOOD.

Official figures of the Treasury Department released yesterday show that Government finances are likely to break all past records, assuming conditions remain as they are, although some measure of caution has been aroused by the Japanese threat to cut the Kowloon-Canton Railway.

The railway has been an important earner for the Government. Its income shows an excess of $300,000 over expenditure for the first four months of the year. Government profit from the railway was estimated at $200,000 for the whole year. The April surplus was $70-000.

RISE IN DUTIES

Substantial increases in revenue are also shown under the heading of Duties. The figure for April rose to $772,839 against $568,900 in April last year, bringing the total to $3,111,438 for the first four months. The estimate for the whole year was $6,820,200, which is likely to be greatly exceeded.

Total income for April was $3,321,036 as compared with an expenditure of $2,698,620, increasing the Colony's surplus balance to $15,525,583, the highest in the history of the Colony.

RECORD

London, Yesterday.
Royal Ascot ended in fine weather. For the first time for many years the whole meeting passed without rain. The totalisator set up new records, the grand total for the meeting being £548,326.—

COST OF

INDEX

London, Yesterday.
The Ministry of Labour cost of living index at June 1 was approximately 55 per cent. above the level of July, 1914, against 56 per cent. the month before and 52 per cent. a year ago.—

STRANGE
BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, YESTERDAY.
A CONFLICT HAS ARISEN BETWEEN THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT AND THE NATIONAL BANK OF BE-LGIUM BECAUSE THE LAT-TER, AFTER HIS APPOINT-MENT TO THE GOVERNOR-SHIP OF THE NATIONAL BANK, FAILED TO RESIGN THE POST OF PRESIDENT OF THE BANK COMMITTEE, WHICH EXERCISES CONTROL OVER ALL THE BELGIAN BANKS, INCLUDING THE NATIONAL BANK.

The absurd situation thus exists that Mr. Janssen, in his capacity as President of the Bank Committee, exercises control over himself as Governor of the National Bank.

At the request of the Minister of Finance, M. Gerard, the Government therefore once more asked
M. Janssen to state his attitude.

Semi-official quarters here are looking forward with the keenest expectations to further developments, since the Minister of Finance declared that he would rather resign his post than accept M. Janssen's refusal to resign the presidency of the Bank Committee.

CHEERFUL TONE ON LONDON STOCK MARKET

London, Yesterday.
The Stock Market terminated the week with a cheerful tone and the feature of the gilded action was the firmness of the new Defence Loan which closed 3/16th better at 1/2 premium on some very good buying.—British Wireless.

MILFORD HAVEN ESTATE

London, Yesterday.
The estate of the Marquess of Milfordhaven, a second cousin of the King and great-grandson of Queen Victoria, chairman and director of a number of companies, who died last April, has been proved at £72,639.—British Wireless.

Lau Tin, 30, unemployed, was yesterday fined $242 or six months' hard labour at the Central Magistracy, for possession of 242 heroin pills at No. 17 D'Aguilar Street.

Over 12,000 Cross Into French Territory

Paris, Yesterday.
The number of Republican Spanish militia and civilian refugees who have crossed the French frontier at Bielsa, is estimated at 12,000, according to the "Paris Midi."

Colonel Beltran, the Republican commander, continues the paper, had at the intervention of the Spanish Ambassador in Paris, received permission from the French Ministry of Interior to stay the night in Tarbes on Thursday.

Yesterday morning, Col. Beltran returned to the French village of Arreau, on the frontier, in order to superintend arrangements for transporting his men to Catalonia, for which all lorries in the vicinity had to be requisitioned.

The railway has provided the necessary trucks, so that it is hoped that the militiamen of the 43rd Division, numbering between 10,000 and 12,000, will travel to Barcelona via Cerbere.

PITABLE CONDITION
Many of the refugees are in a pitiable condition.

The prefecture of the Department of the Hautes Pyrenees has ordered all bakeries in the vicinity as far as Tarbes to bake bread for the refugees.

Two refugees who had been dangerously wounded died on French soil and twenty others suffering from severe wounds had to be taken to hospitals in Tarbes, Lourdes and Pau.

The 72nd and 130th brigades of the 43rd Division made their way over the Pyrenees to Franco through the Arreau Valley.

Two thousand soldiers of the 102nd brigade crossed the frontier at Romajou Pass.—Trans-Ocean.

AUSTRIAN EPISCOPATE PROCLAMATION REVIVAL

Vienna, Yesterday.

The Prince Bishop of Salzburg, Dr. Sigismund Waitz, has contributed a noteworthy article to the latest issue of the Catholic magazine "Better Future," which violently criticises the attitude of a certain section of the foreign press which severely censured the Austrian Episcopate for issuing the proclamation welcoming the anchluss, in March.

The Bishop points out that it is characteristic that particularly the press of those countries which would have every reason to worry about the situation of the Church in their own country, showed the greatest concern for the situation of the Catholic Church in Austria.

The Bishop recalls that only very few of the many anti-clerical laws passed in France early this century have thus far been revoked.

The inference may thus be drawn, says the Bishop, that the critical comments on the Austrian Episcopate's attitude which appeared in the French press, were inspired by political rather than by religious considerations.

BISHOP'S QUESTIONS?
"Why were the voices of these people not heard when the abnormal and unjust treaties of Versailles and St. Germain were imposed on Germany and Austria? Why were these voices not heard when M. Clemenceau declared that there are 20 million Germans too many in the world?"

The Bishop points out that the disastrous decline of the birthrate in Austria was merely due to the fact that the peace treaties severed all the vital arteries of Austria.

ADHERES TO PRINCIPLE

He expresses surprise at the fact that Catholic press organs abroad should think it fit to criticise the attitude of the Austrian Episcopate while the same press organs failed to criticise the sympathies of certain French quarters for Republican Spain, where the Church and religion have been persecuted without mercy.

The Bishop concluded the article by stressing that he still adheres to the principle expressed in the March Proclamation of the Austrian Episcopate—"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."—Trans-Ocean.

CZECH FINED

Arthur Oscar Fisher, 58-year-old Czech merchant, was yesterday charged at the Central Magistracy, with entering the Colony without a valid passport. A fine of $15 was imposed.

Miyun Gull, 40, an Indian was fined $25 or one month for a similar offence.

The R.M.S. "Empress of Canada"

In his address, Dr. Filchner tecedence by the German Chancellor,

ALL EYES ON WIMBLEDON TO-MORROW

Three Women's Teams
In England

Budge Almost Assured of Second Win

Most Interest In Women's Singles

The 1938 Wimbledon Championships, Mecca of lawn tennis players from all over the world, commences to-morrow and is this year even more interesting than usual due to the enforced absence of Gottfried von Cramm, three times finalist, the comeback of Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, the absence of members of the Australian Davis Cup team and the strong foreign challenge in the women's events resulting from the visit of the American, Australian and South African women's teams.

Donald Budge, who but recently added the French singles title to his but a few of the European contenders other three major championship successes, namely the Wimbledon, American and Australian championships, will naturally commence his favourite, and in the absence of von Cramm he should retain his title with ease. Budge will be partnered in the doubles by Gene Mako, with whom he holds the Wimbledon and Australian titles.

With H. W. "Bunny" Austin, an uncertain entry in the championships, Budge will have to look to European contenders or possibly China for his main opposition. Austin's form in the tournaments which have preceded Wimbledon has by no means been promising, as he was twice defeated by players much his junior in tournament experience. Filby beat Austin only recently in the Surbiton tournament, while Khe Sim-ke, China's first ranking player, secured a magnificent victory in the Bournemouth Hardcourt Championship Final.

Punee and Roderick Menzel, of Czechoslovakia, H. Henkel of Germany, Christian Bouszus, (France)

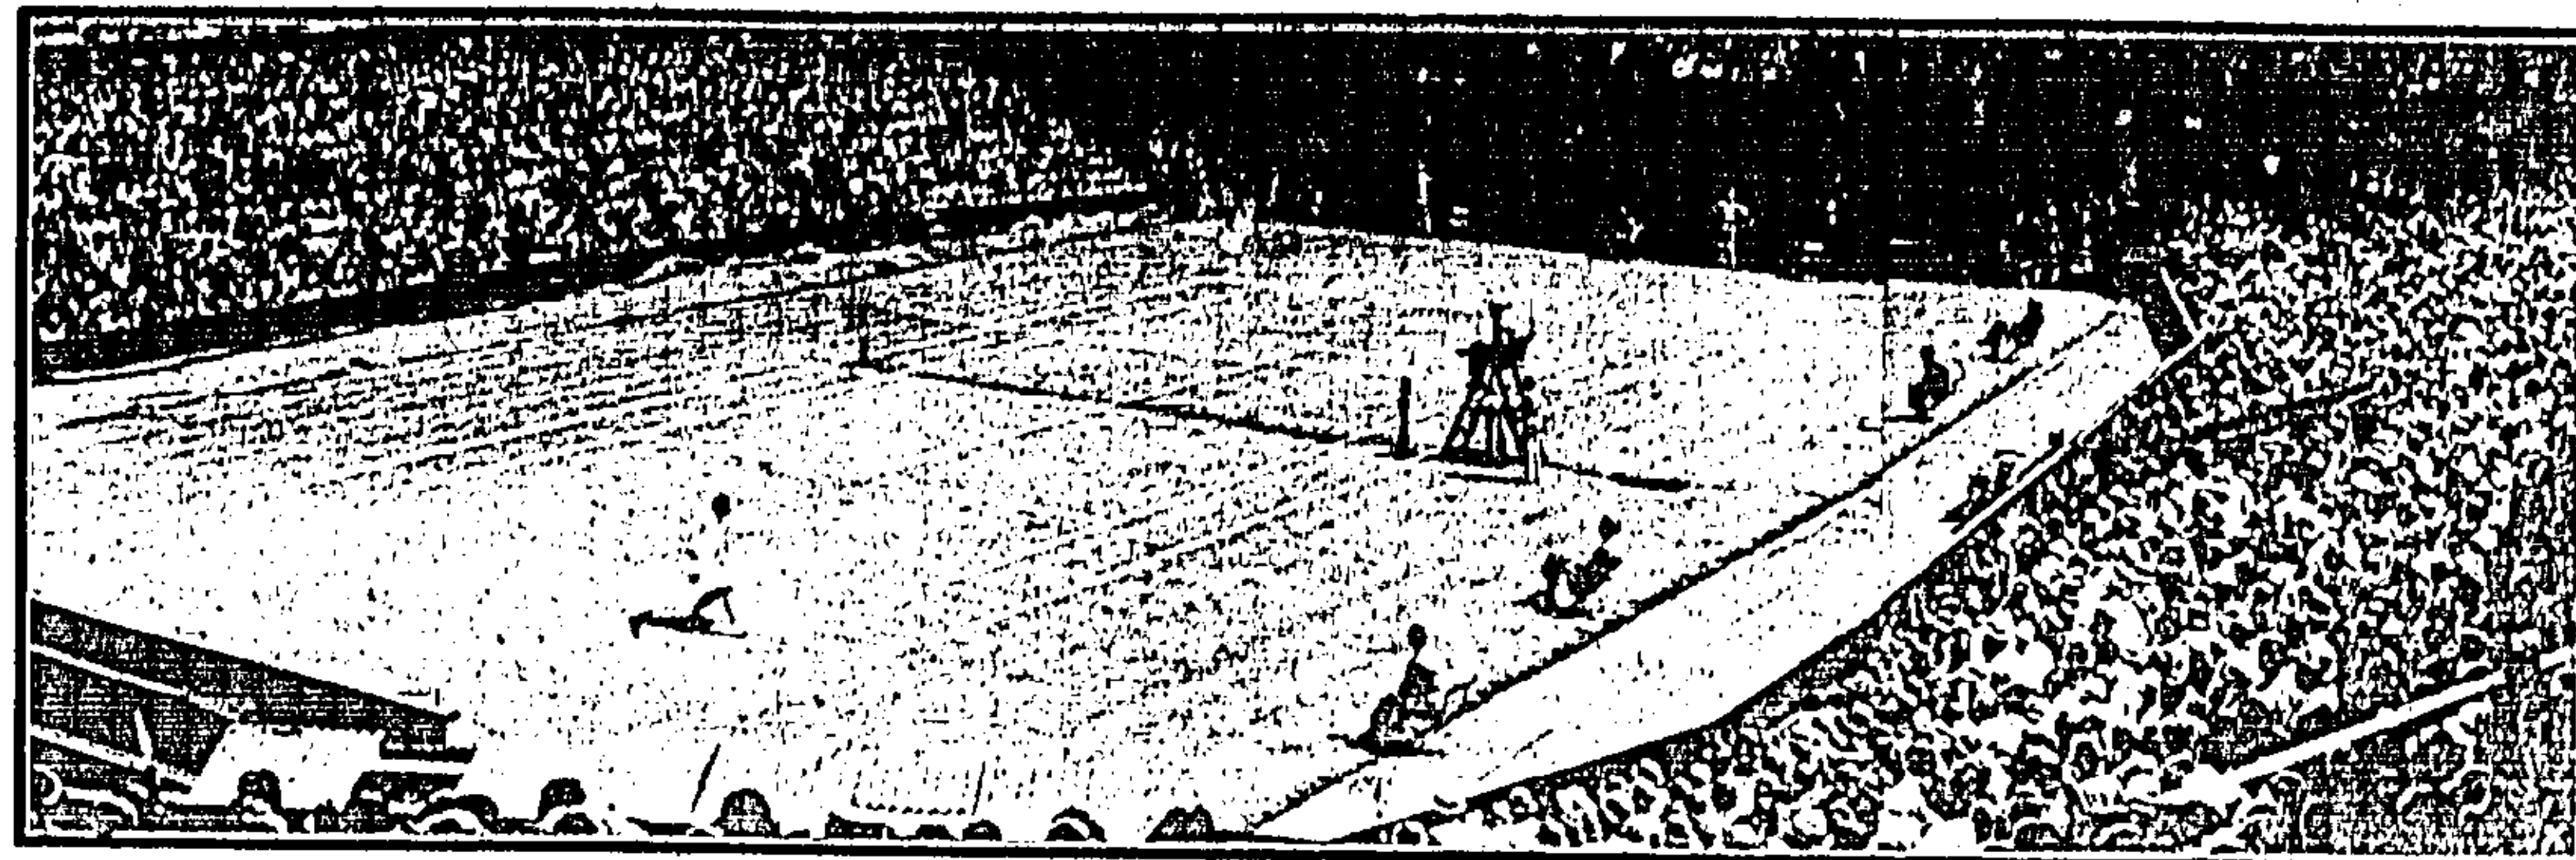

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Much more interest will be centred on the Women's singles and doubles events in view of the very strong Empire and foreign challenge.

While the favourite for the Men's Championship is almost certain to retain his title, the women's singles this year has drawn many candidates with an equal chance.

Mrs. Wills-Moody, who is staging a comeback in an attempt to set a world record of eight Wimbledon singles titles, has already won several tournaments at home, but she has by no means had her own way, being beaten on one or two occasions quite recently. Her biggest setback occurred on June 2, when she was eliminated from the St. George's Hill Tournament, at Weybridge, by Miss Alice Marble, who won by 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 in the Fourth Round.

A general view of Wimbledon's famous Centre Court, which will be in use to-morrow when Donald Budge plays his First Round singles match. In the above picture Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, the winner, and Mrs. Dorothy Round-Little, far court, are seen fighting out the epic 1933 Final, when Miss Round won the second set to shatter Mrs. Moody's straight sets triumph at Wimbledon.

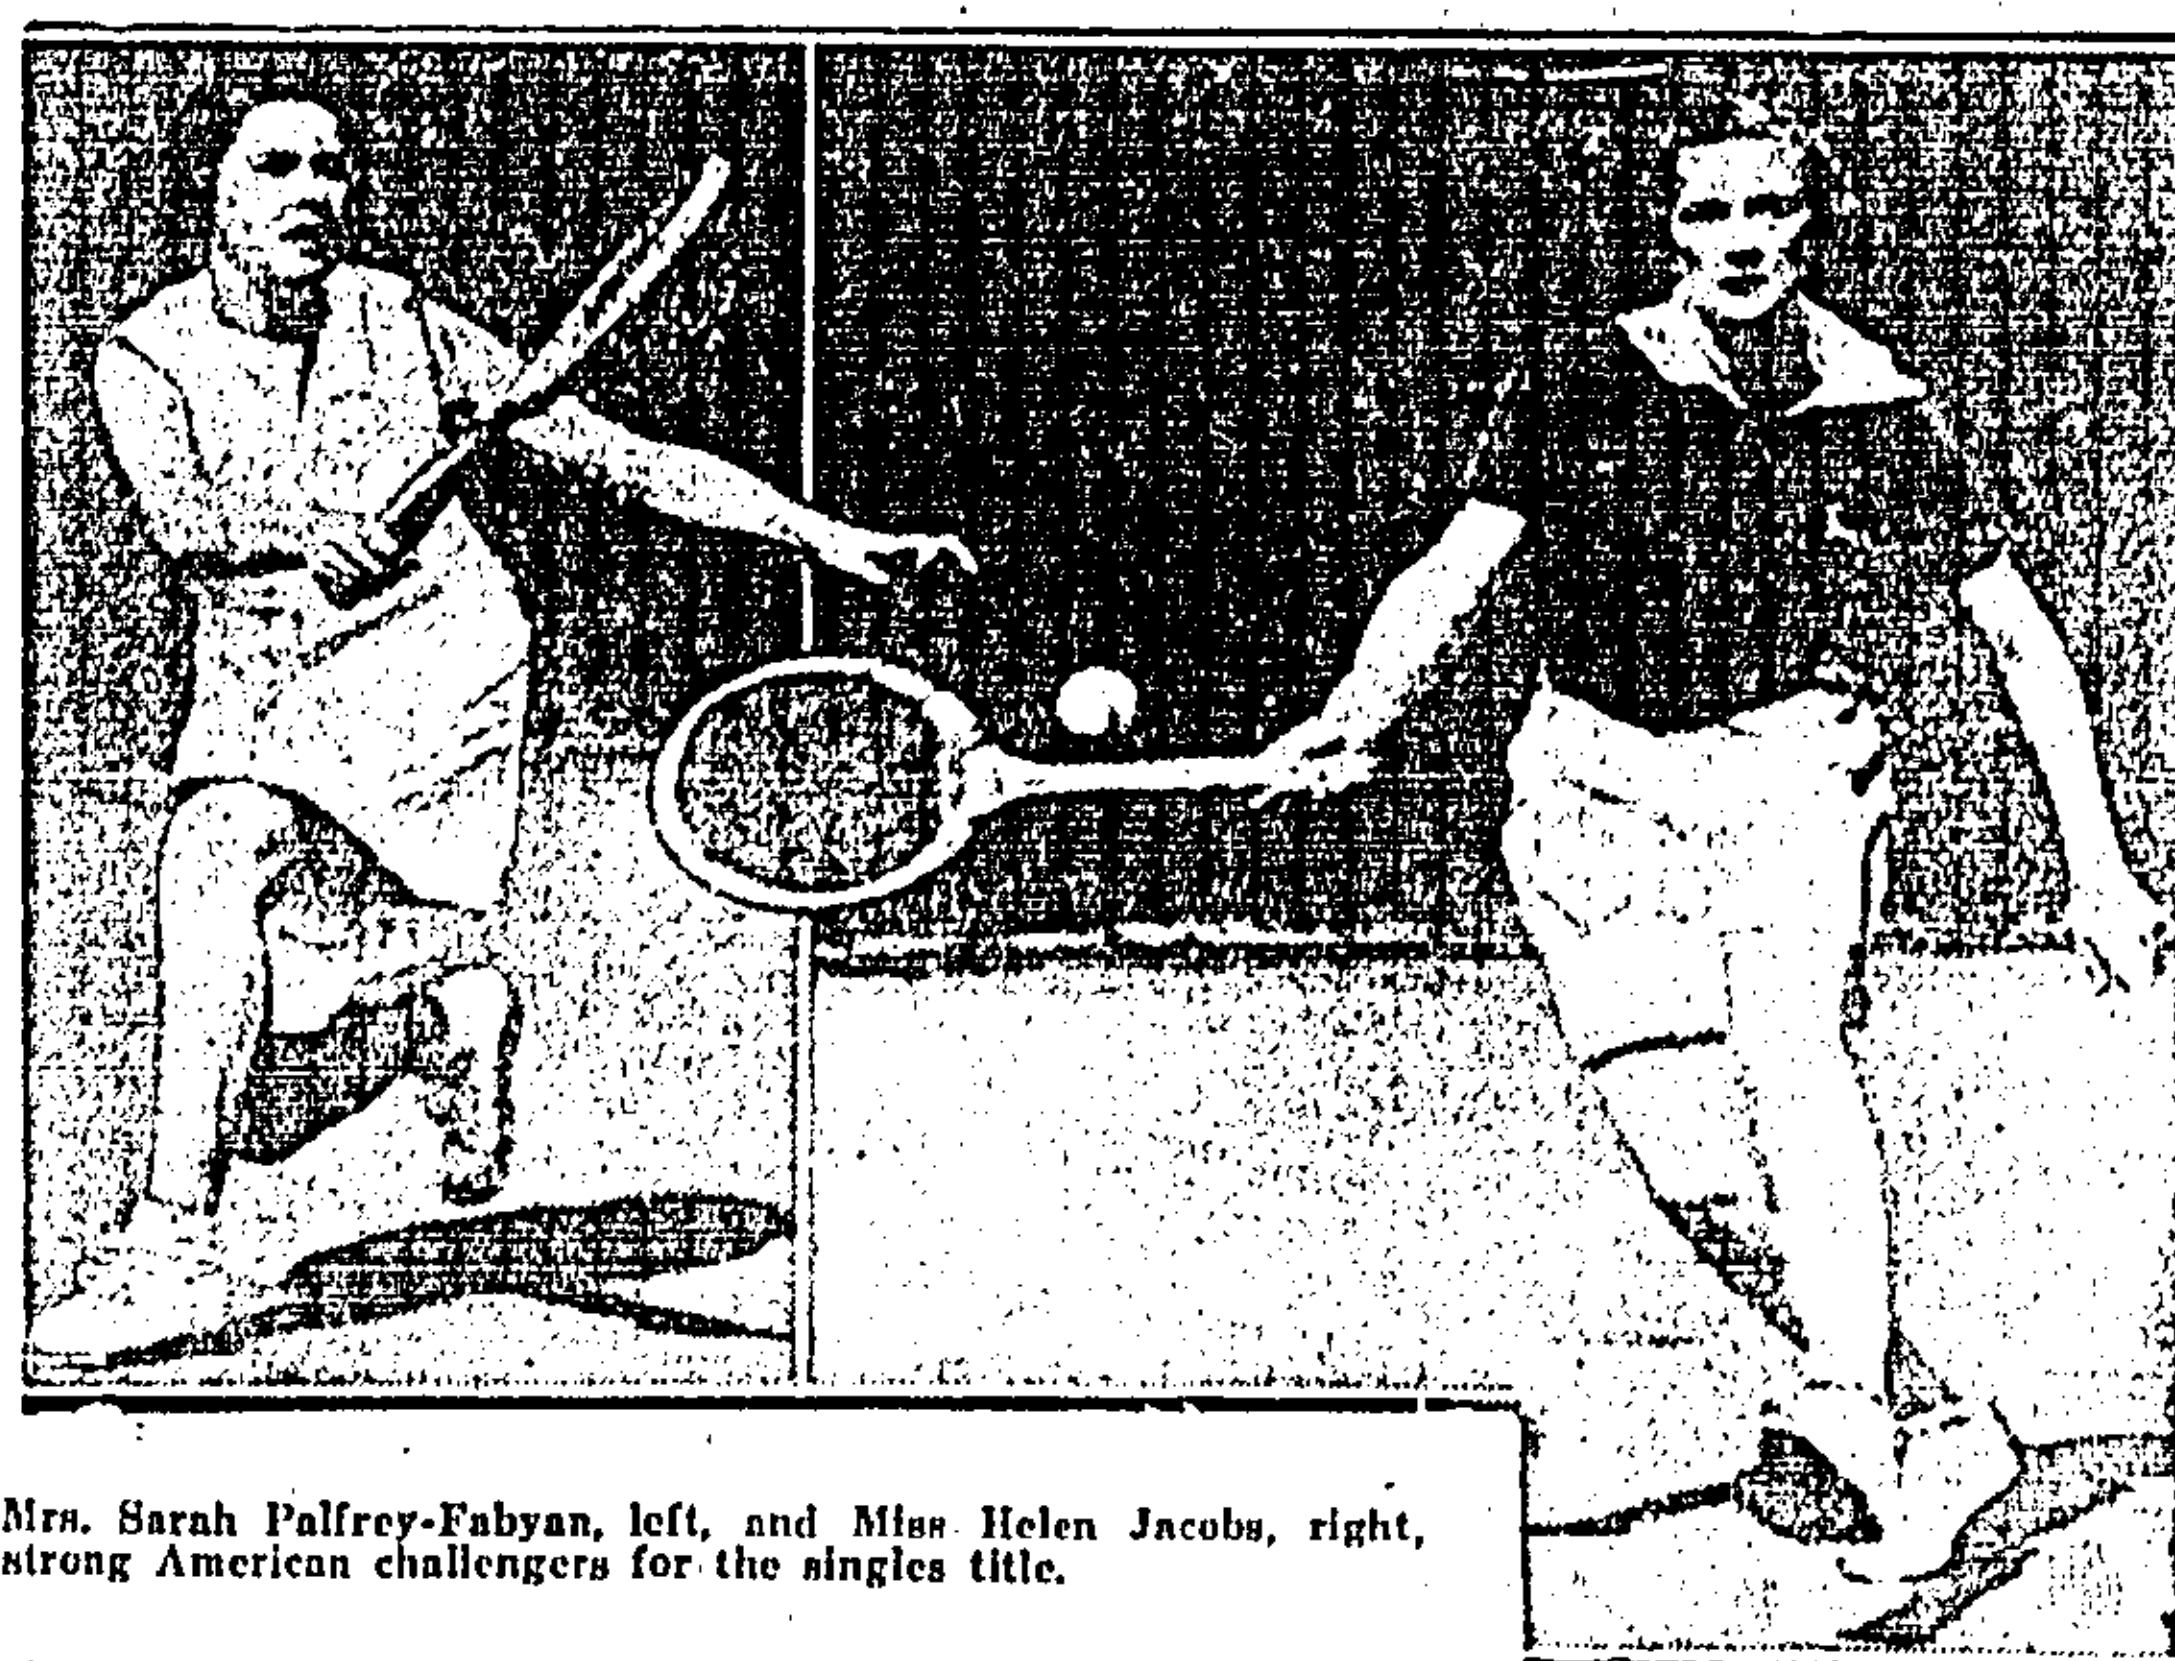

Miss Alice Marble, seen here in play, was captain of the triumphant U. S. Wightman Cup team.

Miss Mary Hardwick, who won by 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 in the Fourth Round.

Another very strong challenger is Mrs. Sperling (Denmark), who held the French Championship for three successive years, reaching the Final on each occasion without conceding a set.

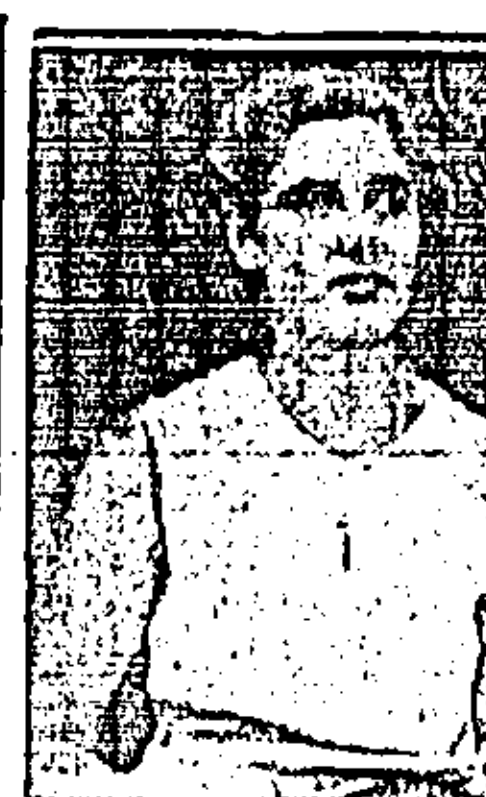

On Friday last Mrs. Sperling caused a minor sensation in the London Championships, at Queen's Club, when she beat Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody in the Semi-Final Round by 8-6, 6-2.

Senorita Anita Lizana, the world's first ranking player, has not had a very good season to date and has yet to record a win in a major tournament. Last season she won the American title without the loss of a set, a magnificent achievement in view of the stout opposition she encountered. Her main British competitors are Miss Mary Hardwick, conqueror of Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, and Miss Margaret Lumb, who is probably the most improved player of the year.

Miss Kay Stammers, who beat Miss Alice Marble in the Wightman Cup series, Miss Freda James, who beat Senorita Lizana in the first round of the Wimbledon Championships, and the present holder of the Australian Championship, Mrs. Helen Jacobs, former Wimbledon champion, has not been in the best of health since her arrival in the South of France, and did not participate in the Wightman Cup series. She has entered for the event, but her chances are by no means bright.

KAY STAMMERS

M. E. (Peggy) Scriven, winner of the Bournemouth Hardcourt Championship, in which she beat Miss Nancy Wynne, of Australia.

POLISH HOPE

Miss J. Jedzejowska (Poland), runner-up to Mrs. Little (Miss Dorothy Round) last year at Wimbledon, is another strong challenger for the title. It will be recalled that in last year's event she eliminated Miss Alice Marble in the Semi-Finals, following a brilliant display. This season she has not been very much in the public eye, although she participated in the Middlesex Championships, where she proved much too strong for Miss Gem Honking, Hong Kong-born Chinese girl. Miss Jedzejowska has twice been in the "casualty ward" this year, but is now reported to be fit enough for her Wimbledon quest.

The American Wightman Cup team have several formidable challengers, among whom is Miss Alice Marble former American champion. Miss Marble is said to have improved considerably in her ground shots and is much stronger in physique.

Another notable entry from America is Miss Dorothy Bundy, conqueror of Miss Alice Marble in the American Senorita Anita Lizana, seeking her first Wimbledon title.

1937 WIMBLEDON CHAMPIONS

Men's Singles: J. D. Budge (U.S.A.).
Ladies' Singles: Mrs. D. Little (Australia) (Dorothy Round) (G.B.).
Men's Doubles: J. D. Budge and C. G. Mako (U.S.A.).
Ladies' Doubles: Mme. Mathieu (France) and Miss A. M. Yorke (G.B.).
Mixed Doubles: J. D. Budge and Miss Alice Marble (U.S.A.).
All-England Plate: W. Sabin (U.S.A.).
All-England Ladies' Plate: Miss Freda James (G.B.).

Championships, and the present holder of the Australian Championship. She is playing for the first time in Britain.

Miss Helen Jacobs, former Wimbledon champion, has not been in the best of health since her arrival in the South of France, and did not participate in the Wightman Cup series. She has entered for the event, but her chances are by no means bright.

AUSTRALIAN CHALLENGE

The Australian women have several strong contenders for the title, among whom are Miss Nancy Wynne, finalist in the Bournemouth Hardcourt Championship and conqueror of Senorita Lizana, Miss Thelma Coyne, Australia's second ranking player, Miss R. Stevenson, a very fine singles player and Australian native champion, and Mrs. Harry Hopman, a good doubles player.

South Africa have four women entered, but of these only Mrs. Helene Miller is strong enough to offer a bold challenge. Mrs. Miller, who was expected to reach the last eight in the Middlesex Championships, was surprisingly defeated by Miss Jean Saunders in straight sets.

France have several strong challengers for the title, among these being Mme. Mathieu, recent winner of the French title, and Miss. Hall, a very promising newcomer who reached the Semi-Finals of the French Championship.

DOUBLES EVENTS

The men's and women's doubles events are also likely to provide some interesting play. In the former Bernard Destremau and Yvonne Petra (France), holders of the French title, who only recently beat Budge and Mako, Wimbledon titlists, should give a good account of themselves. They are said to be the best pair produced by France since the days of the "Four Musketeers."

Miss Kay Stammers and Miss Freda James, former Wimbledon champions, have not set the Thames on fire this year, but Miss A. M. Yorke (G.B.) and Mme. Mathieu (France), holders of the Wimbledon title, have considerably enhanced their chances of retaining their title by reason of their brilliant success in the recent French Championships, when they beat Miss. Hall and Mme. Landry (France) in straight sets in the Final.

The Mixed Doubles competition should be a very open affair this year.

The invincible Donald Budge, holder of all the world's leading amateur singles titles, will be defending his title.

SOUTH CHINA AQUATICS

South China A.A. will stage their third swimming gala on Thursday next, commencing at 7 p.m. The programme consists of 11 events, including the following Open races—

Men's 100 Metres Free-Style.
A water-polo match will conclude the programme.

Swimming Interport In Hong Kong Optimistic Note Main Feature Of Correspondence

Providing the unsettled conditions in North China do not take a further turn for the worse, there is every prospect of the Interport Swimming series between Hong Kong and Shanghai, for the Taggart Shield, being resumed.

Mr. D. F. Lopes, Hon. Secretary of the Victoria Recreation Club, and Mr. John Huxley, who captained the last Shanghai team to visit the Colony, and who is now Chairman of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association, have been corresponding with each other for the past month, and the general note struck has been an extremely optimistic one.

The main bugbear at the moment, and a very important one, is the possible venue of the series. Last year Hong Kong should have travelled up to Shanghai, but the War resulted in the cancellation of the invitation.

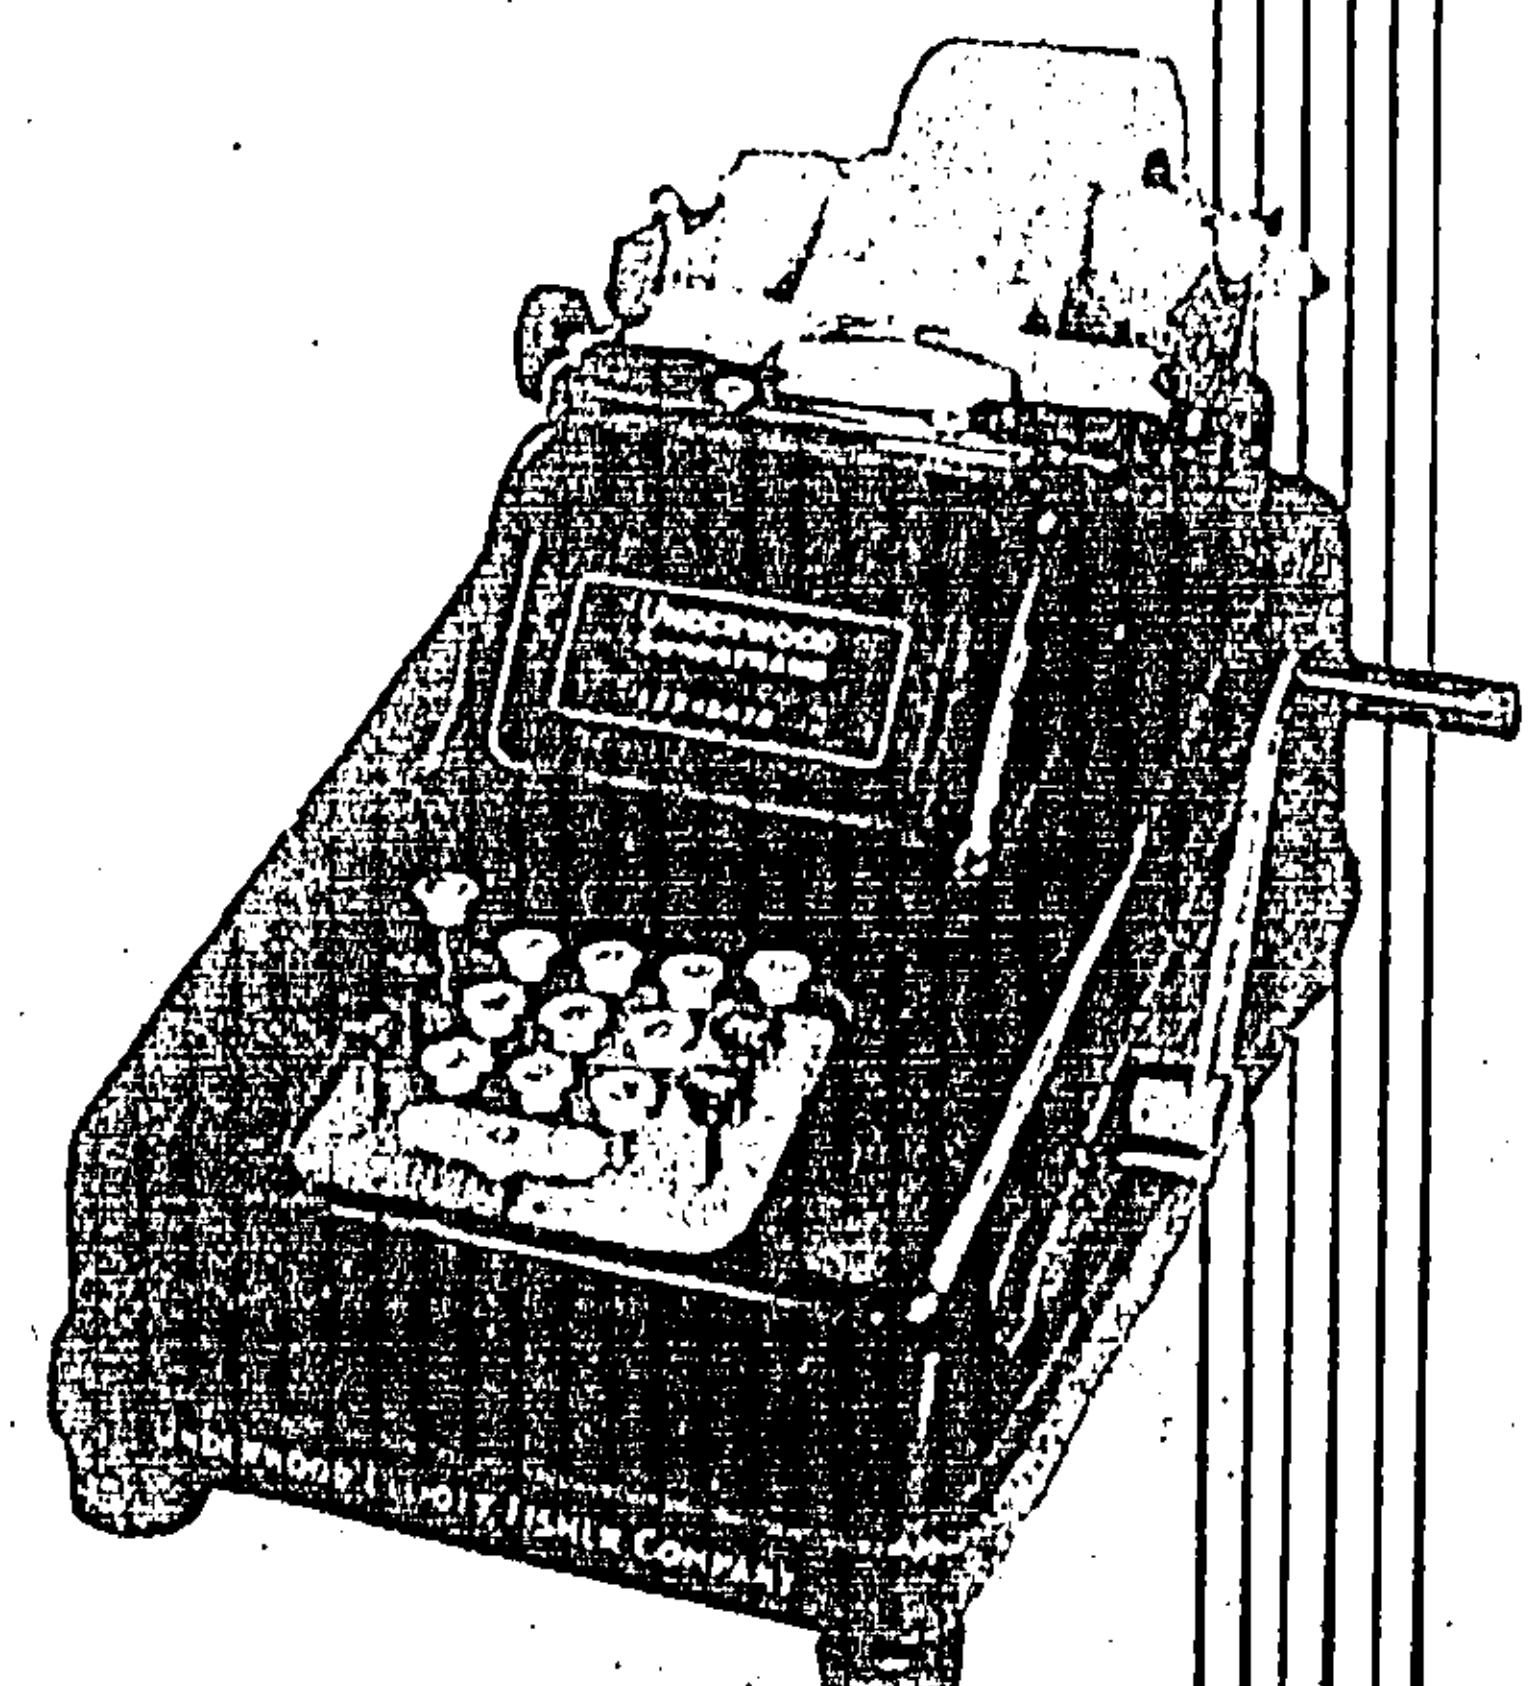

In the Interport Swimming series the visiting team has always been responsible for its own travelling expenses, although all local expenses are guaranteed by the hosts.

In view of the very lean financial time Shanghai has gone through in the past 12 months, probably the best more than a possibility.

Mrs. Dorothy Round-Little, 1934 and 1937 winner, left, and Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, winner in 1927-8-9, 1930, 1932-3 and 1935, right, met in the 1933 Final.

OPEN PAIRS GAMES REVIEWED

Eddie Souza Takes The Spotlight

Open Rinks Tourney
Provides Upsets

The Second Round of the Open Rinks Lawn Bowls competition produced some very close games and not a few surprises, foremost amongst the latter being Eddie Souza's big win over R. W. Bradbury's four. Commencing with some 10 shots or so in the first five heads, the Portuguese four had matters well in hand for the remainder of the game and had more than a dozen to spare at the finish.

With M. A. R. Souza, Joe Landolt, Dick Bana and R. W. Bradbury comprising the rink, it looked as though they would reach the final quite easily but on that day the Third Division quartette were full value for their win. "Eddie" himself being the best of the lot.

The holders, J. R. Soares, J. W. Leonard, L. C. R. Souza and C. S. Rossetto, were eliminated by a useful rink from Club do Recreio, and the result caused no surprise. The younger Luz, at least, was usually better than Soares, and this had much to do with the King's Park team's win.

Another prominent rink to go down was Bob Duncan's four, whom it was thought would be able to hold Joe Fraser's rink, but the latter won by half a dozen. Sam Randle's rink also looked good for another round or two, but met their match against L. A. Gutierrez's four.

U. M. Omar and George Sherriff had a close game with the former defeating the spoils by a small margin. "U. M." was in brilliant form, but his brother "A.M.", his right-hand man, was not at all good.

POLICE FOUR DO WELL
Ellis's Police quartette did quite well to enter the third round at the expense of W. R. Kraggenover's team. The Police four stuck valiantly to their task and had a margin of four shots at the finish.

A. R. Dallas had struck a bad patch and very wisely allowed A. K. Minu to whip him, whilst he became No. 3. The change was a success, and the rink always had the better of Tom Stinton's Talook four.

FINCHER'S PLUCKY DISPLAY
F. X. Silva and Teddy Fincher had a battle royal on Sunday morning the score going to 20-11 at the 20th head before Recreio's four managed to win. This match attracted a large number of spectators and Recreio's supporters were there in good numbers to cheer on their Club-mates.

Fincher was in splendid form again, and was much better than his opponent, who had much to thank his front men for, Machado being especially prominent.

Jack Denkin's team from the C.S.C.C. appeared to dominate J. G. Meyer's Kowloon Bowling Green Club four in a mediocre game at Cranleigh, but the surprise would have been in going to score nine in the last four heads to snatch a narrow win.

TWO GAMES POSTPONED
"Joek" McKelvie had an easy time

FRASER AND PHILLIPS SECURE THREE AT LAST END TO WIN BY ONE!

Good progress is being made with the Open Pairs Lawn Bowls competition, several games having taken place this past week. At Club do Recreio last Monday four matches were staged but in only one, that between M. Ferguson and T. Coleman, and W. McFarland, of Police, was a close result achieved.

The Dock pair won by five shots and were just about worth their victory, but Syd Eccleshall and George Sherriff, of the Civil Service Cricket Club, could do little against George Norman, who was in great form, and Joe Meyer of Kowloon Bowling Green Club. The former scored on only five heads, but, remarkable to note, secured a six amongst these. Two Sams, White and Randle, had a practice match against an Indian Recreation Club pair, who secured a count of 8 in their tally of 12, which their opponents just trebled.

On the Police green, the same evening, A. W. Hodges and A. Brookbank had a close match before eliminating a Kowloon Cricket Club pair in A. A. Dand and L. Jack, but F. V. V. Ribeiro and Dick Alves never had to worry about the result of their game against H. E. Edwards and D. Fitcher, of the Hong Kong Football Club.

CLOSE ENCOUNTER
The latter club was the venue of a good match, from a spectator's point of view, when Ted Post and Carey of Police, met R. P. Phillips and Joe Fraser, who entered from Kowloon Bowling Green Club. The standard of bowling was not very high as regards the leads, but the players were continually changing the leads.

Joe Fraser was drawing well on both hands and trailed the Jack on more than one occasion with perfect accuracy. Joe Carey, on one very notable occasion, did likewise to secure a useful count.

There was an exciting finish as at the 10th the Police pair were winning 22-18. On the next head Phillips drew the first shot and Fraser dropped another in and they counted three.

On the last head, Post had two shots only for Phillips to draw the first shot. Carey, attempting a dead draw, turned one of Phillips's woods in for second shot whilst Fraser blocked. Carey just missed by an inch and the Kowloon players drew a third. Up came Carey again, just missing by a fraction with both of his last woods. Fraser, in the meantime having endeavoured to block again. Three shots to Fraser and a bright finish.

BASA'S WINNING SHOT
Dick Bana, and his partner had a severe shaking up against a couple of novices from Club do Recreio and were only able to save the game by against H. A. do B. Botelho, as did C. G. Silva, who eliminated Zimmerman's four by a dozen shots, whilst the matches between Dick Alves and Bert Muskett, and A. J. Hall and E. el Arculli were postponed owing to heavy rain. Dick used green paint for play. A veritable deluge descended in that district during the morning, whereas most other places had only a heavy shower and although every effort was made to declare the ground fit, it would have been unwise to both the green and the players to have done so. These two games will be played on the same green this afternoon.

Bowls Rule VI To Apply In League & All Contests

At a meeting of the H.K.L.B.A. Competitions Sub-Committee last Friday it was decided, as a result of an incident which occurred in a pairs match recently, that Rule No. 6 of the International Bowling Board shall be respected in all competitions, whether they be League or otherwise.

The rule is printed in full below:

VI—THE MAT

1. At the beginning of the first head, the player to play first shall place the mat in the centre of the rink, the back of the mat being one yard from the ditch, and in all the subsequent heads the leader of the rink which won the immediate preceding head shall place the mat. It shall, however, be in his option to lay the mat (1) at the place where the Jack lay at the finish of the head, if that place be in the centre of the rink; (2) or if the place be not in the centre of the rink, then in a line straight across to the centre thereof; (3) or between where the Jack lay at the finish of the head and any place in the centre of the rink so that the mat shall be not less than 1 yard from the ditch; but also (4) if the Jack, at the finish of a head, lies in the ditch, or less than 1 yard from it, the mat shall, in beginning the new head, be placed 1 yard from the ditch. On all occasions there must be a clear distance of not less than 27 yards between where the front of the mat is placed and the ditch at the opposite end, paces being placed in the banks to indicate these distances.

2. The mat shall not be moved from its place until the head is finished, except when the Jack is thrown into the ditch, or outside the boundary of the rink, or less than 25 yards from the mat placed more than a yard from the ditch behind. In any of these events the opposing player shall have the right of moving the mat as though he or his side had won the previous head, and to a distance not less than 1 yard from the ditch, as above provided.

Should a player, however, inadvertently move the mat from its place, it shall be restored to its original position. The size of the mat shall be 22 by 14 inches and must be laid with its longer side parallel with the line of play.

3. Each player, when delivering his bowl, must have one foot in contact with and entirely within the confines of the mat. Should a player, after warning, persist in infringing this Law, the Umpire shall order his bowl to be stopped and removed to the bank.

The incident referred to above, occurred when a well-known player inquired that the right of laying the mat rested with the losing lead. This is definitely wrong, but the fact that it has been the habit in the past for losing leads to lay the mat may have led the player astray.

Fisticuffs At Baseball League Encounter

Indians Beat Club 6 To 2

One of the most interesting baseball games this season was witnessed at Caroline Hill yesterday when the Indians defeated Hong Kong Baseball Club by 6 runs to 2, but the afternoon was marred by an unfortunate incident in which two players resorted to fisticuffs.

The regrettable incident occurred after Hussain had collided heavily with Smith at third base, wounding him and causing him to drop the ball. Hussain then scored. Waggoner, who seemed to resent the heavy charge, Hussain had given Smith and as the former was walking away a dispute arose, culminating in Hussain being hit on the nose, which bled freely. Both players were separated by members of the teams, and Hussain was taken off the field to have his nose attended to. Hussain later made a furious attack on the unsuspecting Waggoner, who was reclining on a bench nearby, but fortunately neither player was hurt.

It was only after some delay that the Indians consented to continue with the game. Hussain's place was taken by A. K. Omar.

There were several managers of other teams present at this game, and it is understood that a meeting will be called for an investigation into this incident as it is felt that there must be some measure of control over the players.

CLUB START WITH RUSH
The Club, as usual, started in grand style and from the outset registered three hits in the first innings to score two runs, but after that they fell away and were blanketed for the rest of the game.

S. Bux, at centre field, again proved his worth and brought off several good catches besides figuring in a good double play with Hussain. Kitchell fumbled a fly at right field early in the game, but after he was transferred to left field he was in the limelight with a spectacular catch close to the bank, and in the next innings he brought off another good catch.

There was little wrong with the Club team. From the very start they played good baseball. Their fielding left little to be desired, Walker being very safe at right field, while the infield, with Relatiner at short, stop was good. Smith was perhaps slightly weak at third base, but he made no errors in that position and was instrumental in one of the best double plays of the afternoon.

The only serious error of the game was when Joyce, at second base, failed to hold a throw from Madigan, with the result that the two basemen scored.

The following are the detailed scores.

SUGGESTIONS

IT IS SUGGESTED THAT WE BUILD BARRACKS SIMILAR TO AN OLYMPIAD VILLAGE FOR THE REFUGEES.

BUT JAPAN IS ALREADY DOING IT. SO WHY NOT?

OR PERHAPS WE COULD BUILD MATSHEDS FOR 'EM.

I REFUSE TO ACT LIKE A REFUGEE! WE'LL SELL IT.

BUT THINK WHAT WOULD HAPPEN AT REPULSE!

SEND 'EM UP THERE!

THEN THERE'S THE SUGGESTION THAT WE DEPORT ALL OUR UNDESIRABLES.

— WONT THERE BE ANYBODY LEFT? —

— BUT THERE CAN'T BE ALL THAT NUMBER OF REFUGEES.

SOMEONE WANTS TO KNOW WHERE THE STREETSLEEPERS LIVE DURING THE DAY— HE'LL FIND OUT

IF HE TRIES TO GET ON A TRAM!

DUNCAN'S FOUR RECOVER WELL TO FORCE TIE AT VALLEY

K.F.C. ONLY LEADER TO HOLD POSITION

RECREIO, Senior League Bowls champions, caused a surprise yesterday when they beat Craigengower by 4 shots on their own green to avenge their home defeat by 8 shots on the opening day of the season. Their win has given them the leadership of the division, though Craigengower have a game in hand and a more impressive shots up record.

R. Bass beat R. F. Luz by 7 shots and U. M. Omar beat H. A. Alves by one shot and it was left to F. X. M. Silva, leading skip, and P. W. Bradbury to decide the issue at the last two ends. Leading 22-9 at the 18th, Silva conceded a four to allow Craigengower to creep up to within one of the Recreio total, but the visiting skip scored a two at the next end and a single at the last, despite a good effort by Bradbury to carry the jack.

Another exciting finish was witnessed at the Valley, where Bob Duncan, 14-1 down at the 7th end, recovered brilliantly to beat G. Sherriff 19-17 and so enable Kowloon Bowling Green to force a tie with the Civil Servants. Requiring a three at the last end to give his side victory, Duncan secured a couple.

Recreio were given a surprise in the Second Division, Football Club "B" securing a well deserved win by 13 shots to enable K.B.G.C. to secure the leadership of this division. Kowloon Football Club continued in winning vein, beating Craigengower by 10 shots, and seem assured of the title.

F. X. M. Silva recorded his eighth successive win as a skip, Teddy Fincher is still unbeaten, P. X. Soares is still leading the Second Division skips, but W. Gill lost valuable ground when he was beaten 41-14 by G. C. Moss. E. Tuck also lost for the first time this season. In the Third Division W. V. Field retained his 100 per cent. record, and H. Nish who lost for the first time last week was beaten 19-14 by R. A. Trenchard.

Sixes were recorded by: G. E. F. Thompson, who beat R. R. Wood by 19 shots; T. F. Stainton, who, despite 1, 4, 0, 1, 2 at a burst, lost to J. Cavanagh by 3 shots.

Don Bradman, the Australian Test cricket captain, completed his 1,000 runs at Southampton on May 27, the first player to do so this season. He accomplished the feat on the same ground in 1930, and so sets up a world's record in twice securing his 1,000 before the end of May. Our photograph shows the smiling Don, right, leaving the field after completing his 1,000 runs. (Copyright, Fox).

Hussain Impresses At V.R.C. Gala

An excellent swimming gala was held at the Victoria Recreation Club swimming pool last night when a series of Members' handicap and novelty races were decided, the outstanding feature of which being the excellent handicapping which prevailed throughout.

Although none of the V.R.C.'s leading swimmers were seen in action during the handicap events, the newcomers, and particularly A. Hussain, the well-known Saints' soccer player, were very much in the limelight.

One of the most amazing swims was witnessed in the Members' "B" Class 220 Yards free-style event, in which A. K. Rumjahn, employing the backstroke throughout, won comfortably, although he received 22 seconds handicap from J. M. Calvert, who came third after a plucky attempt to catch the leaders.

Miss I. Lopes, who won the Ladies' 50 Yards handicap event, has improved greatly and has cut nearly four seconds off her time since last year—an amazing performance. Starting from scratch with Miss Doris Hunt, she won with two feet to spare—a fine achievement.

The water-polo match was very happy, resulting in a win for Whites over Blues by 8 goals to 7. Scorers for Whites were L. Rozza, Perolira (4), A. A. Gutierrez (2), J. M. Calvert and H. L. Ozorio (own goal), while scorers for Blues were W. Lawrence (3), J. D. Remedios (2) and Stanley Lee (2).

The teams were:
Whites:—M. M. Soares; A. Hussain and L. A. Soares; J. M. Calvert; L. Rozza; Perolira, E. M. Marques

To Tea On Sunday

A YOUTH of eighteen was going to his girl's home for the first time. He had been invited to tea on Sunday afternoon.

He was rather nervous. He was paler than usual and kept moistening his lips and swallowing a lump in his throat.

Several times he glanced at himself in the mirror, fingered his necktie, and flicked specks of dust from his new navy-blue suit, eyes, and a slightly upturned nose.

His mother knew that he had something on his mind; but although she had twice asked him what was wrong with him he had both times said, "Nothing."

The youth, whose name was Harold Penley, had not yet told his mother where he was going. He had not told her that he had a girl at all. He had repeatedly made up his mind to do so, but although he had had plenty of opportunities he had kept putting it off.

He would not be able to put it off much longer, however, because soon he would have to tell his mother that he was going out to tea; she would ask him where he was going, and then he would have to tell her about Rose.

He wondered what she would say. She would be surprised, of course; perhaps even shocked. She might be angry. She might object, forbid him to go. This thought at first horrified him. Then he made a bold decision. He had never disobeyed his mother before, but on this occasion he would.

He looked at the clock again. It was ten minutes to four. He would have to tell her now. He must leave in five minutes. He had arranged to meet Rose at four o'clock.

He looked at his mother sitting by the fire reading the Sunday newspaper. How was he to tell her about Rose? How was he to begin? If only she would ask him where he was going, he could tell her.

Mrs. Penley appeared to be very interested in an article in the newspaper. He looked at the title of it, printed in large black type. It was, "YEAR-OLD WIFE DIVORCES BARONET."

Suddenly, as he looked at the newspaper, he had an idea. He went into the hall. When he returned he had his overcoat on and held his hat in his hand. He cleared his throat. His mother looked up and saw him.

"Where are you going, Harold?" she asked.

"Where to?"

"To Mrs. Harper's."

"Mrs. Harper's? I don't know her, do I?"

"No."

"Who's Mrs. Harper?" She had lowered the newspaper to her knees and was looking with curiosity at him.

"What should he say? How should he answer her? He could not think clearly.

"Who's Mrs. Harper?" his mother repeated.

"I've got a girl!" blurted out, all at once.

He had said it. He had told her. He watched her closely for sign. Her expression did not alter; only her eye-brows twitched ever so slightly.

"A girl?" she said. She was smiling at him. "Is she nice?"

He nearly wept with relief. "Yes! She's ever so nice! You'd like her ever so much; I'm sure you would!"

"You must bring her to see me. You're going to her home to tea?"

"Yes!"

"Why didn't you tell me about this before?"

He looked down at the floor, at the toes of his shoes.

"Well—I—"

"I know." She lifted the newspaper again. "You'd better be going, hadn't you?"

He nodded. He told her that he would not be late coming home. Then he went quickly out.

His heart sang as he walked. It was spring; the sun shone and the trees were breaking into bud.

As Rose approached him he began to feel awkward. She was looking straight at him and smiling faintly. He did not know which way to turn his eyes. He looked at the ground, across the road.

They met. He raised his hat and solemnly shook hands with her. Rose was seventeen. She was small and pretty, with straight black hair, large dark eyes, and a slightly upturned nose.

"You're early, aren't you?" she said, as she turned about and linked her arm in his.

"Yes, I am a bit," he replied.

He had not yet become accustomed to the nearness of her. When she took his arm his heart began to beat fast again, just as it had done earlier in the afternoon when he was telling his mother about her.

They walked in silence. In three minutes they had reached the house.

"Come on," said Rose, and led the way in.

They went in through the front door, down the narrow hall to the living-room. Before entering the room, Harold took off his hat and coat to hang them on a hook. He was so nervous now that he dropped his hat. Rose bent down and picked it up before he himself could do so. This made him more self-conscious than ever. He began to perspire.

Rose opened the living-room door.

Harold wondered how she would introduce him to her parents. She would say, he thought, "This is my friend, Mr. Penley," or "This is Harold," and he would say, "How do you do?" to each of them and shake hands with them.

He was not at all prepared for what actually happened. Rose opened the door and cried, "Here he is!" and Harold followed her into the room to find four pairs of eyes turned on him and no word spoken.

He stood just inside the room, a pace or so away from the door, which the girl had closed behind her, and stared back, his eyes moving quickly from one to the other. His mouth was open. He looked astonished and bewildered.

For a moment he was shocked and a little frightened. He had a horrible feeling that he was caught, trapped, that no matter what happened now he could not escape.

"Come on!" cried Rose. She took his hand and led him, still looking bewildered, across the room. "Here's mother," and before he could speak, "This is father"—waving her hand.

"That's Tom and that's Joan."

"Sit down, Harold," said Mrs. Harper. She was a plump, rosy-checked little woman, very pleasant-looking; she had on a starched white apron. Mr. Harper was tall and gaunt; he was reading a newspaper and smoking a briar pipe; he took the pipe from his mouth and said, "Nice out."

Tom, Rose's brother, resembled his father; he was about twenty-five years of age; and Joan, his fiancée, whom Harold instantly disliked, was a doll-like blonde.

These two, who were seated on the couch, seemed to be entirely wrapped up in each other and took scarcely any notice of him.

Harold sat down on a chair by the window.

"You'll have to excuse me," said Rose. "I must help mother

Harold smiled and nodded at her, but did not speak. Rose put a flowered apron over her dress and began to spread butter on the pieces of bread that her mother she looked up and smiled or winked at him. Mr. Harper occasionally took his pipe from his mouth and made some remark about the state that the country was in.

LESLIE HALWARD

"He had pins and needles in his legs and feet, but when Rose asked him if she was heavy he said, gallantly, 'Oh, no!' so she stayed where she was."

"No," said Harold, "I wish I had."

"Come and see mine," said Tom. They went outside. At the bottom of the garden there was a shed in which the motor-cycle was kept. They went in and looked at it. Harold knew a lot about motor-cycles. Over the motor-cycle they became quite friendly. They were in the shed for more than half an hour.

When they got back into the house Rose suggested that they went into the front room. The four young ones did so. Mr. and Mrs. Harper stayed in the living-room.

In the front room there was a piano. Tom asked Harold if he played. "No," said Harold. "I had a few lessons when I was at school, but I wouldn't practise, so mother said it was a waste of money. I wish I could play now."

Joan sat down and played. She played well, though mechanically, without any feeling, as if she could read the notes but did not understand their meaning.

Harold sat down in a low easy chair to listen; and after standing by the piano for a while Rose went and sat on his lap and put her arm round his shoulders.

Harold tried to appear indifferent, if he were used to this, but he had to keep tightening the muscles in his legs in order to stop them trembling.

When Joan had played three or four pieces, Tom said, "Let me have a go now."

YAFFLE Says Keep The Party Clean

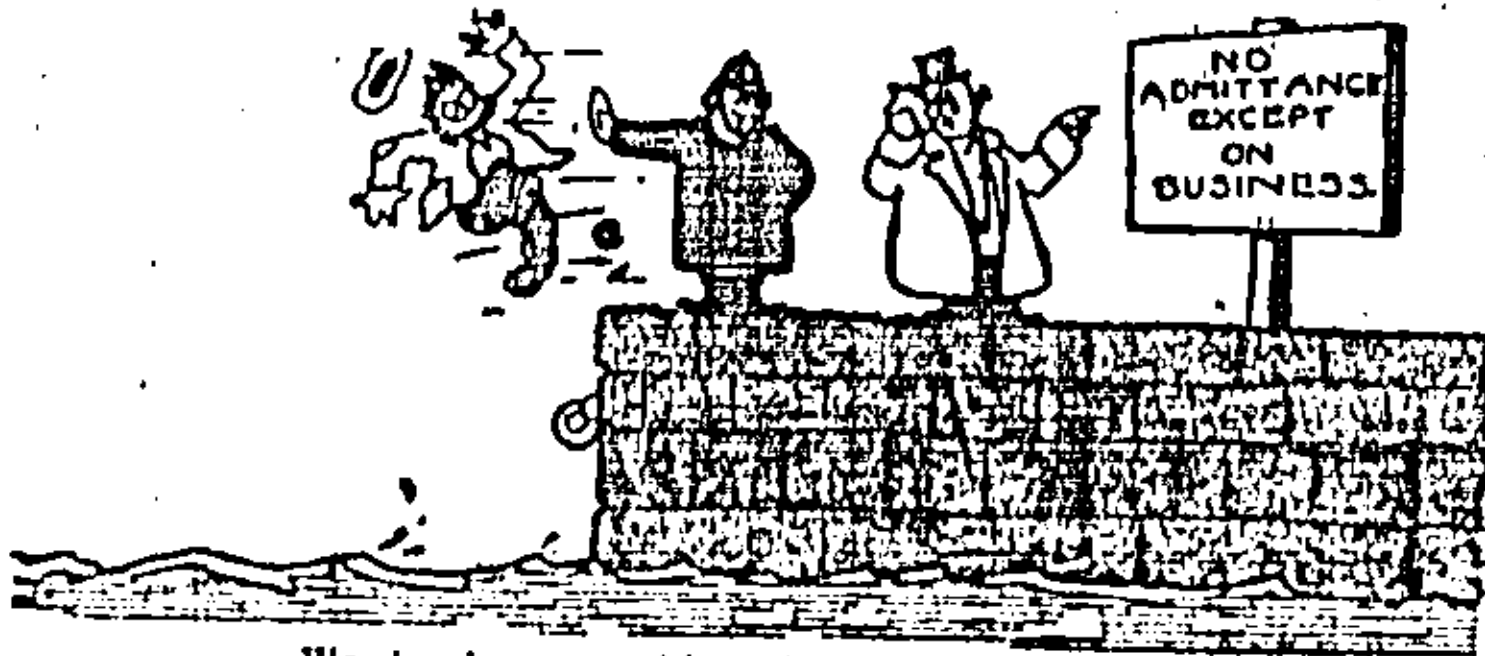

MOST of you—and bless your hearts, one and all—are inclined to worry a trifle about this question of refugees. Should we let them in or keep them out?

Those of us whose heads are long and grey can recall the days when we were proud to know that our island was a sanctuary of refuge from foreign tyranny.

One's eye would flash, one's chest dilate, to think that a Polish Jew escaping from a pogrom, a Russian Socialist escaping from the knout, a Spanish Liberal escaping from the garrote, and even an Italian organ-grinder escaping from the "Evening Standard" says in a leading article: "We must keep up our shores, breathe again, and said, 'Now I'm safe! Great stuff, this England!'"

But now the Government says this gate-crashing must cease. We are sorry for the refugees, of course. We do not like sending a frightened family back by return of post to the thugs who are waiting for them with rubber truncheons. But we must be practical.

Now this may look like a change in policy. We have generally attributed our remarkable virtues to the fact that we are a very mixed race. For three thousand years, we have been coming over of point to the thugs who are waiting for them with rubber truncheons. But we must be practical.

We deeply sympathize with refugees, but...

We must not allow our sentiment to blind us to the economic difficulties of altruism. We cannot afford refugees. We are not so rich as we were. Unscrupulous foreigners have spoiled our export trade, our capital, our land, and we can no longer afford to have a feed and house our own. Charity begins at home. We will do when we have turned corner. We are still, of course, the land free. But we've been late. And if we aren't careful with it, there won't be enough to go round. So henceforth, when a weary survivor, shipwrecked in a sea of Your liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels, the blood in your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those famous Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up".

To Tea On Sunday

So Tom began to vamp and flow of conversation the whole of the time.

Directly after supper Tom took Joan home, as they had a long way to go. When they went, Tom said to Harold, "So long. I expect I shall be seeing you again," and Harold said, "I expect you will."

At ten o'clock Harold said that he had better be going also. Rose fetched his overcoat and hat out of the hall. He put on his overcoat and shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Harper, thanked them, and said that he had enjoyed himself very much indeed. Rose went with him to the front door to see him off.

He told Rose again how he had enjoyed himself and asked her if she thought her parents and her brother liked him. She said that of course they did, that no one could help liking him. He kissed her twice, then shook hands with her, and left.

When he got home he told his mother what nice people the Harpers were, and what a good time he had had. He went upstairs, quickly undressed, and got into bed. He sank contentedly down on the pillow and closed his eyes. He began to think over all that had happened during the day.

He thought particularly of Rose, how pretty and dainty she was, how she had sat on his lap, how she had squeezed his knee. He sighed happily, turned over on to his side, and composed himself for sleep.

Then suddenly, from nowhere, came the terrifying thought that he was trapped, that whatever happened now he could not escape. He broke into a cold sweat. He tried to dismiss the thought from his mind but could not do so, and it was long after midnight when at last, he sank into a troubled sleep.

There was cold beef for supper and coffee to drink. Mr. Harper had a glass of ale Harold ate a big supper and kept up an easy

That Four Hearts Bid

THE only question of the examination that produced more answers in disagreement with my decision than answers in support of it was No. 10. This was no surprise to me. The question was a tough one, included deliberately to test tactics. This question was:

You are vulnerable; opponents are not. You are South. West deals and the bidding goes as follows:

West North East South
1 spade Double 3 spades ?
Your holding is:
S. 6 5 4 2 H. 9 7 6 5 3
D. K 4 3 C. 7

What call do you make?
The answer was: You should bid four hearts, etc.

Some readers were scandalized at the thought that they should enter the bidding freely at the four level, vulnerable, with only one-half an honour trick in their hand. I can sympathize with their fear of such a bid, but this does not alter the fact that four hearts is the best action available to South. Competitive bidding is by far the most difficult to confine within the rigid bounds of rules and requirements. The situation as set forth in the bidding is just this:

North, vulnerable, against a non-vulnerable team, has doubled the highest ranking suit (spades) for a takeout. East, who certainly would prefer to "lay for" vulnerable opponents if his hand warranted, has tried to shut South out of the bidding. Now, for analysis of South's holding. Quite true, he has only one-half an honour trick. But, for all of that, to describe South's hand as horrible is to be grossly inaccurate. South can virtually see that his hand will fit perfectly with on the head. The danger of this is that it means mixing with foreigners again and uncleaning the holy herd. This is awkward. It seems as if race-purity is a difficult thing to hang on to. No sooner do you get racially pure than you have to start messing yourself up again. Personally, I think we had better postpone perfection until we know how to stop at Pure Being without breaking out into Action. Besides, are we quite certain yet that we have really reached the Abso-billy-lute?

I have a suspicion that we need just a shade more Dutch. Did you notice that one of their teams beat the Arsenal?

ANDREWS LIVER SALT benefits in four ways—

- (1) By emesis—ensuring thorough cleansing and elimination of poisonous waste products.
- (2) By its direct action on the liver and stimulation of the flow of bile necessary for digestion.
- (3) By its moderate stimulating action on the bowel muscles, inducing them to function naturally.

ANDREWS benefits every organ of the body by its tonic, invigorating, but always mild action. Its soothing, laxative effect stimulates the sluggish muscles, while its emetic action completely flushes the bowel and expels poisonous waste products from the body. GEN. UGAKI INDICATES TOKYO HOPE

Tokyo, Yesterday.
The hope that the Nine-Power Pact would be revised, "in keeping with realities in the Far East," was expressed by General Ugaki, the Foreign Minister, during an interview with foreign correspondents yesterday.

The newly-appointed Foreign Minister pointed out that the Treaty had been signed sixteen years ago, while its "important provisions" had been violated by the Chinese.

Should revision of the Pact be undertaken, it would have to be made in consultation with various Powers interested in the Far East.

HAINAN ISLAND
General Ugaki said that the Japanese Government was not "contemplating" occupation of Hainan Island, but even should the island be occupied, it would have "nothing to do" with the Franco-Japanese Treaty of 1907.

Turning to American-Japanese relations, General Ugaki recognised that sentiment in the United States had been stimulated against Japan as result of events in China.

JAPAN AND AMERICA
Japanese feeling against America, he said, aroused to fever pitch by discriminatory immigration legislation in 1924, had improved.

There has been no change in the friendly sentiments of Japan towards America, he stated, expressing the hope that America would come to an "understanding of the prevailing state of affairs in the correct light."

Referring to the internal situation in Japan, the Foreign Minister insisted that he felt that the present constitutional parliamentary structure was "best suited" to the country.

NATIONAL MOBILISATION
The Government did not intend to invoke all the provisions of the National Mobilisation Act, but even should they be enforced because of future developments, the constitutional system would prevail in the nation.

The National Mobilisation Act had not been enacted against any specific country, nor was it necessitated by the seriousness of the hostilities in China or by a threat from the Soviets.

It was a precautionary measure against the possible outbreak of a serious emergency.—Reuter.

Grim Struggle For Key City At Tien Shan

Hankow, Yesterday.
The Japanese continue to advance west of An-king, in the neighbourhood of which city an entire division of their troops is now stated to be concentrated.
A Japanese detachment marching on Tsienshan was, according to last reports, only 12 miles east of that town, where firing could be distinctly heard early yesterday morning.

Meanwhile, telegraphic and telephonic communications between Hankow and Tsienshan have been interrupted, so that the fate of the town is uncertain.

Japanese ships on the Yangtze have apparently not advanced beyond Anking, whence they continue to bombard the southern bank of the river.

Reports from Chinese sources state that the Japanese have made repeated attempts to land troops on the southern bank but so far without success.

HANKOW OPENS RAILWAY Railway communication has been re-opened between Hankow, on the one hand and Chengchow and Loyang, on the Lunghai Railway, on the other.

It is affirmed that the Chinese authorities have made every possible effort to prevent flooding of the Peiping-Hankow Railway and to maintain traffic on that line.

Nothing definite is known here concerning the situation in the flooded area in Honan.—Trans-Ocean.

TIENSHAN STRUGGLE

Hankow, Later.
Fighting in the Anking area has now developed into a struggle for possession of the town of Tien Shan, according to Chinese war news reaching here to-day, and both sides are reported to have ordered up big reinforcements.

Value of Tien Shan lies mainly in the fact that it offers access by road to the mountainous region forming a cordon between the provinces of Hupeh and Anhwei.

One Japanese column, which had been pressing forward along the shores of the Tai Lake, near Tien Shan, has got across to the north bank of the Yangtze, about twenty-five miles west of Anking.

The Japanese are reported to have made further attempts at getting their troops across the Yangtze but, according to Chinese accounts, were beaten off.

WARSHIP ACTIVITY
Meanwhile, Japanese warships operating on the Yangtze have been proceeding slowly west-wards from Anking with the apparent object of finding suitable spots for effecting a crossing of further Japanese troops.

They are shelling both sides of the river as they move up river.
The Chinese river barrier in the neighbourhood of Madang Forts has again been bombed by Japanese aircraft.

The Chinese contend that this bombardment failed to produce any results, whilst on the other hand, Chinese airmen carried out an attack on Japanese warships stationed near Anking, although details of this renewed employment of Chinese aircraft were still lacking this morning.

LUNGHAI FRONT
From the Lunghai front, it is reported here that 2,000 Japanese who tried to push forward from Chungmou, between Chengchow and Kaffeng, and from Yuechi, twelve miles south of Chungmou.

THE LABOUR SITUATION IN GEORGETOWN, WHERE RIOT-ING RECENTLY BROKE OUT BY STRIKERS, IMPROVED TO-DAY.

The trouble began some time ago when workers of two sugar estates demanded revision of rates of pay.

The question was referred to the Labour Department, and an agreement was reached between employers and employees that the matter be decided by two arbitrators, one nominated by each side.

Difficulties arose over the choice of arbitrators, which led to the recent strike.—Reuter.

SPAHIS DISPLAY IN LONDON

London, Yesterday.
Large attendances continue at the International Horse Show at Olympia. The display by the Fifth Algerian Spahis is proving very popular and their sharpshooting at full gallop and picking up of rings and tricolour streamers with sabres while galloping are among the most spectacular features of the show.

The Spahis are to witness the famous ceremony of Changing the Guard at Buckingham Palace on Sunday morning. The children riding pageant at the Show is also proving a favourite item.—

INVESTIGATION OF MONOPOLIES

Washington, Yesterday.
President Roosevelt to-day signed the resolution for investigation of monopolies in the United States.

The investigation will be conducted by a commission of twelve, consisting of Senators, Representatives and delegates from the Departments of Commerce, Labour and Justice, together with representatives of the Treasury, the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities Exchange Commission.

The investigation, recommended in a Presidential message on April 30, is expected to create a basis for wide revision of the Anti-Trust Law.—Reuter.

FRANCO-TURKISH PARLEYS

Paris, Yesterday.
The talks between the General Staffs of France and Turkey regarding the situation in the San-jak of Alexandretta, are reported to be proceeding in a most cordial atmosphere.

It is understood that a settlement of the most essential points is expected to be reached very shortly.—Reuter.

FREE STATE ELECTIONS PASS QUIETLY

Dublin, Yesterday.
The General Election in Eire passed off without incident, and the strength of the poll varied considerably in different parts of the country.

Biggest poll was in Dublin, where upwards of eighty per cent. of the electorate registered their votes, whilst the rural districts made a less impressive showing.

Final results will not be made known until the beginning of next week.

First provisional results, however, will probably be published to-night.

General impression is that these elections have again ended in a dead heat, as it is not expected that Mr. de Valera has succeeded in obtaining the desired absolute majority in the new Dail.

The Labour Party is believed to have done better than in the election but it is difficult to say whether Labour gains have been at the expense of the Flannery or the Cosgrave Party.

Political circles here are considering the possibility of a Coalition between the Cosgrave Party and the Labour Party, which in the Dail was inclined to support Mr.
de Valera.—Trans-Ocean.

RESULT UNCERTAIN
Dublin, Yesterday.
Eire polled to-day in one of the most important elections in years.
There are 1,250,000 voters, of whom half are women.

Whether Mr. de Valera gets a clear majority, is uncertain, as it depends on how Labour polls, and the hostility between Labour and Feanna Fail grows in this election.

The opinion is held that if Mr.
de Valera fails to obtain a majority, there may be another election in October, as there is no inclination for a de Valera-Cosgrave Coalition.

Counting begins to-morrow, and owing to the complicated proportional representation system, the results will not be known before Tuesday.—Reuter.
